Cadillac

Jewels by Van Cleef & Arpels

Finest Expression of Motordom's Highest Ideal !

Only rarely does automotive progress move forward to a degree that allows truly dramatic and significant advancement in every phase of Cadillac quality.

But as you can clearly see, 1957 is such a year.

Never before have Cadillac designers worked such wonders with steel and glass and chrome. The car is beautiful to an unprecedented degree . . . with a majesty of bearing that is completely new to the American highway.

Never before have Cadillac's interior craftsmen created such miracles of luxury and comfort. Cadillac's fabrics and appointments are a revelation both to behold and to enjoy.

And never before have Cadillac engineers introduced so magnificent a concept of automotive performance. The car offers brilliant new power, wonderful new responsiveness and marvelous new ease of handling.

Isn't it time you visited us for a personal inspection and demonstration of this newest "car of cars"?

We think that it is—and we think, too, that you will find it a unique and richly rewarding experience.

WE search out the Finest of Blue Ribbon beef. We judge the Quality of the breed, the manner of feeding and fattening...as well as indications of Perfection in the firmness of the meat, its texture, its color and the presence of flecks of white fat in the red lean.

The Aging...correctly done, as we do it, produces the ultimate in Flavor and Tenderness.

The Roasting...Because preferences differ widely, to produce a roast of beef meeting all requests is truly an Art. Here the roasts come from our Great Ovens with all the fragrant, Natural Essences sealed in.

The Carving...must be Deft—and "short the time between platter and plate"... thus our roasts are Carved to your Individual Order, in your own view, and served Piping Hot, steaming with tantalizing Aroma and coursing with Rich, red, Meaty juices.

The Portions...must be Hearty and Happily Generous...in keeping with the Innkeeper's desire to Please his Guest.

The Setting...of our Rib Room—in the elegant reaches of the Henry Flagler Mansion at the Whitehall—is one of surpassing magnificence and opulent charm. It is an important reason why, nowhere in the world, will you better enjoy Beef at its very, very Best than at

THE WHITEHALL's famous Rib Room is the scene of many dinner parties since its opening. The setting for this gourmet's delight is the enchanting ballroom of the magnificent Flagler Mansion. The room is decorated in the Louis XIV period with an arched ceiling, cut crystal chandeliers and immense windows draped in Rose du Barry silk damask. Adding to the grandeur of the room are Boucher panels in antique colorings depicting the four seasons of the year, which grace the top of the doorways and windows. The Rib Room is again under the direction of Bill Gavigan, the Whitehall's maitre d'hotel.

Miramar Inn

THE MID-SEASON INFLUX of visitors to the Palm Beaches finds the Miramar Inn filled to overflowing as usual with guests also staying at the Lodge on the grounds and in nearby cottages. The putting tourneys and shuffleboard contests on the spacious palm-shaded grounds facing the west side of Lake Worth present a lively picture but mostly the visitors enjoy the comfortable garden nooks near the lake where they bask in the Florida sunshine and watch the yachts glide by.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Trumbull of Upper Jay, N. Y., have arrived at Miramar Inn, which is their Winter home.

Enjoying the social and sports activities in the Palm Beaches while passing the season at Miramar Inn are: Mrs. George D. Perry and Mrs. Henry A. Phillips of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Mason P. Mills of Stony Brook, L. I., Mrs. George T. Moody of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hough of Chicago, Commander and Mrs. Franklin Newhall of Washington, D. C., Mrs. John W. Price of Washington, D. C., and her sister, Mrs. Hugh A. Baldwin of Columbus, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Ferebee of Norfolk, Va., Mrs. R. W. Gifford of Grosse Pointe, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Emory M. Wright of Newton Highlands, Mass., and Russell H. Land of Virginia Beach, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Cuthbert of Ogdensburg are at Miramar for the season and their daughter, Mrs. S. D. Burt Jr., of Guilford, Conn., is visiting them. Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Brose of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who passed last Winter in Honolulu, have returned to the Inn for their fifteenth season. Other season visitors are Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Nachod of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Shore of Bryn Mawr, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson of Norfolk, Va.

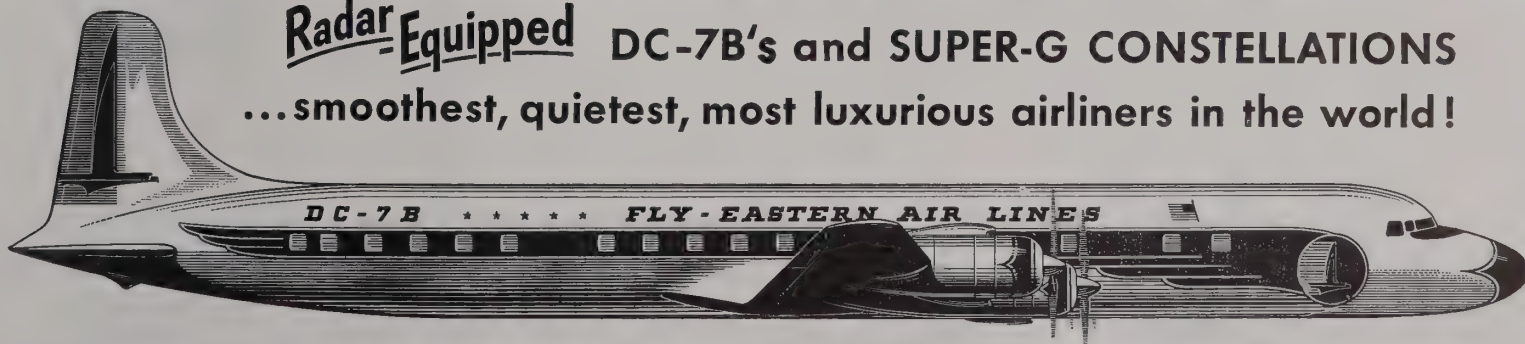

A four-generation reunion took place in the J. Stanley Smith family with the recent return here from Germany of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Smith III and their daughter, Deborah Elizabeth, from Bad-Kreuznach, near Mainz. Shown here, from the right, are J. Stanley Smith, owner of the Miramar Inn, the great-grandfather; J. Stanley Smith III, his grandson, and J. Stanley Smith Jr., the grandfather, on whose lap sits the "Queen Bee," little Deborah Elizabeth, who'll be one year old in March.

St. Augustine TO PLAY HOST TO GOLFERS

A RECORD NUMBER of golf title holders, representing all sections of the United States and Canada, will compete at the Ponce de Leon Golf Club in the National Championship of Golf Club Champions, it was announced by Edward G. Flather, Jr., manager of the Hotel Ponce de Leon. "The surprise victory in 1956 of young Ernest (Pete) Arend of Deal, N. J., in one of his first major match play competitions, apparently has aroused the determination of club winners everywhere to take their chances against the big fellows," states Mr. Flather in explanation of the large number of entries.

The 25th annual National Championship of Golf Club Champions will take place at Saint Augustine, Florida, Feb. 19-24. So far the number of this year's entrants surpass last year's record turnout of 85 players who teed off for the 36-hole qualifying round.

It was in the qualifying round that

"Pete" Arend, a 22-year-old diabetic victim since the age of 14, carded a six-under-par 66 to equal the Ponce de Leon course mark for amateurs established by Hobart Manley, 1951 Club Champion winner.

The Club Championship is an outstanding contest which annually attracts most of the nation's best amateur golfers to the beautiful Hotel Ponce de Leon.

Harvey Ward, national amateur title holder and former British amateur champion, is a three-time winner of the event. His third triumph came in 1953, giving him permanent possession of the "William R. Kenan Jr. Trophy".

A new cup put up by Mr. Kenan, President of the Florida East Coast Hotel Co., the "Lawrence C. Haines Memorial Trophy" has three names inscribed on it to date. They are the aforementioned Arend, Don Bisplinghoff, the 1955 winner; and William Goodloe, Jr., low scorer in 1954.

Goodloe, who also won in 1952, was runner up the past two years.

The Hotel Ponce de Leon Best Ball Championship will precede the Club Champions tourney on Feb. 16 and 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Verner Z. Reed of Newport, R. I., have opened their home on South County Road, where they entertained with a cocktail party for Martin Battersby of England.

Delray Beach

MRS. HAZEN S. ARNOLD's oceanfront home, "Hibiscus," literally buzzed with houseguests over the holidays. Her sister, Mrs. John A. Reynolds of Cleveland flew down for a short stay. Then just to add the proper Christmas atmosphere to "Hibiscus," Lieutenant (JG) and Mrs. Frederick Heber Kent Jr. and their two children, Linda and Frederick, arrived from Norfolk, Va. Mrs. Kent Jr. is Mrs. Arnold's attractive daughter. Lt. Kent is just out of the Navy and will be attending law school at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

The Gulfstream Bath and Tennis Club was the scene of many recent parties.

The "Younger Fry" practically took over the popular Bath and Tennis. A special table was set up for the younger set and we must admit, the girls and boys looked mighty "turned out" in their formal clothes.

Seen dining and dancing at the Club were: Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Speer, Morian J. Clarke, Mrs. L. McLeod Helm, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bond, Mrs. Sally Bowler, Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas, Mrs. Twyla O'Hara, W. Cottingham Allen, Mr. and Mrs. C. Herrick Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Allmon, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lusk, George Boughton and his pretty wife Agnes. (Agnes, incidentally, is one of Delray's better golf players), Mr. and Mrs. Rupert E. Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Look, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Bailly, Mrs. Paul Chace, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mull and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Michaels.

Visiting his mother, Mrs. John A. Vaughn, who was in Delray for several weeks, was Pfc. Michael F. Denyes, on leave from his paratrooper training program at Fort Campbell, Ky. Also in town from the same camp, and staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McKay, was Pfc. David McKay. After returning to their base camp, Fort Campbell, both Mike and David were to report for duty at a camp in Louisiana for extensive maneuvers.

Mrs. Vaughn also had as her guests from Indianapolis, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. John J. Vaughn Sr., their son, Tommy Lee and his wife, Frances and their four children, Janet, Carol, Tommy Jr. and Rickey. Tommy Lee is associated with the famed Hillcrest Country Club in Indianapolis.

Hopie Watts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watts, was escorted by Boylin Carr of New York City. Hopie returned to New

Brazilian Court

THE PEAK OF THE SEASON will find virtually a capacity house at the Brazilian Court, according to Elliott Bishop, general manager of the hotel. A large number of the guests are repeating their seasonal visits of many years. As a matter of fact, this smart hostelry has been the "home away from home" for numerous important families throughout the United States and Canada each season.

Occupying one of the penthouses at the hotel, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Butler of "Birchknoll," Newton Square, Pa., are enjoying their second season here.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Holland of New York City, who have been season guests for years, have a suite of rooms for the Winter.

Mrs. Fred O'Hara of Norwich, Conn., returned for a second season. Remaining throughout February are Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Haines, Winston-Salem, N. C. Also a February guest is Mrs. E. A. Prudden, New York.

From the same place is Mrs. Warren King, who will be here for a month.

The Breakers

By Amy Lyman Phillips

FEBRUARY has always been the "banner month" at The Breakers, as long before the first week, the hotel is filled to overflowing and the program of entertaining by guests is well under way. March promises to be equally good, with April bringing an increasing number of late-stayers for the last two weeks of the hotel season.

The forty-ninth tournament of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests started on January 19th, with the first matches on the 20th, continuing through the week, with all the attendant festivities. While many members left on or about January 30th, many others are remaining late, some even until March. So many members were Breakers guests, even before joining the golf group, that the tournament proved only an interim.

This paved the way for the annual Women's Championship Golf Tournament, which started on February 5th, continuing through the 9th. Renowned women golfers from all over the country and often from Canada or England assembled, many with the hotel as headquarters.

The weekly events at the Palm Beach Golf Club and the Wednesday putting events at The Breakers green, have brought an increasing number out for play. The Bowling Green has attracted many enthusiasts of late and Shuffleboard, at the eastern side of the hotel adjoining the Ocean Terrace, has been popular.

The Wednesday evening galas, given by members of The Breakers entertainment staff, have brought several interesting programs in which guests of The Breakers frequently take part. Singers Suzanne Nicole, soprano, and Joseph Thompson, tenor, have given added interest to the galas, as have the dancing of Betty and George Montgomery and their assistants, Helen Jenson and Thomas Valenti. Joe Lanza, violinist and entertainer, with another comedian, Jack Gaffney, have contributed much to the gaiety of these affairs.

The Sunday evening concerts in the Ballroom attract large audiences. Ted Weegand and his orchestra, with Suzanne Nicole and Joseph Thompson alternating as soloists, have presented many fine programs including one entirely of Victor Herbert melodies.

Games nights are held on Mondays, card parties on Tuesdays, and the gala on Wednesdays preceded by the dinners de luxe, so popular with guests and members of the cottage colony. Dance games follow the motion pictures given in the Ballroom on Friday evenings.

Valentine's Day promises to be the reason for entertaining with many cocktail parties and dinners. The annual Washington's Birthday Ball climaxes the many attractions of February, when so many anniversaries are celebrated by guests and private parties in the Blue Room are held almost nightly.

The Breakers Beach Cabana Club, Casino and Gabrielle's Seaside Restaurant have been active, and there is an increasing demand for the proposed double-decker cabanas to be constructed before another season.

The large Canadian colony is a tribute to The Breakers, and season guests here are Senator Donat Raymond with his family of Montreal, who have spent many Winters here; the more recently arrived Senator N. M. Paterson of Ottawa, Ontario, and Mrs. Paterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ernest Savard and Mr. and Mrs. Roddy Choquette of Montreal, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Pollock, Mrs. J. H. Gundy, Mr. and Mrs. Conn Smythe and others from Toronto; Mr. Smythe recently joined the Winter Golf League, and is president of the great arena, Maple Leaf Gardens, where some of the world's finest hockey is played. His birthday usually is celebrated during his stay at The Breakers.

Among outstanding patrons are many well-known business men of national importance, coming annually with their families. Last year and thus far this season, The Breakers has welcomed a large group of Texans, including several families here during the holidays. The Pacific Coast also is well represented and Mid- and North-Western clients are increasing in number. New England has a representative colony and Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond and other cities such as Cleveland and Columbus, Ohio, St. Louis, Nashville and Birmingham, all are well represented.

Allan Jackson, retired vice-president of the Indiana Division of Standard Oil; Elmer K. Bolton of the DuPont Company, Wilmington, Del.; retired banker John E. Judson of South Orange, N. J.; Thomas A. Bradley of New York, and Howard Willetts of Chicago, owners of two of the nation's largest truck industries; Eugene K. Denton, owner of New York's Tailored Woman; J. Gilmore Fletcher, New York lawyer; Walter J. Cummings, Chicago banker; Ray A. Huber of Scripps-Howard Newspapers; Bernard H. Ridder, president of St. Paul Dispatch and other papers; M. L. Madden of Boston, chairman of the board of Hollingsworth-Whitney paper industries; Louis Marron, holder of great oil properties of Newark, N. J.; Albert W. Rockwood, Boston lawyer; Seward M. Paterson of West Newton, Mass., owner of many stores and prominent in shoe manufacturing, as is Louis Hamel of Haverhill, Mass. One might go on like Tennyson's Brook in enumerating the many others who are Winter residents.

The thirty-first season of the present Breakers, which started off with such eclat during the holiday season, bids fair to continue in what is predicted may be one of its greatest years.

THE FIRST BIG PARTY of the Winter season here was given by Postmaster O'Brien in honor of his stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wilson of Detroit, Mich.

The event, a cocktail party, was in the dining room of Mattie's Tavern with approximately 225 guests. The Wilsons and Mr. O'Brien formed the receiving line in front of a pale green screen flanked with potted palms and floor candelabra.

"Happy Birthday" was played by Organist Bob Bretland for E. N. Pagelsen, former prominent Detroit patent attorney, who moved to Panama City in the 20's. Mr. Pagelsen was observing his 90th birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Wilson wore a black cocktail dress of crepe trimmed with satin. Her corsage was of orchids.

From out-of-town were Assistant U.S. District Attorney and Mrs. Wilfred C. Varn of Tallahassee. They are former Panama Citians.

A large crowd of guests went on to the St. Andrew's Bay Yacht Club for the regular Saturday night buffet supper. A smaller group stopped at the Elks Club for dinner.

The Wilsons went on from Panama City to Sarasota for their annual visit at the Town and Country Apartment Hotel.

Mr. Wilson is an executive with the Fisher Body Division of General Motors.

While the Detroiters were in Panama City, from one to three parties were given daily for them, and at a Yacht Club Auxiliary luncheon Mrs. Wilson shared honors with Mrs. W. G. Hobbs of Tampa and Mrs. C. P. Gay of Geneva, Ala.

The former Frances Langford, now Mrs. Ralph Evinrude, with her husband entertained aboard their luxury yacht, "The Chanticleer," here enroute to their Winter home at Jensen Beach near Stuart.

A party of Panama Citians boarded the Evinrude yacht in Pensacola for the cruise here. Invited guests for the party included Mr. and Mrs. Ray Henry Schmidt and their houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harvey of Milwaukee, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Roll, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Dumaree, Mr. and Mrs. Halbert Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Goodrich, Nobody actually lost much sleep during the gayest social season in years in Panama City since several of the more notable parties were tea dances with orchestras folding in the early evening hours.

The season's opener was given by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bjorklund, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Daniels and Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Duncan Sr., at St. Andrew Bay Yacht Club. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Daniels' parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Robert, here from Champaign, Ill., for the festivities, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barton and son, Lamar, of Atlanta, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fulghum Jr., of Pensacola.

Aides included Mrs. Robert Sala, Mrs. Hiram Sperry, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Lloyd Hall, Mrs. Thomas Allen, Mrs. Julian Bennett, Mrs. Don Bennett, Mrs. Ted Barefield, Mrs. John Hentz, Mrs. Karl Wiseloge, Mrs. Wilton Duncan Jr., Mrs. William Fontaine, Mrs. George Cowgill, Mrs. Elbert Dukate, Mrs. Leslie Jinks, Mrs. H. The younger set was entertained at an annual dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Daffin Jr., for their daughter, Julianne, Sullins College student, and their son, Sidney III, student at Emory, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. C. Smith for their son, Ricky, and Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Newberry for their daughter, Jan. Another party for the high school and college set was given by Mrs. Harry G. Fannin, who entertained at the Armory at a dance honoring her nieces, Gretchen Nelson, student at Wesleyan College in Macon, Ga., Beth and Pam Byrd.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Robert (couple on right) were here from Champaign, Ill., as guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Daniels (left.)

Former State Senator and Mrs. Evans Crary of Stuart are pictured with the Ralph Evinrudes when "The Chanticleer" was docked at St. Andrew Bay Yacht Club.

Blanche Thebom is greeted as she arrives in Panama City to open the Winter concert series of the Civic Music Association by Mrs. H. Mack Lewis (left), wife of the Association president, and Mrs. U. J. W. Peters. The Metropolitan Opera star was honored at a series of parties during her two-day visit in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wilson of Detroit, Mich., are pictured with her son, Bernard O'Brien, who entertained for them at the first big party of the season.

The Greenbrier

By Patricia Ventura

THAT PS TROUBADOUR II will end his days tickling the palate of Greenbrier gourmets is indeed a fitting finale for the grand champion of all steers, for the famous spa has long been noted for excellence of cuisine.

The history of The Greenbrier, a 179-year-old resort whose existence virtually spans the national existence of our country, contains many accounts that denote feasting has always been one of the favorite pastimes of visitors to the White Sulphur Springs.

The legend of the founding of the healing waters located in a gentle upland valley of the Allegheny Mountains of today's West Virginia tells how a group of Indians brought an ailing Mrs. Anderson to the site in 1778. Bathing in the waters cured her rheumatism and word of the wondrous waters spread. The Springs mushroomed and the spa soon became the favorite rendezvous of the nation.

The Clays, the Jeffersons, the Carrolls, the Popes and others of the country's first families flocked to White Sulphur where the Spring House was the pivot of the social activities. Here politics was argued, romances were born, as folks young and old "took the waters," waters which were said to increase the appetite mightily.

Mark Pencil, a correspondent who described the spa in his White Sulphur Papers, published in 1839, had this to say:

"The amusements here are various, and the days go by very rapidly to those who are determined to enjoy themselves.

"At eight o'clock comes breakfast, when the tables are plentifully supplied with the best bread ever baked and all the other necessities to anticipate the finest appetites . . .

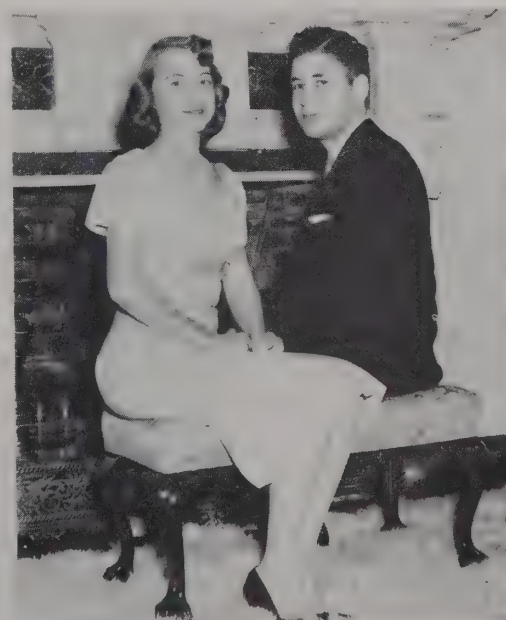

"Dinner — this is an important period to a great many, the twenty sheep and beef slaughtered for that day are demolished with great sang-froid, and a feed servant will place before you a fried chicken or some other dainty dish which you will find acceptable after six hours abstinence, particularly if you have been down to the spring . . . The dessert is abundant and very good, and but for the hurry and flurry of the servants, you get through this meal very good humoredly."

E. Truman Wright, vice-president of The Greenbrier, shows "P.S. Troubadour II," Grand Champion Steer at the 1956 International Live Stock Exposition, for whom The Greenbrier paid a record price of $20.50 a pound. After "Troubadour" completes a tour of organizations and colleges located on the Chesapeake & Ohio's Maine Line . . . steaks!

At home in the Trellis Lobby are Mr. and Mrs. James P. Burns of Washington, D. C., frequent guests at The Greenbrier.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Hendley of Charleston, W. Va., who spent their honeymoon at The Greenbrier.

Most of the special activities in those days centered around eating. There was the Pic-Nic. Perceval Reniers writes in his Springs of Virginia of a typical barbecue in relating the story of a stag affair at the White, as the spa was known then, given in honor of President Van Buren:

"It was exclusively a stag party to eat stag. At long tables under a rhododendron arbor a hundred gentlemen of moment, some of fame, sat down to a feast of three courses. For palate ticklers there were squirrels, pheasants, trout, chicken and turkey. The main dish was venison, in three forms, roast, steak and stew. Those who stayed the course could have pie, apple and cherry, quite lean. Behind the arbor a large band played continuously. The music was shot through with the incessant popping of champagne corks."

Even the children were enthralled with the good things to eat found here. Each day the Cakeman made his rounds of the neat cottage rooms, tempting the youngsters with his fragrant wares made of sugar and spices. And when Henry Clay was sent a 60 pound watermelon, he immediately called together his many friends for an ice cream and watermelon party.

Today's writers, too, are moved to search the typewriter keys for delectable adjectives after sampling the fabulous fare found at The Greenbrier. Mr. Sit Yin Fong, editor of the Singapore Straits, who stopped at The Greenbrier on his first visit to the United States, called Hermann G. Rusch, Executive Chef-Steward of the resort, "Mr. Temptation."

"Rusch's delicacies make you feel the first gulp is superb, the second is sensational, and the third is soul-satisfying," he exclaimed in ecstasy. "I was a gourmet of Chinese bird's nests and shark's fins. Now I am a glutton of Greenbrier's French-styled Everglades frog legs saute provencale and Chukkar partridge roti en plumage poivrade with bread sauce and wild rice."

Hermann Rusch, a statuesque Swiss, will tell you he "took up" cooking because he likes to eat! And so began the career of one of the outstanding men in the culinary profession.

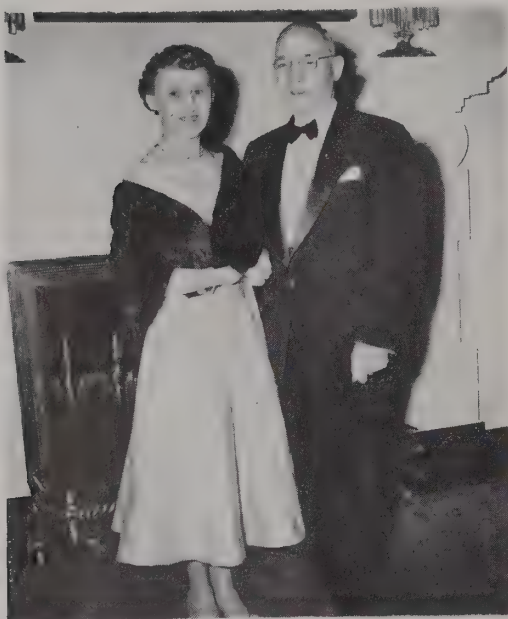

World famous, he holds the Grand Prix at the National Culinary Exposition in New York City, the Medal of the French Government, the Medal of the Culinary Federation and the Medal of the Academy of France.

A joint vacation at The Greenbrier is enjoyed by North Carolinians, from the left, Charles A. Alderman, Mrs. Charles C. Hartmann Sr., Mrs. Alderman and Mr. Hartmann, all from Sedgefield in Greensboro.

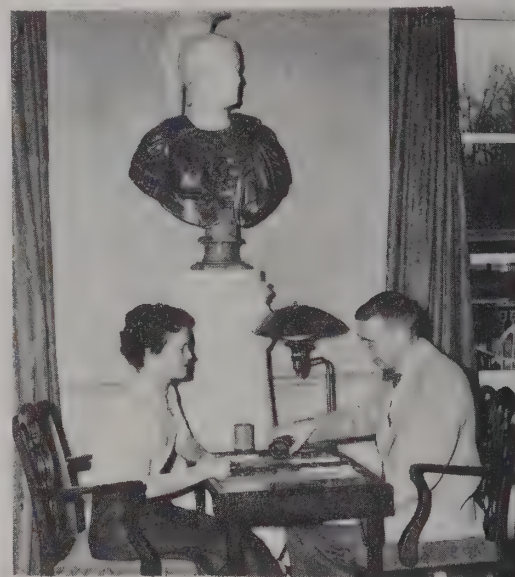

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Toler of Pittsburgh vacation at The Greenbrier.

He is also chairman of the Chef de Cuisine Association, honorary member of the International Academy of Chefs, London, and a member of the Academy of France.

He received the 1956 Debands Award as Culinary Man of the Year and, more recently, was selected to direct the feeding of the United States Olympic teams in Australia.

The State Banquet he prepared for President Eisenhower and his guests, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada and Mexican President Ruiz Cortines during the three-country conference held at The Greenbrier last March, was not the first such grand occasion for him. He has been "at the helm" for similar affairs in Stockholm, Cairo and Rome.

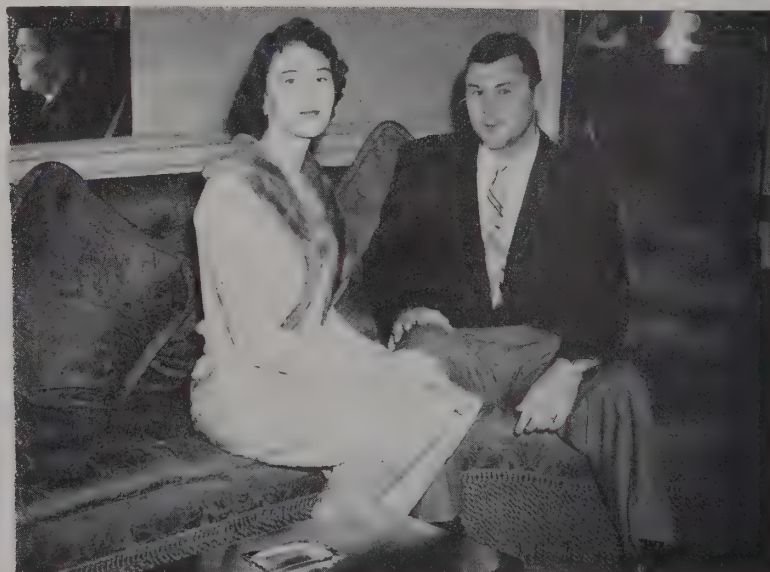

So PS Troubadour II, Grand Champion Steer at the 1956 International Live Stock Exposition, will be in capable hands. Greenbrier guests are in for a treat!

AFTER TWO YEARS of intensive painting in Italy, Keith Ingermann has come home to exhibit the results of his work at his first American one-man show, currently on view at the Worth Avenue Gallery.

It is especially fitting that the artist should make his debut there, for during his absence both on military duty in the Far East and while in Italy he sent occasional works to be exhibited at this Palm Beach gallery, first to recognize the scope of his talent. It was also through a fellowship arranged by the gallery that he was able to follow three and one-half years in the Air Force with two years of work and travel in Europe.

Opening February 4 for two weeks, with a party at which Mrs. Duggett Benson and main painting years. He had his first one-man show at the Chuo Koran Gallery in Tokyo. It was there that Oriental simplicity and serenity began to make themselves felt in his paintings, an influence that can be noted in some of the work reproduced on these pages.

Hardly had he returned home than he took off for Europe for two years of painting and travel. He soon found his way to Sicily, and on that island in the little village of Taormina he settled down in a cottage overlooking the vast expanse of sea and sky, finding the perfect place for complete devotion to his painting.

As he explained it: "In Sicily it is quiet; there are no distractions. The lighting is per-

Mrs. Archibald C. Rayner, co-directors, were hostesses, the exhibition has been the subject of much interest both for personal friends and for others of the art world in Palm Beach.

This collection of new oil paintings, about 40 in number, represents an interesting crystallization of a style that has been in the making for years, an approach to art that first came under the influence of the Oriental simplicity of line and design, and which further developed under the warm, clear, sunny skies of Italy.

Beginning his art studies as a youth here at the Norton School of Art, with Elliot O'Hara, the artist continued with Xavier Gonzales on Cape Cod, then went to the Pratt Institute in New York.

During his student years he exhibited at the Norton Gallery and Society of the Four Arts exhibitions and had work at the Worth Avenue Gallery.

Then came military service in the Far East. He feels very fortunate that his two and one-half years with the Air Force were in the fect. The people are friendly and genuinely interested in art."

The quiet and calm of this idyllic setting; the warmth and luminous quality of the light there have all found their way into the Ingermann pictures painted there. In them is nothing of the flamboyant or the carnival atmosphere associated with some Italian art. They lean rather to the Eastern than to the Latin, but represent an interesting merging of two concepts, all worked out with individual taste and talent.

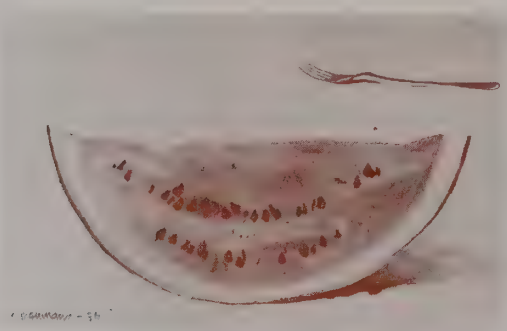

Indicative of the recognition that has already begun to come to the artist is the fact that one of his paintings was bought by Captain Molyneux, famed French designer and art connoisseur, who in recent years has turned from collecting French Impressionists and gone in for American contemporaries.

Shortly after his show closes here, Mr. Ingermann expects to fly back to Italy, for in March he is to have an exhibition in Rome. Also he has to begin assembling works for his first New York show this coming Fall.

The Ingermann Palm Beach show represents the official launching of a career after years of study, work and development of a definite style. It gives promise of being a career to watch with interest.

Keith Ingermann is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl S. Ingermann of West Palm Beach.

An annual event, the Washington Debutante Ball, presented daughters of some of the Capital's best known families. Twenty-one lovelies bowed this year in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel. Debutantes include Miss Anne Labouisse, center front, and clockwise, the Misses Jane Booth Wigglesworth, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Wigglesworth of Massachusetts; Elizabeth Chanler, Josephine Abbott Boyd, Roberta Waugh Fulbright, daughter of Senator and Mrs. William Fulbright of Arkansas; Margot Stuart West, Serafina Kent, Digne Anna van Roijen, daughter of Netherlands Ambassador and Mme. van Roijen; Virginia Clark Darneille, Devereux Carter, Mary Murray Bradley, Nancy Wayne Davis, Melissa Merle MacNeille, granddaughter of Mrs. Merriweather Post; Jane Bennett Musgrave, Virinda McCormick Gibson, Alexandra Scott, Susan Anne Boyd, Elizabeth Ives Lowe, Lynden Ryder Breed and Adele Butler. Miss Eleanor Moran McConihe, also presented at the ball, was absent when this picture was taken.

DANCING DEBUTANTES glamorized the Capital Winter season with some of Washington's best-known families presenting their daughters. Young bachelors played an important role in the eight-week whirl, climaxed by their own "coming out" party, the Debutante Ball.

One of the most spectacular of the deb galas was the big, beautiful dancing party given by Texas Representative and Mrs. Albert Thomas of Houston and Washington for daughter Anne. Scene was the Carlton room of the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel where 200 dozen yellow roses carried out the party theme of "Yellow Rose of Texas."

More than 200 of Miss Anne's young friends sipped champagne, danced until dawn, and enjoyed a delicious buffet breakfast.

Young bachelors had their night when they whooped it up at the annual Dubutante Ball to benefit the Washington Heart Association. Dressed as Indian braves they broke into the big Sheraton Park ballroom with war whoops and weapons to be greeted by Debutante lovelies each wearing a single feather in her hair.

Dubs included John Bull Jr., John Cahill, John Clark, Phillip Criswell, David Fields, Justin Hearne, Cadet Harold Lyon Jr., Corneal Mack II, Ashby Moncure and Cadet Crosby Saint. Chosen "Dub's Sweetheart" was Mary Rutherford Scott. Old South Lives Again ~

Natchez again ready to play host as Pilgrimage Garden Club holds its Annual Tour

KNABB LANE STUDIO

In the little town of Washington, six miles from Natchez on the Natchez Trace, is Jefferson College, a place of unsurpassed historic interest. Its charter, under which the school still operates, is dated 1802 and is the first issued by the Territorial Legislature for any purpose. The great Audubon was once a teacher here; LaFayette visited the college in 1825 and reviewed the maneuvers of the cadets; Jefferson Davis went to school here at the age of ten. On the campus of Jefferson College, Andrew Jackson encamped with his Tennessee Volunteers in 1813 during his first trip to defend the southern frontier against Great Britain, and here also he sent a company of British prisoners after the Battle of New Orleans. The church of Lorenzo Dow, famous Methodist missionary of Territorial days, was situated on the grounds of the college. Later this church was used as a State House, where, in 1817, an assembly met to form the State of Mississippi.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO a new business was born in Natchez, Mississippi. A business which lifted the town out of the depths of a depression that had left many empty store buildings on Main Street. Men stood on street corners wishing for work. This, of course, was not unusual in 1931. But it was unusual that a small group of women working together without financial assistance could reverse the condition and bring about the beginning of prosperity.

It all came about in this way: In 1930 Mrs. Balfour Miller was president of the Garden Club. The state convention was to be held in Natchez the following March (1931) and four garden tours had been requested. Realizing that Natchez had no well kept gardens, she wrote Ben Arthur Davis, then state secretary of the Garden Clubs, and suggested instead a visit to ante bellum houses of Natchez.

There were only 80 at that first meeting, but the pleasure of the guests was manifest. In this way, the idea of an annual Natchez Pilgrimage was born and Mrs. Miller proposed that a Pilgrimage be staged the next year, to which the world would be invited. An admission was to be charged and the money would be used for restoration work.

Using the slogan suggested by George Healy, managing editor of The Times-Picayune and former Natchez resident, "Come to Natchez where the Old South still lives and where shaded highways and ante-bellum homes greet new and old friends," work was begun for the 1932 Pilgrimage. Many felt it would be folly to try to go through with it, but preparations progressed. To the astonishment of all, thousands poured in from thirty-seven states. After the 1932 Pilgrimage, Mrs. Miller was given an award by the city of Natchez.

That was the introduction to a tourist business, which has continued with only a short interruption during the war years. The entire organization is run by members of the Pilgrimage Garden Club and the Natchez Garden Club and involves a tremendous amount of public relations, publicity and general routine work in addition to the beautification and entertainment programs.

Beautiful "Stanton Hall," headquarters and restoration project of the Pilgrimage Garden Club, is framed by branches of giant live oak trees. At the rear is the Carriage House Restaurant, operated by the club so tourists will have an attractive place where typically Southern food is served.

Mrs. Ferriday Byrnes has for 22 years been president of the Natchez Trace Association of Mississippi, engaged in the preservation of the old Indian wilderness trail which extends 520 miles from Nashville, Tenn., to Natchez, Miss. This trail was first used by the Indians and later by pioneers who settled the Old Southwest. In 1801 the United States, by treaty with the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians, acquired the right to open the Natchez Trace into a wagon road and mail route, the Indians retaining rights to ferries and inns. Some of these ancient inns are in existence today near Natchez, Fayette and Port Gibson. A project of the National Park Service, the Trace is being paved as a National Parkway, more than 100 miles already having been completed. The National Park Service will have been in existence 50 years in 1966, and they expect to complete all of their projects within that time.

Mrs. Melchior Roch Beltzhoover, president of the Pilgrimage Garden Club, has been a leader in the success of the Natchez Pilgrimage since its origin in 1932. Her house, "Green Leaves," is included in the tour.

Tableaux, which comprise the Confederate Pageant, presented every Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday night during the Natchez Pilgrimage, are planned and directed by the Confederate Pageant Committee. The two chairmen, Mrs. Barney Gardner, of the Natchez Garden Club, at left, and Mrs. Francis Geddes of the Pilgrimage Garden Club at right, are standing in front of the fireplace giving instruction in the making of a corsage. Standing at extreme left is Mrs. Raymond Jones and at extreme right is Mrs. Carl Chadwick. Seated from left, Mrs. William L. Ball, Mrs. Percy Benoit, Mrs. John R. Junkin, Mrs. Roy Gadbois, Mrs. James Newton Jones and Mrs. J. B. Lehmann.

Two of the beautiful hostesses who receive during the Natchez Pilgrimage are Mrs. Karl R. Ewald Jr. and Mrs. James H. Swinny.

Children of members make flowers to decorate the City Auditorium, where the Confederate Pageant is presented. Busily making white crepe paper azaleas are, from the left, Aylett Buckner and Ruth Audley Britton Conner, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Conner; Ann Dunbar Geddes, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Francis N. Geddes; Ann Mary Nall, the daughter of Louis A. Nall; and Jeanne Thomas Biggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Biggs.

"Elmscourt," famous as the House of a Thousand Candles and for its beautiful entertainments, is the Natchez residence of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas MacNeil of Princeton, N. J. Built in 1810 by Lewis Evans, first Territorial Sheriff of Mississippi under Governor Sergeant in 1798, it has been in the possession of the Surget family, from whom Mrs. MacNeil is descended, for more than 100 years. It was enlarged and remodeled by Ayres P. Merrill, United States Minister to Belgium under the Great Administration. A Duncan Phyfe table with matching chairs, a hand carved punkah, Dresden vases, Venetian mirrors, French crystal chandeliers and a great carved English pier table which was originally made for one of the Dukes of Devonshire, are among family treasures.

The Old Carriage House Tea Room, established by Mrs. Miller in 1946 to provide a good eating place for tourists, proved such a success that last year Mrs. Melchoir R. Beltzhoover, president of the Pilgrimage Garden Club, directed the building of the Garden Pavilion at Stanton Hall, which houses the new Carriage House Restaurant. This is operated as a Pilgrimage Garden Club project and has become a favorite place for entertaining, as well as a most popular restaurant for tourists.

The influx of many thousands of visitors each Spring has made Natchez known all over the United States. This probably has been largely responsible for attracting many industries that have been established here, and has helped swell the population from 15,000 to approximately 32,500.

The history of Natchez is quite intriguing and in itself lends interest for the visitor. As Miss Theodora Britton Marshall has written: "

"High on picturesque bluffs above the Mississippi River stands Natchez, once the pride of a great cotton empire, the center of romance during steamboat days, and the queen city of social and cultural life in the Old Southwest. Today one may rediscover here the enchantment of America's golden past.

"The Spanish explorer, DeSoto, and the French colonizer, LaSalle, led the first White men to the wooded Natchez bluffs, where they found sun-worshipping Natchez Indians — hospitable, cultivated, independent. As early as 1700 French traders from France and Canada began to establish trading posts at Natchez. Bienville built Fort

When Frederick Stanton built Stanton Hall in 1851, he insured warmth and comfort in the dining room by placing two fireplaces along one wall. The twin hand-carved Italian marble mantles and two French bronze chandeliers are unusual features. The chandeliers were especially designed to depict some of the history of Natchez. There are figures of Natchez Indians, for whom the town was named, eagles, corn and other symbols of this section. The Sheraton table and chairs and pier, or "petticoat" table, are a part of the handsome furnishings. Stanton Hall is open to tourists the year around and also has beautiful rooms for overnight guests. It is a popular place for wedding receptions. All of these enterprises are conducted by the Pilgrimage Garden Club to aid in their restoration and beautification project.

Mrs. Kenyon B. Conger and Mrs. Lucien S. Gaudet, members of the Room Committee, place tourists in private homes as well as motels and hotels during Pilgrimage. They urge all who are interested to address the Room Committee, P.O. Box 21, Natchez, if they wish to make reservations, but for information about tours and the Confederate Pageant to write to Natchez Pilgrimage, P.O. Box 21.

Three diligent workers at headquarters during the Natchez Pilgrimage, who give many hours of their time selling tour tickets and providing information are: Miss Margaret Merrill, Mrs. Joseph E. Brown and Mrs. Nisbett A. Barnett.

Preparing for the Natchez Pilgrimage takes year-around effort. The Pilgrimage Board meets ever Tuesday afternoon to see that every detail is carried out as well as possible. Pictured above are several members of this Committee. Standing at the back, in the center, are at left, Mrs. Sam Geisenberger, president of the Natchez Garden Club, and Mrs. Melchior R. Beltzhoover, president of the Pilgrimage Garden Club. Standing at the extreme right, Mrs. Orrick Metcalfe. Seated are, from left, Mrs. Lenox Stanton, Mrs. A. W. Graning, Mrs. Homer Whittington, Mrs. Frank Fauntleroy, Mrs. W. A. Adams, Mrs. Carl McGehee, Mrs. Charles Byrne and Mrs. J. Balfour Miller.

Rosalie on the Natchez bluffs in 1716. Wealthy and aristocratic French families obtained royal land grants and engaged in tobacco planting.

"In 1763 England gained by treaty, possession of the Natchez country as a part of West Florida. British army officers from the French and Indian wars, and British Loyalists, loyal to the Crown during the Revolution, obtained huge grants of land and established the ideal mode of living as it was perfected in the English and Virginia counties.

"From 1779 to 1798 the Natchez district was a province of Spain. Under her mild regime and the encouragement given to planting and commerce, this flourishing country continued to attract the highest type of leaders and families, who brought to Natchez culture, social position, enterprise and wealth.

"In 1798 the district became a territory of the United States. In a few years the country entered upon the great cotton epoch. The typical Southern planter of fabulous wealth — cultured, genial, hospitable — society and sport-loving, reached his highest development. Here was epitomized and preserved America's golden age of good living."

One characteristic has been typical of Natchez from the beginning — a love of life and people. That is the reason the whole town looks forward each year to the month of March, when they can welcome visitors to Natchez. It is not a duty, or just a business, it is a joyous opportunity to make new friends, get new ideas and have a month-long festival.

This year the Pilgrimage Garden Club is holding its annual tour from March 1st through March 30th.

KNABB LANE STUDIO

Albert W. Metcalfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orrick Metcalfe of Natchez, will reign as king of the Confederate Pageant during the Pilgrimage, which opens on March 1 and continues through March 30. After receiving his degree from Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania, Mr. Metcalfe served two years in the Armed Forces and is now in business in Natchez. Mr. Metcalfe's home, "The Parsonage," is one of the lovely antebellum houses shown on the Natchez Pilgrimage tours.

Miss Dean Jones will be the attractive queen of the 1957 Confederate Pageant, presented each Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday night during the Natchez Pilgrimage. A student at Hollins College, Roanoke, Va., she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mitchell Jones of Natchez, whose home is the beautiful "Somerset." Miss Jones has taken part in the Confederate Pageant since she was a toddler of two, filling her first major role as page to the queen at the age of four. She was in ballet for eight years and last year was a member of the Royal Court.

Retaining the original character of clapboard, dormers and steep-pitched roof has gone into the modernization program which has wrought the Sapphire Valley Inn from the old Fairfield Inn, built in 1896. Ultimate plans of Eugene M. Howerdd for the Sapphire Valley development program call for some 14 cottages built around the Inn. Four have been completed. Each cottage includes a large living room, two bedrooms, and service facilities.

Sapphire Valley in North Carolina

NOT UNLIKE the legendary Phoenix re-born of ashes, Sapphire Valley flourishes today after having been laid low by flood almost four decades ago.

Implementing a comeback for this part of the world — in North Carolina — has been a multi-million dollar real estate and resort development encompassing ten square miles, under the aegis of Eugene M. Howerdd, Palm Beach financier, clubman and golfer.

In the Blue Ridge range with four mountains and a lake, Sapphire Valley includes a tract which used to be part of the old resort of Toxaway. Fashionables from North and South poured in here each season from the day that the inn opened in 1896. Lying sixty miles southwest of Asheville, the mountain valley Summer place continued enjoying prestige and patronage until one day a dam went out, dealing that death and destruction which brought about the mountain valley playground's eventual demise. The old inn, however, remained standing as ghostly testament to a happier time — until two years ago . . .

Then, Mr. Howerdd, seeking respite from the place where sapphires had been found in such number, it had come to be known as the largest semi-precious gem section in the United States. Indeed, one Palm Beach society matron happily bears witness. She wears a sapphire necklace made from stones she found on the Inn grounds last year.

A blueprint was drawn (some of its elements to be started then and there; others as future units fitting a 20-year-long development timetable) to include the following:

A clubhouse and golf course, surrounded by exclusive homesites on the heights, room enough ultimately for 1,500 to 2,000 homes (several of the sites have been already purchased by Palm Beach residents);

A luxury resort inn with cottages on a lake — attractive to family groups and “conventioners” alike — with specified resort activities confined to specific areas as part of the philosophy of the overall plan.

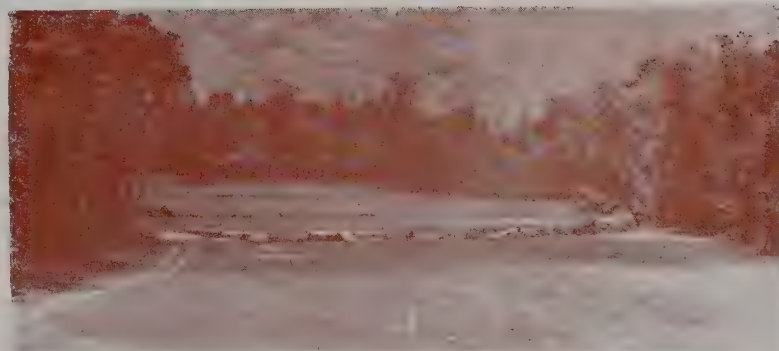

Toward realizing its full potential, Sapphire Valley’s planning experts were chosen from leaders in the fields. C. D. S. Clarkson, surveying engineer and plat designer, was brought in, having earlier laid out Hobe Sound and Fisher’s Island, New York. Na-retirement, having left the executive vice-presidency of Georgia-Pacific Plywood Corporation in 1954 in his native Augusta, Georgia, saw the mountain valley and its developmental possibilities.

Most likely, the setting cried out first to his zeal as a golfer (as witness the upshot: first completed unit in the project was the 18-hole championship golf course). A setting for splendid homes on the surrounding heights he envisioned, too, so it was thereupon decided the time was at hand to re-awaken the valley.

Byron Simonson, Palm Beach architect, was retained for the entire project, while James McDevitt arrived from Birmingham, Alabama, to become his uncle’s assistant — or as Mr. McDevitt says, “my uncle’s leg man.” (The McDevitts presently share the Howerdd’s Palm Beach residence at 110 Dunbar Road.)

When it came to a name, no soul-searching was needed. One ready-made came with Pride of Sapphire Valley is its “air-conditioned” golf course, where in hottest July at high noon, the mercury never exceeds 75 degrees. The middle course is 6,615 yards long, and may be extended to 7,150 yards for championship play. Golf Architect George Cobb of Chapel Hill, N. C., designed the course.

tionally-known golf architect — George Cobb of Chapel Hill, North Carolina — designed the golf course.

And the course could be a story in itself!

Briefly, however, these are the facts. Nature's own air conditioning gives it a 50-degree temperature at high noon throughout much of the season, the mercury running to 70-75 at noon in hottest July.

The course is acclaimed as having the world's largest putting green — three-quarters of an acre on which to aim for the Sixteen Hole! Each hole is named for a champion, among the 18 Golf Greats: Ben Hogan, Gene Sarazen and Cary Middlecoff.

Located 3,500 feet above sea level, the course is laid out in a natural valley — situated in a saucer-like depression — there is only 25 feet of total elevation variance. The middle course is 6,615 yards long and may be stretched to 7,150 yards for championship play. A reserve has been set aside, moreover, for another 18-hole course.

One unit of the half-million dollar clubhouse will open with the season in June. The floor plan includes men's and women's locker rooms, a small grill, and locker rooms for children. The club's social life will go on in a large lounge, a dining room, and card rooms, with nearby service facilities. A swimming pool has been fitted into the contour of the exterior, which everywhere retains the spirit of the former inn.

Sapphire Valley's Number 16 green is acclaimed to be the largest green in the world, according to Eugene M. Howerdd. Only part of the three-quarters of an acre taken up by the green is shown here.

Set in the Blue Ridge mountain range, the Sapphire Valley Inn looks out on forest and granite. The elevation is 3,500 feet. Sapphire Valley is located within 60 miles of Asheville, N. C.

Since being re-done, the inn has been welcoming guests for the past two seasons. A steep-pitched roof, dormer windows, clapboard and some "tortured" turned-wood trim give the exterior an ineffable charm, while indoors three stories are furnished and re-furnished and combined with new fabrics and subtle colors.

A new brick terrace overlooks the lake, out of which vaults Bald Rock Mountain. Four cottages have been completed of the dozen or so eventually planned. Opposite the swimming pool, an open terrace has been put in for dining and dancing at night.

Sapphire Valley today is highly self-sufficient. Its own crushed rock is used for roads. Seven miles of improved road were put in last year, with three more miles to be completed prior to this year's opening.

And whereas once a Southern Railway spurline brought guests to the door, today's Sapphire Valley denizens fly in and land on a 2,000-foot-long airstrip, with apron tie-up space and service provided for the private planes.

Fabulous Miami

Fabulous setting at the Surf Club for the coming out party, a dinner-dance given by the Jose A. Ferres for their debutante daughter, Mary Ann, included silver horses with pink ostrich plumes on their bridles in a pink and silver decor.

Queen Adelaide Gonzalez of the Orange Bowl and her court at the Coronation Ball held at the Surf Club.

WHAT'S A QUEEN without her crown?? Raymond Miller, president of the Orange Bowl Committee, dropped Queen Adelaide Gonzalez's crown, then retrieved it and put it on her upside down!

But pretty Adelaide was crowned just the same and reigned over the Orange Bowl festival with grace and beauty. She and her princesses were dressed in identical pink dresses and blue mink capes when they sat in a roped off box on the field at the Orange Bowl game (Clemson vs. Colorado), and mighty pretty they were.

Bruce MacIntosh, former president of the Orange Bowl and his Lily, presided at a table at the Ball. Bob Pentland, an OB committee member, was host at another table.

Judge Robert Anderson and Mrs. Anderson were among guests of Eunice and Will Preston, who also is a member of the OB committee.

And of course, Dr. Robert Franklin Poole, president of Clemson, and Mrs. Poole, plus the youthful and handsome president of Colorado University, Dr. Quigg Newton and his pretty wife were among those present.

Before the Orange Bowl game Sadie and Pat Cummings gave their annual brunch, then loaded their guests into a chartered bus and whizzed them to the game.

In the Cummings party were the George Storers (he is a newspaper, TV and radio tycoon), Nina and Spratt Mangus, the Neil Millers, and Sadie's cousin, John Belk of

In a front row box at the game was Chico Marx, oldest of the famous Marx brothers. He was appearing at the Coconut Grove Playhouse in "The Fifth Season" and in spite of being a tired looking little man, had his impish twinkle unimpaired.

Jeff Bates represented Gov. George Bell Timmerman of South Carolina, who was unable to come. Lt. Gov., now Governor-elect, S. R. Nichols and Mrs. Nichols and their 15-year-old son, Stephen, were late comers from the Cadillac Hotel, where they were staying.

Miami put her best foot forward for game day with her brilliant sunshine which highlighted the colorful band costumes, the pastel and suits of the feminine fashion plates and had them shedding their minks like mad.

You may think you've seen magnificent parties, but until you saw the gorgeous Debutante Ball at the Surf Club you haven't seen anything.

Decor was silver and white with a replica of a classic temple at one end of the great ballroom. Here was where the 12 Debs made their curtsies to Mrs. Emmett Choate, wife of U.S. Federal Judge Choate, Mrs. Charles M. Mrs. Jefferson Ford, Mrs. John Wofford, John Haynsworth and Mrs. Haynsworth at the Debutante Ball at the Surf Club.

There were a number of grandmothers on hand to see their granddaughters make their bows. Mrs. Robert Pentland, a youthful 87 years young, bought herself a new dress and declared with her Scotch burr on her tongue that she'd be there "if it kills me!"

Another valiant grandmother was Mrs. John M. Townley, who arrived in her wheelchair looking perfectly lovely in beige lace, to see Frances make her bow. Still another was Mrs. William H. Harold, who came from Goulds to watch granddaughter Susan Kendall bow.

Oldtimer in Miami Beach and social leader, Mrs. Elliott Shepard, had five of last year's debs at her table. She was regal in silver and ermine.

The debs' escorts were in white ties, tails and white gloves, as were their beaming fathers who led them out to dance after the presentation.

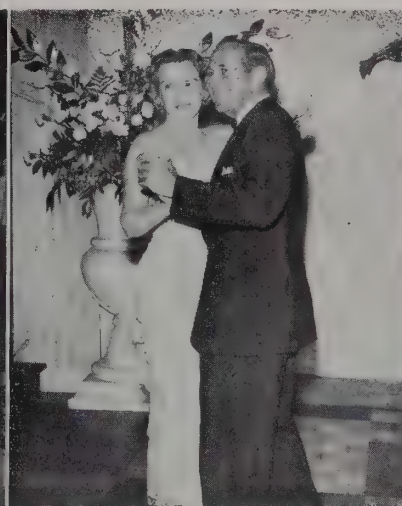

Just down for the season from their home in Pittsburgh were Dora Belle and Earl Reed, who opened their home on La Gorce Island. Mrs. Reed was stunning in candlelight satin with cocoa satin back.

The debutantes, Almalee Cartee, Dian Dane, Darlene Dodge, Mary Ann Ferre, Sally Head, Susan Kendall, Marilyn (Dee-Dee) Knight, Margaret Ann Pentland, Lowry Smathers, Frances Townley, Dolores Walker, and Garlin Wood, stood in a receiving line in their enchanting white bouffant ball gowns holding old fashioned nosegays of white and pink carnations. One was prettier than the other!

Among guests of the P. B. (Spratt) Manguses were Lucille and Bryan Newkirk up from their fabulous place on Duck Key.

Other guests of the Manguses were Maybelle and John Haynsworth, Yvonne and Jeff Ford of Washington, New York and Miami Beach; Inez and Ed Parker, who were aboard the "Andrea Doria" for their return honeymoon trip when the boat went down; the Dell Wellses and Olive Wofford, recently back from a junket to the Orient.

Col. Leslie Buswell, Commander of the Military Order of World Wars, and his lovely Mary gave a dinner party for Leslie's fellow flier in World Wars I and II, Harold Willis, at their beautiful home on N. Bay Road, Miami Beach.

Strange thing is that in World War I Mr. Willis was reported lost and Leslie wrote his obituary. Both were in the Lafayette Escadrille. But Mr. Willis came down safely and escaped and they served together in World War II.

In the party were Gen. Robert Wood Johnson, head of the well-known pharmaceutical firm of Johnson and Johnson, and Mrs. Johnson, Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Milton Baker and the Jose Ferres.

And speaking of the Ferres, their coming out party for daughter, Mary Ann, was one of the most elaborate private parties ever held at the Surf Club. In a setting of pink and silver, there were silver horses (papier mache ones) prancing with pink ostrich plumes on their heads.

Another elaborate deb party was that given by Glennis and Philip Head for daughter, Sally. (She should have had the horses. She is an expert equestrienne and has her gaited saddle horse at Gulf Park College in Mississippi with her.)

Sally's party was all white and "they say" there never was a gayer or more beautiful ball.

Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, president of the National Geographic, and his Ethel are now in residence at their Miami Beach home. Ethel missed the first committee meeting for the Committee of 100's annual Southern ball at Indian Creek Country Club on January

Pre-ball time preparation at the Debutante Ball at the Surf Club included seeing that the last hair was in place. The deb is Margaret Ann Pentland, daughter of Mrs. M. McLin Pentland and Robert Pentland Jr. Her paternal grandmother, 87-year-old Mrs. Robert Pentland, came to see Margaret Ann make her bow.

Gables Club, Miami Shores Country Club and La Gorce Country Club got out the Wassail bowl and welcomed the infant 1957 with rejoicing.

At the Bath Club there were gasps when that gorgeous creature, Tere Salleras, entered with her Juan. And no wonder. She was wearing a dreamy white chiffon ball gown with floating panels front and back and her dark hair was dusted with silver.

They were in a party with Hilde and Gary Kullack, among others. Hilde and Gary are building a ten bedroom, ten bath home on Sunset Island II, directly across from Ivah and Neil Miller.

They had hoped that their expected heir — or heiress — would not put in an appearance until their home was finished. But no! Young Peter couldn't wait. He arrived six weeks prematurely weighing five pounds, but as Gary said, "Hollers as if he weighs 50 pounds!"

Receiving guests at the beautiful dinner-dance and coming out party by Mr. and Mrs. Jose Ferre at the Surf Club are Mrs. Ferre, their daughter, Mary Ann, and Jose Ferre's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Maurice Ferre. Second, Bryan Newkirk, owner and developer of Duck Key, who has homes in Coral Gables and Toronto, Canada, Mrs. Newkirk, Mrs. Spratt Mangus and Mr. Mangus at the Debutante Ball. The Manguses were hosts at a large party. Third, Del Wells, Mrs. Ed Parker and Mr. Parker were among guests at the Debutante Ball. The Parkers'

29th. Elsa (Mrs. William) Stubblefield presided at the meeting. But Ethel and "Doc" will be on hand for this glamorous ball.

Miami Spinsters introduced their new members at a gala ball at the Surf Club on Christmas Eve. Pretty Mickey Flannery, president of the club, was introducing her fiance, Dr. John Emerson. Their engagement was announced formally next day.

Greeting guests with Mickey and Charlie were Trudye Wensley and Dave Batcheller and Louise Renuart and John Sullivan.

Dr. Emerson's parents, the Field Emersons, were down from Delray Beach for the ball and dark-haired Mickey's sister, Ellen, came with John's brother, Dick Emerson.

Mickey and Ellen are two of the four daughters (all Duke graduates) of Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Flannery of Coral Gables. "Daddy is happy to get another doctor in the family," says Mickey, whose fiance interned at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami.

New Year's Eve at the clubs was gala-gala. That perennial party goer and giver, Claire (Mrs. William F.) Hayden of Denver and N. Bay Road, gave a cocktail party before dinner and dance time at the Surf Club.

Among the Bryon Newkirks' guests were Nina and Spratt Mangus, Mrs. Anton Hulman, whose son Tony owns the Indianapolis Speedway, beautiful Lillian Massey squired by Avery Guyton, Ed Lumpkin of Calgary, Canada, Sheelah and John Murrell.

Sheelah Murrell, attorney-at-law, lecturer and author, who is listed in Who's Who in America, has been sent a form to fill out for Who's Who in American Women.

Avery Guyton's son, Dr. Tommy Guyton and his bride of a year, Evelyn, were in another party. Tommy "sent" the whole Bath Club when he set off torpedoes at midnight. They had been sent to him from Texas and lived up to their state in big noise!

Awaiting the last Debutantes' final curtsy before starting the first dance with their fathers are Miami debs and their escorts and fathers. From the left, Philip S. Wood and daughter, Garlin; James R. Townley and daughter, Frances; Robert Pentland Jr. and daughter, Margaret Ann; Harold Kendall and daughter, Susan; Jose Ferre and daughter, Mary Ann.

Distinguished visitor for a few hours in Miami was Henrik Kauffman, Ambassador from Denmark to the U.S. He was here between planes after a sojourn in Nassau, en route to Washington.

In this interim, Alex Balfe, Danish Consul in Miami, and his Eleanor, gave a luncheon for Mr. Ambassador at the Coral Reef Yacht Club.

Prominent Danes and civic leaders in Miami were among guests, as well as Ed Christiansen, Commodore of the Club and Swedish Consul in Miami and his pretty blonde Mary.

Racing minded Mollie Cullum is giving up the tracks for beauty. She's going to Arizona, where she'll manage Elizabeth (Arden) Graham's Main Chance ranch. This is where weary socialites go to be pounded back into shape and rejuvenated with Miss Arden's unguents and lotions.

Maybe the fact that Miss Arden has a stable of thoroughbreds which race at Hialeah (they say her stable boys use her creams on their glossy hides) brought the two together. Anyhow, Mollie has given up her publicity stint at Laurel track in Maryland and her local racing column to ride herd on seekers of beauty.

Miss Arden and Mollie spent a few days here at the Sea View Hotel.

The CLOISTER

SEA ISLAND • GEORGIA

HERE AT SEA ISLAND we do not advocate year-round swimming because the breezes have been known to make outdoor bathing a bit on the chilly side beyond the end of November. However, due to the phenomenally warm and, in fact, almost summery weather which this year has extended through the middle of January, many Sea Island guests have continued splashing in the pool and basking "sunny-side up" on the poolside terrace and even, on still days, on the beach. Both Christmas and New Year's Day saw the beautiful irregularly-shaped pool in use.

Starting on the 10th of January our Island, which is always a golfer's paradise, became more. It became host to most of the top feminine golfers in the entire nation. Converging here for the opening of the annual Sea Island Ladies' Invitation Open Golf Tournament, the group included among its numbers twenty-four top professionals and forty-six outstanding amateurs. Here for the three-day, 54-hole Medal Play tourney, they brought with them that infectious sort of enthusiasm for the game that only the dead earnest tournament player seems to generate. Within a matter of hours the entire community, as usual, had contracted the germ and by tournament time excitement was running at fever pitch.

Most demonstrative of all local enthusiasts was Daniel E. Pomeroy, Sea Island resident and retired sportsman, who put up two generous purses, one each for the pro who could drive the longest distance and the one who could put the ball nearest the pin on an approach shot during a contest on the day preceding the tournament.

The $5,000 tournament got under way on the 11th with a field of pros including the Ladies Professional Golf Association money winner of 1956, Marlene Bauer Hagge, who romped off with a record $20,235 in earnings last year.

Besides Marlene, who won eight tournament titles last year, other champions included Sea Island's own teaching member, Louise Suggs, who won three, South America's gift to United States golfing circles, Fay Crocker, Betsy Rawls and petite Kathy Cornelius, the latter termed the "surprise package" of 1956.

Patty Berg, veteran champion and always a favorite with the galleries, was on hand. Others were: Joyce Ziske, Betty Jameson, Mickey Wright, Mary Lena Faulk, Beverly Hanson, Betty Godd, Marilyn Smith, Alice Bauer, Bonnie Randolph, Peggy Kirk, Gloria Armstrong, Betty Bush, Vonnie Colby, Gloria

Anglerettes Stage Second Annual Billfish Tournament

MRS. HELEN GORTON, Palm Beach, bested a field of some 70 anglerettes from 16 states and two foreign countries, to win the second annual billfish tournament off Palm Beach shores in mid-January, under the sponsorship of the International Women's Fishing Association.

Mrs. Gorton, on her first day, hooked and released four sailfish on light tackle to give her a total of 280 points and the tournament championship.

Mrs. Edward Cosgrove, LeSeuer, Minn., last year's champ, was among the contestants, but failed to connect on the fishing grounds.

The feminine anglers ran into bad weather on the second day of their scheduled meet which forced a cancellation of competition for that day and forced their finale to be combined with a special men's day feature on the third and last day.

Red pennants denoting sailfish release may be seen flying on the right.

Despite the bad weather on day two, Mrs. Morris Frost, Easthampton, N. Y., braved the tossing seas and whipped a sail before the contest was cancelled. She is one of the three anglerettes who finished in second place.

Also garnering 240 points and a piece of the second place tie were Mrs. Eugene Smith, Accomac, Va., and Mrs. Orton Dale, West Palm Beach, Florida.

Finishing in third spot was Mrs. P. A. B. Widener III, Lexington, Ky., who whipped three sails on light tackle for a total of 210 points. Mrs. Widener broke her leg six weeks ago and fished the tournament with a heavy cast covering her left leg from foot to knee.

Awards for first sails of the day went to Mrs. Benson Ford, Grosse Pointe, Mich., and Mrs. James Albright, Islamorada, Fla.

Texas sent the largest angling delegation to the event with eight anglerettes taking part. New York State with seven, was second.

Mrs. Pamela Russell was England's entry in the meet but failed to score, as did Mrs. G. A. S. Roberts, South American entry.

Incidentally, the anglerettes bested their husbands in the men's day feature with the women releasing six sails while the hubbies had to settle for five releases.

All scoring in the tournament, directed by Mrs. T. T. Sherwood, Lantana, Florida, was based on released fish to carry out the organization's theme of sailfish conservation. A total of 53 sailfish were brought to boat and released during the two-day competition.

A glimpse of the terrace and the river at the Seigniory Club, located at Montebello, in the Province of Quebec, Canada.

Some of the associations with the gracious days of long ago are recalled in this old fashioned drawing room at the Seigniory Club's Manor House. The wall paper in this room (purple and gold) is the original covering chosen in 1850 by Louis Joseph Papineau, famous Canadian who was Seigneur of all surrounding territory over a hundred years ago.

The Seigniory Club, Province of Quebec

By Hilda Turner

AS ANOTHER FEBRUARY DAWNS on a troubled world, it is refreshing to think of escape from the cities' noise and bustle, from the mornings' grim headlines and to re-discover the charm of simplicity, the joy of a holiday in the country. Many are bound during these snowy days for the Seigniory Club in the Province of Quebec, where in the heart of the peaceful countryside over a hundred years ago a famous Canadian set up his house.

He was the eldest son of a family who were the first real colonizers of a great domain; and about his great house is a quiet dignity reflecting the tranquility of the surrounding forests and the slow moving Ottawa River. The House of Papineau subsequently became famous for its hospitality as it evolved its own design of gracious living far from the civilized centers.

The years multiplied, times changed and the men and women whose courage and foresight built a new world have long since disappeared; but that intangible and indestructible character of beauty which Louis Joseph Papineau created more than a century ago continues to flourish at the Seigniory Club and at the old Papineau residence now known as the Club's Manor House, nearby.

This month of February is bringing members and their guests to the Club from many distant points; they will have a go at the hills when the soft, powder snow hissing under flying skis opens up a new world for skiers, the skaters ponder on the rhythm, the long, sure edges, the crisp, short steps flowing smoothing one into the other; curlers plan all the "canny stanes" to be laid during the weeks ahead, and the toboggan run, the horse-drawn sleighs and the saddle horses will all be waiting to be tried out. Yes, this is the season when the snow sparkling on freshly fallen snow sets the memory and imagination to work, when bags are packed and the delightful experience of a winter holiday is at hand.

The Seigniory's 21st annual members' and guests' curling bonspiel scheduled for February 22 to 24 is one of the largest gatherings of curling-minded members during the Winter. Each rink or team entered is skipped by a club member who brings his guests to take part in the three-day 'spiel. Then, at the end of the month the 21st annual competition for the McCrea trophy occurs from February 28 to March 3, attracting many of Eastern Canada's most prominent players. March brings more curling with the 8th Annual Mixed 'Spiel for the Anderson Trophy taking place March 8 to 10. In this bonspiel each rink is skipped by a feminine member of the team of two men and two women and it is considered one of the cheeriest gatherings of the season at the Seigniory. The curling season's last bonspiel takes place March 15 to 17 with the 4th annual competition involving the President's team against the Vice-President's team.

An old-world charm is reflected in the atmosphere of the entrance hall of the Manor House at the Seigniory Club at Montebello, in the Province of Quebec.

This glimpse of the Ottawa River and the south shore is from the Seigniory Club. The river divides the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Air view showing the beautiful Bahama Club in Naples.

NAPLES held its head up extra high with pride as The Bahama Club, Naples' first cooperative apartment, took its rightful place on the white sands of the Gulf of Mexico at a formal opening early in the New Year.

This beautiful edifice is another link in the durable chain of progress, significant of Naples. It was acclaimed by hundreds of Neopolitans and guests as the ultimate in beauty both as to architectural structure and design for gracious, informal living. Two hundred and twenty feet of private Gulf frontage, owned by the cooperative, is in the heart of Naples best residential section and just a short distance from shopping facilities and places of entertainment. It is situated immediately north of the luxurious Beach Club Hotel with its 18-hole golf course of championship calibre, yet distant from traffic noises and the hustle and bustle of the modern day.

The Bahama Club accentuates the modern while preserving the traditional and includes an unsurpassed array of exciting new features. There are four different floor plans, elevator service, private enclosed breakfast balconies, and two entrances to nearly every apartment.

Residents of The Bahama Club have many recreational facilities, a play area which is enclosed on the east by the large completely equipped Recreation Lounge and on the north by a spacious open front Cabana complete with dressing rooms. The Recreation Lounge offers a cocktail bar, perfect television viewing, a built-in hi-fidelity music system, a complete kitchen, and a barbeque pit in addition to it being a luxuriously furnished room built for comfort and relaxation.

For outdoor fun, the huge fresh water swimming pool, and the putting green and shuffleboard courts, add greatly to the enjoyment of casual living.

Several hundred people attended the formal opening of The Bahama Club, and enjoyed cocktails and a buffet after viewing Naples newest achievement.

Among those attending were the following

Naples residents: Mr. and Mrs. J. Thad Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cashman, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Holland T. Salley, Mr. and Mrs. William J. A Calypso Christmas

By Barbara Dubivsky

ALL PHOTOS BAHAMAS NEWS BUREAU

THIS LITTLE ISLAND, in the middle of the sea, never has had, or will have, the "White Christmas" so dear to the heart of ballad singers. Cold, clear air and glistening snow of northern climes give way to balmy breezes and pink sand in this land of calypso.

"Merry and bright" the Yuletide was though, with mistletoe and holly, Yule Logs and Wassail Bowls, carol singing and eggnog parties, and plenty of plum pudding for Christmas dinner.

At the Bermudiana Hotel, a charming ceremony was enacted on Christmas Eve. Led by a capering court jester, members of A family reunion at Castle Harbour Hotel, Bermuda, was the highlight of the holiday season for the Joseph E. Maleady family of San Salvador, El Salvador, as they were greeted by Santa Claus. truck, with Mrs. Kringle following in a jaunting cart, flanked by scarlet-coated outriders whose horses' hooves sparkled with sequins. The pipes and drums of the Bermuda Cadet Corps provided musical accompaniment for the procession.

Carol singing at Castle Harbour, in a setting of traditional Christmas trees and tropical foliage sprayed silver and pink, touched off the festivities in the Tucker's Town area.

Candlelight buffet dinners preceded midnight church services. Afterward, more partying and Christmas calling until the wee hours of the morning.

Eggnog parties flourished everywhere from noon on the next day. At the Coral Beach Club, Judge Harold R. Medina of New York City followed his custom of many years and played Santa Claus, distributing the club's gifts to guests. The judge was a jolly St. Nick.

With the Medinas at Coral Beach were the Bernard Reuthers of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Kallen of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. William G. Mennen and the Sumner N. Milenders of Boston, Mass. Also,

A Wassail Bowl in the main lounge helped spread the Christmas cheer; gifts from the tree for everyone added to the merriment and fun.

Recognizing that tree trimming is dear to the hearts of young and old, many of the hotels held decorating parties. With genial Bob Allen in charge, the tree in the Peacock Room of the Elbow Beach Surf Club was soon shining brightly, tinselled and trimmed by mid-afternoon of Christmas Eve.

Over at the Princess Hotel, Santa Claus arrived on water skis, much to the delight of the very young set, who squealed with glee as the merry old gent came to rather a wet stop at the hotel's dock.

ginia, of Rosemere. Mr. Lambert, who is president of Marine and Power Equipment, Ltd., and his family stayed at the Ledgelets, a cottage colony in Somerset.

All the way from England to Waterloo House came Col. S. H. Smith of London. From New York City to "Newstead" came Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitney, who were joined by Mrs. Whitney's brother, Rear Admiral G. Schuyler of Washington, D. C.

Visitors joined their Bermudian friends in listening to Queen Elizabeth's Christmas message before sitting down to their turkey dinners. At many guest houses, a long, family-type table made for a homier atmosphere. Sailors from British warships anchored in Bermudian waters were invited guests at hotels and in private homes. With the serving of wine came the traditional toast to the Queen, responded to by Bermudians with a toast to the President of the United States.

On the second day of the Christmas Holiday, the exotic Gombey dancers started at sun-up to dance their way around the island. Boxing Day (December 26) is one of the three days in the year when the incessant, hypnotic beat of their drums, and the shrill call of their pipes are heard in the streets. Wearing beaded velvet capes, fringed pants and four-foot-tall peacock feather headdresses, their tomahawks and bows and arrows brandished at one another, they entertain and intrigue with their ancient rituals.

One of their calls was at the recently reopened "Fourways Inn" at Amen Corner in Warwick Parish. This lovely, old Bermuda estate has proved to be a popular gathering place ever since its pre-Christmas opening, when a gala cocktail party around the new swimming pool officially got things underway.

Typical of the general rebuilding and renovating going on in Bermuda, "Fourways" has expanded and improved its facilities without losing anything of its old world graciousness.

Peg-Leg John still sights his telescope at visitors passing beneath his sign, swinging from the high, pink coral wall that surrounds the grounds. The bar that bears his name again attracts those seeking companionship.

The exciting new Chameleon Room is a favorite gathering place for buffet luncheons and pre- and after-dinner drinks. Built-in settees are gaily covered in pretty pastels during daylight hours. Once the sun sets, the cushions are reversed, changing their color to a uniform wine shade, thus giving the room its name. Exposed ceiling beams of cedar support a slanting roof. A room-wide window wall looks out onto a garden of banana trees, aloes, cactus and palmettos. On chilly nights, cedar logs burn in the attractive raised fireplace, creating a cosy atmosphere in which to linger languidly.

Languor had no place in Bermuda on New Year's Eve though. Gaiety was the by-word from Somerset to St. George's. The champagne flowed, the rum swizzled, and the welkin rang, as celebrating throngs calypsoed their way from one year to the next.

A reception was held at Government House in honor of the golfers who participated in the fourth annual Bermuda Goodwill Golf Tournament. Members of the team representing the Princess Anne Country Club of Virginia Beach, Va., are shown here. From the left: Roy R. Charles of Norfolk, James G. Parke of Norfolk, Miss Katherine Woodall, daughter of Bermuda's Governor, Lt. Gen. Sir John Woodall; Leo Kernan of Virginia Beach; Mrs. and Mr. Barnard, also of Virginia Beach. The reception was the highlight of a number of social activities planned for the golfers and their guests. The Princess Anne Club contingent stayed at the Castle Harbour Hotel (Tucker's Town).

While their homes are under snowdrifts, sunlovers from all parts of the nation are basking poolside on the colorful sundecks known to "innmates" as Sunshine Alley. Former guests already know and first-time desert vacationers are learning that the Camelback Inn slogan "Where Time Stands Still," is an apt one, for here, as nowhere else, holidayers seem to be suspended in a relaxing, friendly vacation atmosphere that enhances all they do.

The clear air and brilliant blue skies give added zest to golfing on the spectacular Paradise Valley Country Club fairways adjoining the Inn. The lush course is laid in a setting of desert terrain and cacti and has drawn many golf lovers West to combine Winter golfing with sunning.

Lured to the Southwest again this season for Winter golfing are the David Websters of Mercer Pa., the Edward Keatings of South Londonderry, Vt., and the Cebern Lees of Oaks Corners, N. Y., the Theodore Colmans of Birmingham, Mich., and many others.

From their Eastern Seaboard homes to enjoy life in the Arizona manner are the Floyd Akers of Washington, D. C., the Lyle C. Harveys of Syracuse, who joined the William J. Baileys of Monrovia, Calif., and the L. M. Cathles of Scarsdale, president of the North American Assurance Co.

Leaving the snows of Syracuse behind were the L. T. Eagens. From Manhattan to enjoy the famous poolside buffets served leisurely in the sunshine daily are the Charles Luckeys, New York Trust Co. executive; the Douglas C. Arnolds, who arrived the end of January to remain through March; the James Cobbs, the Harold Dows, and from Forest Hills and Manhattan, the T. J. Beauchamps.

New York City's chairman of Desks, Inc., J. G. Schwander has brought his wife to Arizona to soak up the bone-warming sun's rays with the Cornelius Hubners and the Edward Ix, all of whom live at Smoke Rise, near Butler, N. J. The Harold Jockers of Stamford, New York City Union League members, are following the fairways next door.

From Hackensack, N. J., to try the Arizona climate are the Robert Lansdells, who are ardent golfers at the Hackensack and Arcola Clubs and have a Winter home in Palm Beach. Advertising executive John Fitz-Randolph of the J. Walter Thompson Co. in New York, and his wife are enjoying the leisurely Arizona way of life for three weeks, as are the P. A. Valentines, who pre-

"Hobby Horse Hall" at Nassau

By Celia Ross

"SEE YOU AT HOBBY HORSE HALL" is a familiar cry ringing through Nassau since the season's opening of the Nassau race track on January 11. International personalities find the track at post time, 2 p.m. every Tuesday and Friday, is a perfect meeting place.

Competition is keen among the small native jockeys riding dainty island ponies and excitement runs high among the spectators. With races scheduled only through April 12,

Winter residents and visitors don't like to miss a single day at the sun-drenched track.

Horse racing is not new to the Colony of the Bahamas. It was started many years ago by officers of the British West India Regiment stationed here. After 30 years of track inactivity, in 1933 owners and members of the Nassau Amateur Polo Association decided to reactivate the sport. But first came the tedious work of clearing the course in time for special Empire Day races.

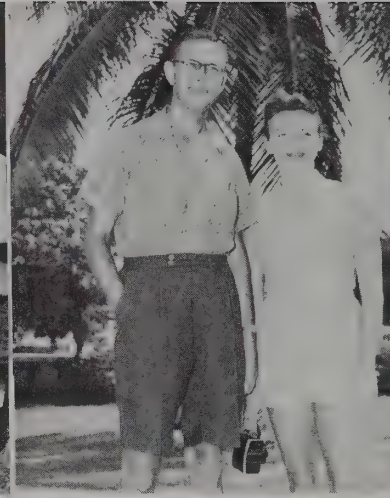

The events were so successful that George Murphy, a Nassau hotel owner, leased the property and constructed a bona fide race track under the organization name of Montagu Park Racing Association, Ltd. Murphy introduced the American counter-clockwise racing and operated the track until 1940 during World War II.

Other owners tried their hand at Hobby Horse Hall until Dr. Raymond Sawyer, present president of the Montagu Park Racing

Dr. and Mrs. Sawyer were on hand for this season's colorful opening and with all the hustling and bustling of a first day event, they had little more than time to chat briefly with old friends such as Mr. and Mrs. Silver of Bowie, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Graham of Nassau. Mr. Graham is Chairman of the Racing Commission.

DECEMBER was the month for Debs. Two of the most gala parties which introduced the top debutantes of the season were the Debutante Cotillion Ball sponsored by the New York Infirmary at the Waldorf-Astoria, and the International Debutante Ball held at the Ambassador for the Joint Veterans Fund, which helps hospitalized veterans and their families.

With traditional Cotillion ceremony presented in surroundings of radiant beauty, 105 debutantes of this season were introduced at the twenty-first annual Debutante Cotillion and Christmas Ball, given in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. In addition to the presentees, their families and escorts, many distinguished guests attended the fete. Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip was honorary chairman of the Ball and Mrs. Eugene W. Ong and Mrs. A. Schuyler Clark, the co-chairmen.

Both tiers of the ballroom boxes were festooned with white and silver tinted smilax interwoven with strands of sparkling pink lights. The ceiling was hidden under a draped canopy of pink silk, and hanging from its apex was a silver and crystal chandelier with candle brackets, a decoration from the era of Ward McAllister, entrepreneur of New York's first Cotillion, circa 1862. The table linen also was a shade of pink, and silver candelabra decorated with bows of pink satin served as centerpieces.

The ballroom stage, where the young women were formally presented, was framed with silver draperies and enclosed, arbor-like, with the same smilax and pink-light decor of the boxes. The ball opened formally at 10 o'clock when the receiving line formed, headed by Mrs. Eugene W. Ong and A. Schuyler Clark, the co-chairmen, and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Honorary Chairman. They were assisted by Miss Barbara Mary Bidwell, Chairman, and Miss Burks Bingham and Miss Joan Struthers Croft, Vice-Chairmen. After the receiving line disbanded the debutantes and their escorts joined in the Grand March. Wearing the prescribed white, floor-length gowns and long white gloves, the debutantes, each with an escort, entered from the opposite side of the stage. As her name was announced, each girl made a formal curtsy and descended red-carpeted steps to the ballroom floor, thence to one of the red velvet chairs centered there in square formation. Escorts remained with their partners, standing behind their chairs until the presentation ceremony was completed.

Five Cotillion Figures, arranged and directed by Mrs. Beulah Phelps Shonnard, were enacted by groups of debutantes, assisted by escorts in some numbers. First on the list was "The Coming Out Waltz," danced by the Misses Barbara Mary Bidwell, Burks Bingham, Joan Struthers Croft, Adelaide Elizabeth Fuller, Julia Dayton Strelitz and Ritchey Farrell Warren and their escorts, with the girls using white ostrich feather fans in various graceful gestures and poses. "Parasol Promenade" was the next figure, presented by eight debutantes, their favors being white parasols studded with brilliants.

"The Garland Dance" presented sixteen young women carrying Christmas garlands decorated with flowing pink ribbons, and this was followed by a gay polka danced by ten couples, with the girls wearing small white tulle capes and carrying muffs ornamented with pink roses.

"Christmas Star," perennial finale of the ball's Cotillion Figures, opened in a darkened ballroom with all 105 debutantes seated on the floor in star formation, their bouffant gowns spread about them. Each girl held a candle, and the scene moved to a touching and impressive climax as, at the sound of distant chimes, the candles were lighted and the entire group, led by the "Note-Worthies" Quartet, joined in singing Christmas carols.

After the Cotillion Figures, a midnight dinner was served, and then general dancing continued until 3 a. m. Leaders of the four dance orchestras were Meyer Davis, playing in the Grand Ballroom Suite; Nat Harris, in the Astor Gallery! Eddie Stanley, in the Jade Room, and Roland Haas, in the East Foyer. The Jade and Basildon Rooms, designated "Toyland" and operated in night club style, were decorated with white Christmas trees, colored balloons, red tablecloths, green napkins and a large assortment of toys. Elsewhere the silver and pink motif of the ballroom prevailed.

Society Abroad

By Jeanne Williams

By now everything is "calm" again on the continent as the international crowd is exhausted from their nerve-wracking, never ending round of holiday amusements. Everyone seems content to settle down to their ordinary, everyday type of gala: Premieres, dinners, and balls. That is, everybody except the Parisians, who have now gotten round to completing plans for the biggest charity ball ever to be given. It all started last Summer when, with a view to reviving the traditional "Masked Ball" at the Paris Opera, so famous in days gone by, a committee was formed to start the annual ball which will be given for the benefit of French charities. The tentative date was set for the middle of November and the work in connection with making this the "biggest" ball of its kind, monopolized the time of everyone concerned.

Unfortunately the plans were cancelled owing to the crises in the Middle East. For the next several months the most popular topic of conversation was "how fabulous the ball would have been!" Now with so many charity affairs being given for the International Red Cross, the Hungarian Relief Fund, and various and sundry other worthwhile causes, the Paris committee, whose names read like an international Who's Who, has decided the thing to do would be to go ahead with the plans for the ball and — the more fabulous the better!

The ball will now be given sometime during the latter part of March or the first week in April. They have decided to call it The Primavera — ball costume et masque; colors obligatoire: black, white, and pastel. The price of entre includes supper and champagne and it's only 15,000 francs (about 30 dollars).

Another topic of conversation is the New York Dress Institute's annual solemn and fatuous pronouncement to a breathless, waiting world — a list of what is considered to be the world's 12 Best-Dressed Women: (1) Mrs. William Paley, (2) the Duchess of Windsor, (3) Princess Grace of Monaco, (4) Mrs. Winston Guest, (5) Audrey Hepburn and Marlene Dietrich, (6) Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, (7) Countess Consuelo Crespi, (8) Rosalind Russell, (9) Princess Margaret and the Duchess of Kent, (10) the Countess of Quintanilla of Madrid, (11) Mrs. Henry Ford II, (12) Countess Mona von Bismarck, who is the former Mrs. Harrison Williams.

According to the dressmaker of Queen Elizabeth of England, the whole business is a lot of nonsense! Norman Hartnell states his opinion that: "The best-dressed women are usually not the best-known women at all, therefore they never get mentioned."

In general the whole subject has caused such a commotion that the Paris coutouriers have given up this list to send back to America as their list which they call: Beauties en Vue. This list of course is strictly international: French: the Vicomtesse de Ribes, born Jacqueline de Beaumont; the Vicomtesse d'Harcourt, born Francoise d'Origny; Greek: Mme. Stavros Niarchos and Mme. Aristotle Onassis, born Eugenie and Christina Livanos (they both could be listed simply as international because two yachts, the "Christina" and the "Creole," are their homes. Two famous armateurs are their husbands, and because they are Greek the sea is their royaume — because they are elegant, Paris is their port d'attache). As International, the coutouriers have named: Mrs. Loel Guinness and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Patrick Guinness, born Dolores von Furstenberg, and Mrs. Woodland Kahler, born Baroness Olga Klewesahl-Steinheil; Chilienne: Mme. Arturo Lopez-Willshaw, born Patricia Lopez-Huici; Italienne: Donna Marcella Agnelli, daughter of Prince Filippi Caracciolo di Castagneto. The contributing coutouriers are: Jean Desses, Lanvin-Castillo, Balenciaga, Dior and Jean Patou.

Three hundred thousand people left Paris during the last week of December. The figures are a little staggering, but then that includes everybody who was staggering off to Winter sports, and to holiday festivities elsewhere. One of the most famous of the thousands was Barbara Hutton, still Baroness von Cramm, who gave up her fabulous apartment at the Ritz Hotel for a month's holiday in Mexico, where she is building a new house in the wilds of the jungle just outside of Mexico City. Later she will fly to Los Angeles, where she is organizing a fantastic party for the 21st birthday of her son, Lance Reventlow.

Lance suffers from asthma, and his mother has bought him a little birthday present: A house in the Hollywood Hills — at a reputed cost of around 1,000,000 dollars.

Lady Nancy Astor was another famous personality to leave the continent. She left for a brief holiday in the Bahamas, before going to New York and Virginia.

Before leaving Lady Astor told friends that she thought that "Rab Butler was so right the other day when he said that Britain needs a first-class public relations officer. Someone is needed to tell the world that Britain is not, never has been, and please God, never will be, a second rate power. Britain is second to none, and I am going to tell the Americans so over radio and television."

"I am the only woman in the world who can praise Britain up to the hilt and get away with it among Americans. For one thing, I was born in Virginia, and Virginia is one of the few states in America which won't hear a word against Britain."

Lady Astor is 78 years old and will spend her vacation in the Bahamas "relaxing, playing golf and swimming." She added: "I'll even have time to think about all the things I'd do if only the British government would appoint me as its roving Public Relations Officer . . ."

A friend of Tony Moynihan is showing everyone a letter from Australia received from this wandering son of Lord Moynihan.

The young Moynihan, writing from his dressing room at the Tivoli Theatre in Sydney, where he has just signed a contract to play in a rock 'n' roll band, says: "For the paltry sum of 250 dollars a week I am bluffing the Australians nightly . . ."

* * *

Apropos of rock 'n' roll, it has just been officially added to the French language. Rock 'n' roll, the French explain in all solemnity, can best be translated as "tongue et roule," which a young rocking and rolling Frenchman immediately translated back to us in the nautical terms of "pitched and rolled."

The jaded French report this "new" rhythm has been known here to jazz fans for at least 35 years. It is even demonstrated in a Paris cabaret in diverse forms by a couple of ballroom dancers, a male singer, a ballet team, and a stripteaser.

One of the most unusual fetes of recent days was given by La Doyenne of Holland to celebrate her 107th birthday. She invited only her closest relatives — but nevertheless she was hostess to exactly 2,000 guests . . . Susan Fonda, after just having received a divorce from her husband Henry Fonda, was rumored to be about to marry the young and handsome Roman, Count Armando Orsini — but, Susan says she has other ideas: she has known Armando for a long time and they are very good friends. Any idea of marriage is out of the question. She has sublet her apartment in New York and plans to live quietly in Paris for the next year. Her former husband, however, is carrying through his plans to marry Venitienne Countess Adfera Franchetti. The lovely countess has for some time been rumored about to wed the Duke Augusto Torlonia, but when she met Henry, who was in Italy at the time making the film, "War and Peace," it was all over but the finale . . .

It was an extraordinary party that highlighted the coming-of-age celebrations of Lady Juliet Fitzwilliam at Shillelagh. Five hundred villagers, estate workers and members of the local hunt were invited to Collatin House, Lady Juliet's 60-roomed house.

The guests were issued with a drink-sheet, a sort of ration coupon divided into sections. With the sheet, or coupons, they could get five bottles of stout, four pints of beer or three small whiskies. After that they could buy their drinks; a few did so — but many left after a fireworks display at 11 p.m.

The estate manager, the dapper Major Mervin Boyne, sprang another surprise . . . every invited guest got a lapel-pin with the figure "21." People without the badge were escorted out — and there were many!

Prince Aly Khan was also one of the personalities to leave Paris over the holidays. Like quite a lot of people with money these days — Aly is building a new house in Geneva, and he has been spending all his time traveling back and forth. And unfortunately has little time to be seen at parties in Paris. This makes us wonder what has become of the grand romance with Bettina . . . Another much talked about romance was that of Michael Simon, grandson of Gourmet Andre Simon, with a pretty model named Joanne Harrington. Michael's mother, now Mrs. Walter Nell, wife of the millionaire dairy king, did not approve, and asked her son to postpone the wedding. Now Mrs. Nell says the wedding is all of. She added: "I don't know when the decision was made. We avoid talking about it. Michael has been away on holiday in Scotland, but soon he will go back to his home in Hollywood, Calif., where he is working with a film studio. I never did meet the girl, but Michael is much too young to get married, and I'm glad it's all over."

Apropos of film people: Mrs. Darryl Zanuck during her stay in Paris has been one of the most popular guests we've had in many a day. She's been invited absolutely everywhere. She of course is a popular hostess herself, and extremely charming — so, the previous statement doesn't surprise anyone.

She spent Christmas Eve at the small intimate party given by the Duke and Duchess of Windsor at their home in Paris. This was the first Christmas in many, many years that the Windsors have not been in America over the holidays. Their New Year's Eve celebration was at the celebrated night club, the Lido, on the Champs Elysee. This really did surprise everyone as there were so many elegant end-of-the-year parties that "tout Paris" found it very difficult to decide which invitation to accept. Perhaps the Windsors didn't want to hurt any of their many friends by not accepting their invitations in lieu of someone else's. From my experience — their's was a very diplomatic decision!

JAMAICA JOTTINGS

THE ARRIVAL IN JAMAICA of Marilyn Monroe and her playwright husband, Arthur Miller, brought autograph hunters out in the thousands as their plane touched down at Palisadoes Airport at Kingston. Despite rumors that the Millers flew to Jamaica so that Mrs. Miller could absorb the island's sunshine "in anticipation of a blessed event," the famous couple refused to affirm or deny. Spot chosen for the holiday was a secluded villa on the island's north shore, in the popular Tower Isle area.

While teen-agers (and their fathers!) flocked to view Marilyn, members of the island's active Little Theatre Movement were more excited about the presence of her husband: in the books is a Jamaica production of Mr. Miller's controversial play, "The Crucible." Should plans be finalized, the director will be Maurice Harty, who produces the island's annual folk pantomime, whose opening last month was graced by the presence of the Governor, Sir Hugh Foot and Lady Foot, and their houseguest, Noel Coward.

Tongues wagged in Jamaica — and more conservative "gentlemen's gentlemen" raised eyebrows in amazement — when Britain's best-dressed politician, Sir Anthony Eden, appeared attired in a brilliant Tower Isle shirt!

Long a favorite with uninhibited masculine visitors, the Tower Isle shirt is a "must" for the male vacation wardrobe. The shirt is made of brilliant cotton print and was named after the Tower Isle Hotel, where it first became the fashion among holidayers.

Sir Anthony, vacationing with Lady Eden at "Goldeneye," the home of novelist Ian Fleming, matched his gay shirt with a pair of Jamaica-length shorts, thus putting the seal of approval on a fashion which allows its wearer to be cool, comfortable — and colorful.

"My Niagara Cyclo-Massage[®] Chair is wonderful . . . relieves tension and fatigue in no time at all"

JOHN S. HEWITT

JOHN S. HEWITT
President
Anahist Co.

"There's nothing quite like a leisurely 'ride' in one of the new Niagara Chairs. In the middle of the day, I like to lean back in mine and let the cyclo-massage motors relax tired muscles and nerves. The Niagara Chair is a wonderful aid to comfort and health . . . and it would, I think, be a delight to any busy executive."

Now you can help increase circulation, ease tension, and improve physical condition—easily, comfortably—while you read or rest.

The Niagara Lounge Chair is a beautiful reclining chair of simple, conservative lines that contains three Niagara Cyclo-Massage motors. Exhaustive research engineering has made possible this amazing equipment, and medical research confirms its remarkable muscle relaxant and sedative effects.

If you want the sensation of a lifetime, just sit in the Niagara chair. Ease back to your most comfortable position, turn on the motors, and . . . aaaahhhh . . . that's it. Cares and wears of mind and body float away. You are but half-conscious of a marvelous action, like thousands of tiny fingers gently stroking, kneading, reaching deep, DEEP down to manipulate and comfort every muscle and joint in your body.

You owe it to yourself to try the Niagara Chair or, at least, to get complete details on it. Send coupon for complete details including beautiful, full-color brochure.

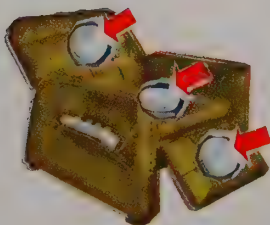

Niagara Massage is available in many models to suit every need and condition, including the comfortable EXECUTIVE CUSHION for use on desk chair, and the THERMO-CYCLOPAD, right, combining heat and massage to help relieve pain of chronic arthritis, bursitis, fibrositis and rheumatism. Send for complete details.

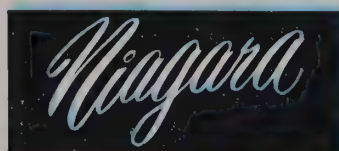

Thermo-Cyclopad

Executive Cushion

Buried in the deep, foam-rubber cushions are three cyclo-massage motors . . . not common vibrators but duplicates of the motors used in Niagara Massage equipment built for hospitals, clinics, and athletic teams.

Presenting the dramatically new
LINCOLN FOR 1957

Dramatic New Styling Everywhere!

—You see it in the unmistakable newness of its Quadra-Lite Grille . . . in the dynamic sweep of its canted rear blades . . . in the crisp, clean flow of long low lines. Inside, rich fabrics . . . incredibly soft leathers . . . thrilling new decorator schemes contribute excitingly to Lincoln newness. Wherever you look, in fact, you will see that nothing has been overlooked to make this new Lincoln, truly, the finest in the fine car field.

Powerfully New Performance!—Out

on the road, you'll quickly discover that this most powerful Lincoln of all time is also the most effortless. The new 300-hp Lincoln engine is the strong, "silent" type—and instantly responsive. New, fast-action Turbo-Drive transmission serves up this great new power promptly—and Lincoln's Hydra-Cushion suspension cradles you in gentle comfort. In traffic or on a turnpike, you just don't seem to mind the miles in a Lincoln.

And more . . . for in a Lincoln, everything you touch turns to power! Doors lock electrically. New power window vents open or close as you press a button. New 6-way power seat adjusts to the most comfortable angle at the touch of a finger. Why, you can even lubricate a Lincoln while you're driving—by touching a button. Lincoln's complete array of power luxuries brings a new kind of ease to fine car driving. Come see for yourself. Unmistakably . . . the finest in the fine car field.

Cadillac

Jewels by Van Cleef & Arpels

Finest Expression of Motordom's Highest Ideal !

Only rarely does automotive progress move forward to a degree that allows truly dramatic and significant advancement in every phase of Cadillac quality.

But as you can clearly see, 1957 is such a year.

Never before have Cadillac designers worked such wonders with steel and glass and chrome. The car is beautiful to an unprecedented degree . . . with a majesty of bearing that is completely new to the American highway.

Never before have Cadillac's interior craftsmen created such miracles of luxury and comfort. Cadillac's fabrics and appointments are a revelation both to behold and to enjoy.

And never before have Cadillac engineers introduced so magnificent a concept of automotive performance. The car offers brilliant new power, wonderful new responsiveness and marvelous new ease of handling.

Isn't it time you visited us for a personal inspection and demonstration of this newest "car of cars"?

We think that it is—and we think, too, that you will find it a unique and richly rewarding experience.

Diamond Rock, an immense slab of stone that juts from the sea four miles off the southern coast of the French island of Martinique, earned its niche in history as the British Navy's stone ship—HMS "Diamond Rock." It was officially carried on the Admiralty's lists this way in 1805 when British sailors hoisted guns up the cliffs and for 17 months blazed away at passing French vessels. The huge rock is easily seen from beautiful Diamond beach, one of the finest on the island. Fort de France, capital of the island, is easily reached via Pan American World Airways.

Society Abroad...

By Jeanne Williams

Seen at a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Woodland Kahler for 150 guests in honor of Edouard Calic to celebrate his new book "The Prophet or the Atom." From the left: S.E. Mr. Harry Thompson Andrews, Ambassador of South Africa, Miss Jeanne Williams, Mrs. Andrews, wife of the Ambassador, Woodland Kahler, president of OMC (Organization Mondiale de la Culture). Mrs. Kahler has recently been voted the "Hostess of the Year."

AFTER MEDITATION, concentration, and consultation, we decided as a change from the usual take-off on our most unusual parties, we would follow the trend of the continent in discussing—of all things, a not so usual change of Prime Ministers: Harold Macmillan replacing, by the decision of Queen Elizabeth, Sir Anthony Eden. Everyone of course discusses all the details and technicalities concerning the private lives of the men in question, but little time is spent discussing their famous wives.

Fifty-six-year-old Lady Dorothy Macmillan, daughter of the ninth Duke of Devonshire, is now the hostess of No. 10 Downing St. Few people remember that the quiet, charming, Lady Dorothy, wife of England's new Prime Minister, was once a leader of many Mayfair escapades. Back in 1932, Lady Dorothy was one of a group including a rear-admiral who armed themselves with ladders, ropes, and pickloads, to "burgle" Ruthland Lodge, which at that time belonged to a former equerry of the Duke of York. They wore masks, and carried torches concealed in revolvers. After they had forced their way in, they were rewarded with beer and sausages. It was called a "Raffies Party", and quite the thing of the day.

It is not generally known either, that the Macmillans are related by marriage to our American dancing idol Fred Astaire. Lady Dorothy's late brother Charles, was married to Fred's sister, Adele.

Woodland Kahler, president of the OMC (Organization Mondiale de la Culture), and his beautiful wife Olga, who incidentally has just been voted "Hostess of the year", were hosts the other day in the grand salons of their Paris home to over a hundred and fifty personalities from the worlds of diplomacy and des arts et des lettres.

The occasion was to celebrate the publication of the latest book written by the secretary-general of the OMC, Edouard Calic. The book is entitled "The Prophet or the Atom," and the contents are almost self explanatory. However a major portion of the book is devoted to the petrol situation in the Middle East in which Mr. Calic refers to the Prince of Kuwait as a "puppet of petrol."

The prince receives 200,000,000 (two-hundred-million-dollars) a year from the United States and therefore money to him has not quite the same value as it might have to someone else . . . But at any rate—the prince decided he didn't like being called a "puppet of petrol" so he calmly filed suit against Mr. Calic for the petty little sum of 20,000,000 (twenty-million-dollars).

Mr. Calic received this cheerful-little-earful about an hour before the party, but nevertheless he was still on hand to greet everyone in his usual gay, talkative mood, and believe it or not—with no aspirine!

MONACO—Princess Grace is going in for motherhood seriously. When she was in New York recently she took Red Cross lessons on how to bind and burp a baby. All she wasn't sure of was whether you could wash a baby's head.

In Grimaldi Palace, a fabulous nursery has been constructed out of a couple of old boxrooms next to the royal apartment. It has its own kitchen with the latest in cookers and refrigerators brought over from America by Grace herself. The nursery was dreamed up by American-society-indoor-decorator, George Spacey. This thin bald man with his black scarf made quite a stir in the palace with his new fangled contemporary ideas. The playroom walls have been decorated by the Walt Disney of France, young Phillipe Josse, for Princess Caroline.

Albert Schweitzer was 82-years-old on Monday, January 14th, but was working as usual at his hospital in Lambarene, French Equatorial Africa, tending the sick and inspecting his new village for lepers. He may well be the oldest European working in Africa. Not many men can work in the terrible humid heat of the equator at such an age.

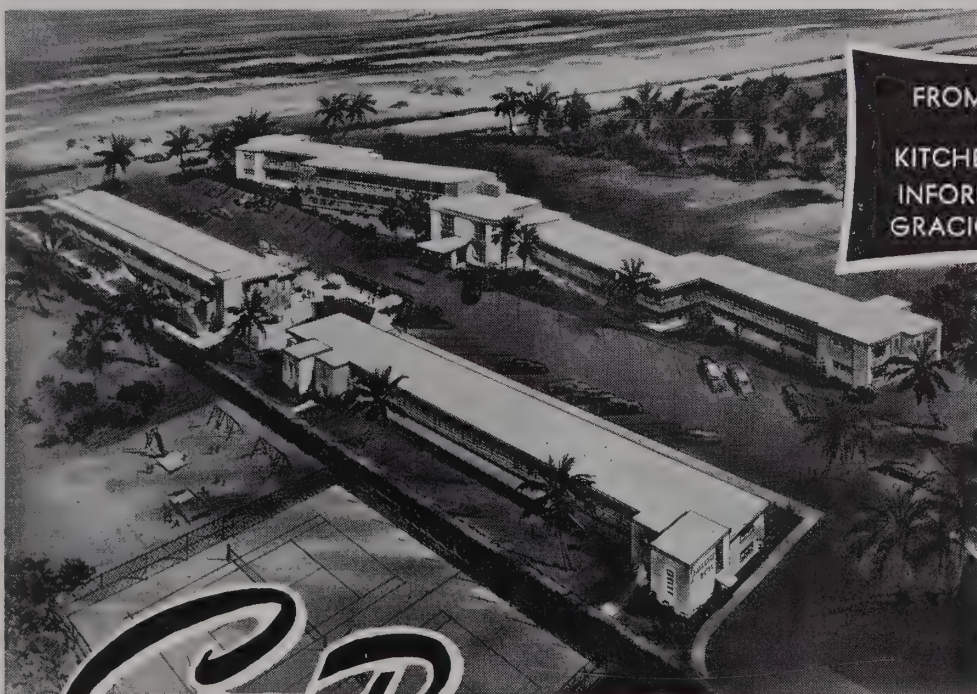

Olga Deterding, 28, daughter of the late Henri Deterding, the oil millionaire, is one of his latest helpers. Olga arrived last month unexpectedly and without the nursing qualifications which the doctor expects from all his helpers, but she has found her vocation in the leper-village, and does not want to return to the French social life she left.

If Olga offers the doctor a large donation for his hospital, I am told he will politely decline. He has done it before: A woman admirer

APROPOS — Hungarian and Central European Relief Fund has reached 5,400,000 dollars, but the figure is not yet big enough—the target is 6,000,000 dollars.

Another octogenarian, the Aga Khan, celebrated his birthday recently by giving a party for a rather large number of his international friends who are often referred to as members of "The Charmed Circle". The celebration took place in the plush and gold surroundings of 3 Rue Royale, Paris. A spot often referred to as the home away from home, for "The Charmed Circle"—in other words, Maxim's. Quite a lot of people seem to think that the Aga Khan spends every birthday being weighed and then given his weight in diamonds, rubies, platinum, and gold, etc; etc; etc;

We now state as the verity—and, on first hand information: this fabulous ceremony has taken place in the life of the Aga Khan, but only three times. Each time the money went to charities and other worthwhile projects.

* * *

Another birthday for another much-loved octogenarian: Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 82nd birthday with a very quiet party for only his most intimate friends and family at his country home in Westerham, England. The highlight of the party was the cutting of a 45-pound birthday cake, complete with candles. Eighty of them were arranged in pairs with each pair forming a "V for Victory" sign. Two giant candles formed a big "V" on the top.

Sir Winston said, with tears in his eyes, "I should like to express my warm thanks to my friends at home and abroad who have been kind enough to write to me on my birthday. Their number is such that I unfortunately cannot answer them personally, but their good wishes are a source of great pleasure to me and my family on my anniversary."

The first Sir Winston Churchill, was a plain country squire with an attractive daughter and an adventurous son, and but for those children he would be almost unknown today. Sir Winston was neither a very talented writer nor a naturally gifted politician. He fought bravely in the Civil Wars, but had failed to make his mark in the political hurly-burly that followed the return of Charles II.

Not until his daughter Arabella had gone to court where she was presently joined by her young and handsome brother John, did the family of Churchill begin its rapid and astonishing rise.

Our Sir Winston of today also has a rather famous daughter, but in a little different way. Sarah Churchill, is married to society photographer, Anthony Beauchamp, and was previously married to comedian Vic Oliver. Sarah has just returned to the continent after spending quite awhile in the United States where she was busy doing a TV play of her father's first novel "Savrola."

Rumors have it that Sarah is about to divorce her second husband, and that that is her reason for returning from America. However, Sarah refuses to discuss the matter, even with her closest friends. She says: "I don't want to talk about my marriage or my leaving the United States. My reasons are extremely private and personal..."

Our Sir Winston of today also has an adventurous son...

QUOTEBOOK: "I am a man that's easy to live with, I made an error in marrying my four previous wives but they didn't make any..."—Porfirio Rubirosa.

"During my two months stay in America, I have been engaged twelve times, but unfortunately only in the American papers..."—Etchika Choureau.

BALLS—PARTIES—AND, DEBUTANTES: Springs may be the legendary season when a young man's heart beats faster, but in reality now is the time! Particularly if he happens to be a young eligible bachelor—eligible these days no longer means available: Especially with the case of the international debutantes.

As the saying goes, an ounce of demonstration is worth a thousand words, and so vying for top place, we offer the following list of the world's most "available" young (all in their 20's) bachelors:

King Baudouin of Belgium, Prince Geraud de La Tour d'Auvergne, who incidentally looks so much like Baudouin that quite often on his visits in Belgium he runs into cases of mistaken identity; the Duke of Kent; Prince Sadri Khan; Prince Johann von Hohenzollern; Prince Carl-Phillip zu Salm-Salm; Count Alexander von Bismarck; brothers Howard and Christopher Gilman, of the Gilman paper millions; brothers John and Hugo Loudon, of the Shell Oil millions; Jan Hjorth of the Swedish steel empire, nephew of the King of Sweden, and frequent escort of Princess Brigitta at the Royal balls; and to make it a baker's dozen, that gay young man about Paris, Pierre Barrachin, heir to one of the largest fortunes in France.

In close pursuit—or is it the other way around—we find the most popular and sought after debts of the continental season: Princess Beatrix d'Orange, and it's not to be forgotten that in two years Beatrix will be Queen of the Netherlands; Princess Brigitta, granddaughter of King Gustav of Sweden; Princess Alexandra of Kent, daughter of the Duchess of Kent; Lady Daphne Cadogan, daughter of Earl and Countess Cadogan of Cadogan Square, London, and her cousin Lady Lorna Lyle, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Bedford; Nicola Lubitsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bedford, of the Standard Oil Bedfords; Marie Louise de Monferrier, daughter of the American-born Marquise de Monferrier of Mexico; Christiane Martin, niece of Mrs. Andre Firmenich, who incidentally lent her chateau in Geneva to President Eisenhower during the Geneva conference, Sandra Tevis, great-granddaughter, on her father's side of Romaldo Pacheco, the last Spanish Governor of California, and a descendant of Sir Christopher Wren on her mother's side; Sarah Clifford Turner, who has been studying with the Comtesse de Costeja in Paris; Helene Guerin, daughter of the French Ambassador to Canada; and Florence Lalouette, daughter of the French Minister in Morocco, and also a cousin of the Austrian royal family.

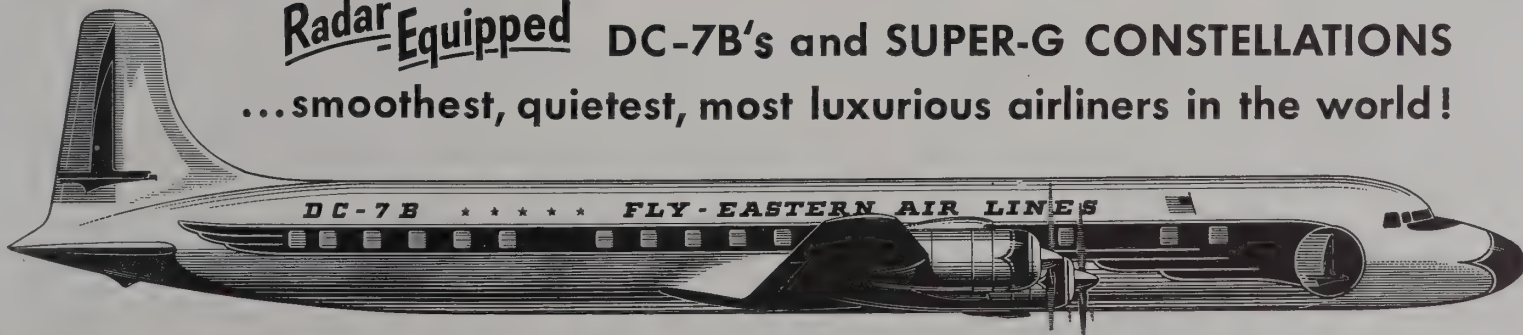

Now it's only fitting to add that the job of debutante is not as easy as it looks. To be successful at it is to be constantly on the go and always smiling; in short—possess all the diplomatic qualities of a full-fledged Ambassador who, at a minimum, is almost three times older. And then of course, there's always the post-deb who's not to be forgotten. And as it happens that European customs are a bit different when it comes to presenting a young lady to society, European debts have more than their share of competition from that glamorous "know-it-all" species called the post-deb.

Some of the most beautiful and famous post-debs are: Princess Margaret of England; Princess Isabelle de France, daughter of the Comte de Paris, pretender to the throne of France; Princess Pauline Murat; Princess Louly Obolenska, niece of New York's famous Serge Obolensky; Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia; Countess Bunny Ester-

Europe during the Winter season has an over abundance of luncheons, teas, cocktail parties, dinners, receptions and balls, and the schedule is even more crowded this year. However the deb cotillions that we know and love in America do not exist as such on the continent. There are private balls given by the happy parents—balls given for various and sundry reasons in the most beautiful castles of Europe, and then—the annual charity balls.

The means are a bit different, the effect is the same—the results are what counts: the debts get the fame.

Speaking of fame—even the most sedate charity balls are not the same since that famous dance-craze rock 'n' roll reached the continent. Like the other day at the fashionable Snow Ball at London's Dorchester Hotel, bandleader Paul Adam played a whole rock 'n' roll session, and then that "rock" expert, the very elegant young Duke of Kent, initiated his sister the Princess Alexandra, into some of its finer points. Their demonstration proved an example for the others and in no time at all the guests which included a major turn-out of the season's debts, were dancing to "we're gonna dance around the clock tonight, we're gonna dance and dance 'til broad daylight . . ." and they did.

That other famous "rock" expert, the 21-year-old Earl of Wharncliffe, leaves his million dollar estate every night to "rock around the clock" also, but in a little different way. He is a member of the Musicians Union and plays the drums with a local rock 'n' roll band. Cela va sans dire—they play only at the better parties . . .

* * *

A special party was given in Paris for that very special American deb, Sandra Tevis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tevis of San Francisco. Sandra is a student at Bleu-Leman, in Switzerland, and was just passing through Paris for several days, where she was the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Lanson, who are old friends of her parents.

Sandra was en route to San Francisco where she was presented at their Christmas Cotillion. After the Spring term she'll be given a private debut by her parents at the famous Burlingame Country Club, followed by another debut in Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

Mr. Tevis, her father, is a well-known polo player and president of the San Francisco Polo Club. He probably has brought more young players into polo than anyone else in America, and he still holds the world's record for endurance riding.

Her exceptional and beautiful mother, Wren, is the only woman who's played polo as a bona fide player of a man's team.

In reference to her daughter, Mrs. Tevis says she hopes the endurance runs in the family, and that "If Sandra survives her present schedule she will probably bow, limp or what-have-you, in England next spring when she will be presented at the Court of Saint James."

"Sibyl," one of eleven Jawlenskys owned by the Levins, is being reproduced in a book on German Expressionist authored by Dr. Peter Selz, head of the art department, Pomona University.

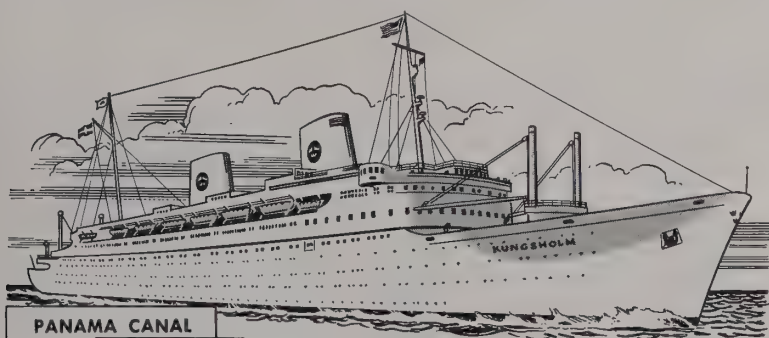

AFICIONADOS of the fine arts got a chance to see a group of paintings at the University of Miami's Joe and Emily Lowe Art Gallery that are being avidly sought by collectors and galleries from Munich to Los Angeles.

On view was the Alexej von Jawlensky collection of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Levin, Miami dinsky and Feininger in the "Blue Four" exhibits in Munich during the 1920's. During this past season, exhibitions of his work have caused a considerable stir in European art circles. New York and several other American art centers are planning major retrospective Jawlensky shows. Galleries and museums from coast to coast have sought selections from the Levin collection for their forthcoming exhibitions.

In the January, 1957, issue of Arts, Edouard Roditi says: "Right now there are perhaps more curators of modern art museums in the market shopping for an important Jawlensky painting than for work of any other major master of the past fifty years."

Outstanding characteristic of Jawlensky's work is his careful orchestration of the hot "fauve" colors of Matisse, Van Gogh and Gauguin.

On view with the Levin collection of Jawlenskys were a group of portraits by outstanding contemporary artists from New York's Museum of Modern Art. Artists represented include Siqueiros, Dufy, Tchelitchev, Brook, Buffet. Mr. and Mrs. Levin also loaned supplementary works for this exhibition, including a magnificent Soutine.

Mrs. Levin and Mrs. C. Clay Aldridge, wife of the Gallery director, served punch to over 300 first nighters. Beaux Arts members Jane (Mrs. Arthur) Seigel and Dolly (Mrs. William F.) Whitman also assisted at the punch bowl.

Author Marjory Stoneman Douglas took time off from her latest book to attend the preview with Mrs. Charles Dakin Taft. Mrs. Taft is known to museum-goers for her fascinating lectures on turn-of-the-century photography.

Although Mrs. Rolfe Nyberg and Dr. Joseph Ballantine — new University of Miami government professor — were both born in India, they met for the first time at the recent preview. Mrs. Nyberg, who received a graduate degree in music a few months ago, previewed the exhibition with her husband, a Swedish jewelry designer, and sculptor Mrs. Theodore Gerken.

Dr. and Mrs. Ballantine reminisced with Clayton Charles, chairman of the University of Miami's Art Department, Mrs. Joseph Ballantine, Dr. C. Doren Tharp, UM vice president and dean of faculties, Mrs. Tharp and Dr. Ballantine, new UM government professor, at the Jawlensky and Modern Portraits preview, Lowe Art Gallery.

From New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gropper (he is president of the La Primadora Cigar Corp.), Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wiehe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kemp Quigley, who are occupying a penthouse for the season.

The Colony which is open all-year-round is as popular during the Summer months as it is during the Palm Beach Winter season. Air-conditioned throughout and now with the addition of the popular Bath Club, it has all of the facilities for an ideal vacation regardless of the season or time of year.

Lunching poolside at the Bath Club has become a must in the program of the vacationer to the resort . . . it is one of the most picturesque spots in town and ideal for a leisurely luncheon or brunch with tropical atmosphere. A grand place for a dip in the pool or sun-tanning on the pool terrace . . . many resorters have lockers here and avail themselves of the facilities of the Club. For guests at the hotel, it is most convenient and many lunch here informally in their sun-clothes . . . or on the adjacent terrace.

For entertaining at luncheon or dinner, the glass enclosed Terrace Room is delightful. It is protected from the elements and still has a wonderful view of the entire Bath Club area.

The Breakers

By Amy Lyman Phillips

FEBRUARY AT THE BREAKERS, with its two holidays, as Valentine's Day brings so much gayety and entertaining that it is counted along with Washington's Birthday, when the annual Breakers Birthday Ball is held, as one of the red-letter days at the resort.

In late January, when the 49th tournament of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests ended, the hotel was filled and only a few members of the League who had made early reservations for part of February, remained. February and March this season, did not even have the proverbial "standing room only," and the importance of reservations made a year in advance was made evident.

The hotel was "en fete" for St. Valentine's Day, with beautiful decorations executed by Mrs. Helen Bahn, Baltimore's premiere floral decorator who has achieved such unusual effects this year with her liberal use of the beautiful foliage Palm Beach has to offer, together with wonderful roses and other flowers grown in The Breakers gardens and hothouses.

Many private parties were given, with the Magnolia Room and the Blue Room pressed into service. February brings very many late arrivals who come to stay until near the season's end.

The Washington's Birthday Ball, held in the Terrace Garden and Starlight Room, with music by Theodore Weegan and his orchestra and entertainment by The Breakers entertainment staff: Betty and George Montgomery, the popular dancers, with their assistants, Miss Helen Jenson and Thomas Valenti; Miss Suzanne Nicole, soprano, is absent during February and her friend, Miss Daniele Delbryere, soprano, with whom she studied in Paris last Summer, sang during February, Joseph Thompson, baritone, remains through the season. Jack F. Gaffney, in charge of the cocktail area, doubles as comedian and tap-dancer, with Joe Lanza, violinist of the orchestra, joining him in skits and dances.

The traditional eggnog was served in the dining room foyer on Washington's Birthday and hung nearby was a fine portrait, a copy of a Copley, of the Father of His Country. The cocktail parties and dinners on that day reached a high level in this month's entertaining and many from the cottage colony joined in the entertaining.

February came into its own with beautiful sunny days, wonderful sea bathing, al fresco luncheons at Gabrielle's or in the Cabanas, water sports in the Olympic swimming pool where Charles Norelius holds forth, and the Coconut Grove adjacent to the Starlight Room comes into its own.

Seen there in her wheelchair occasionally is Mrs. Myron Taylor of New York, wife of the former Envoy to the Vatican, who when able also is seen here during sunny days. Their Winter home is at the end of the Cabana and cottage line, directly upon the ocean.

The popular Wednesday evening gala nights in the Terrace Garden preceded by a "diner de luxe" at The Breakers, are highlights of the week, and the Saturday evening vaudeville dance features entertainment by the staff, also two acts from Miami to bring new talent into the picture. Past Saturday nights, acrobatic dancers, juggling acts, pantomimists, South American entertainers, and the always popular annual feature in the trained chimpanzees, with dancing an hour late to end the evening.

The weekly putting matches have brought more and more contestants to the green, held on Wednesday afternoons, and usually bringing the two champions of 1926, Mrs. Henry V. Keller of Minneapolis and Clarence W. Wannop, manager of The Breakers, into play. Sunday afternoon many gather on the West Terrace to watch bowling on the green, where Victor Lownes is referee and Frank Bohn, scorekeeper. Expected here this month are several from the Chicago area who Winter at neighboring resorts and some exciting matches are to be expected, with these expert bowlers competing.

The Breakers permanent Winter colony includes, during February, Senator Donat Raymond of Montreal, who for more than a quarter century has spent his Winters here with Mrs. Raymond, his daughter, Miss Grace Raymond, and other relatives.

Senator N. M. Patterson of Ottawa, Ont., also is a popular guest from over the border and the Canadian colony also includes Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Pollock, who heretofore have been here from the opening of The Breakers, but were obliged to defer their coming until January 25th this season. Mr. and Mrs. George T. Reid, Mrs. J. H. Gundy, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Aird, Mr. and Mrs. Conn Smythe, all of Toronto, Miss Janet Carruthers of Winnipeg, Manitoba, who plays in the annual Women's Golf Championship at Palm Beach Golf Club this month. Mrs. R. R. Costello of Montreal will be here again, also Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Savard and Mr. and Mrs. Roddy Choquette of Montreal, the latter usually having one of The Breakers penthouses. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Walters of Montreal, guests here last season, now are at their new home in Gulf Stream Road, Palm Beach, and are frequently at The Breakers with his sister, Mrs. N. B. Oakes of Birkdale, England, who is here annually for several weeks during the early season, going later to the Princess Issena, Daytona Beach, for a few weeks before a New York and Montreal round of visits.

The February colony includes Mr. and Mrs. John E. Judson of South Orange, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brooks of New York; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. D. Cameron of Ausable Forks, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene K. Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. McCoy, Mrs. Georgia Lee Parker, Mrs. William L. Stewart, Mrs. Frederick H. Bedford, all of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marron of Brielle, N. J., who return here after a cruise for oceanic research. Mrs. Marron devoted much time last Spring in writing a book on their interesting work. Here from Ohio are Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. White, who have a suite for the season and return for the late Spring season; also Mr. and Mrs. J. French Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hancock, all of Cleveland, Ohio; also George H. Tipling, who spends the entire season here and has his race horses trained at Pompano Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Large, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. James, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Wescoat, Mr. and Mrs. James Corbett, Mrs. Edward Scott Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Meigs, all of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. George Burbach, Mrs. Harry Prufrock, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McCourtney, all of St. Louis, Mo.; also Mrs. Harry Lee Warren and her father, Eugene F. Moran of Bay Shore, L. I., N. Y., who spend the season at The Breakers.

Above are a few of The Breakers colony who find the hotel so comfortable and desirable a home during Winter and early Spring.

Competition is a family thing on the lush Camelback Inn putting greens at Phoenix, Ariz., where the attractive young George P. McAtees III of Dallas, Texas, spend vacation time putting. In the background is the Inn's main building with the famous slogan, "Where Time Stands Still," emblazoned on the new tower.

MIDSEASON is a time for much activity, for golf and putting under blue skies in the brilliant Arizona sunshine at Camelback Inn near Phoenix.

The desert air is invigorating and in February has twice the appeal. For by this time of Winter, nearly all vacationers have become weary of picturesque snowscenes in their home cities, for the beauty entails chill, dampness and the accompanying grey skies and slush.

This is the time for the Snowball Golf Tournament, named for the Inn's famous Albino burro mascot known over the nation as "America's most celebrated jackass." This is the time, too, for the Gainey Putting Tourney, and both inspire traditional annual cocktail parties attended by all vacationers at the Inn.

There is much gaiety at these affairs. From the East in time to participate in competition

Another table was occupied by a New Jersey foursome from Hackensack, the Mark Strattons and Charles Conklins.

Merrymakers from the Keystone State included William B. McFall, president of Commonwealth Trust Co., and Mrs. McFall from Pittsburgh; the David Websters from Mercer, Reznor president; and the Edward G. Budds Jr. of Budd manufacturing fame, have just ended a holiday from their home in Philadelphia.

The William A. Bours III of Wilmington, Del., du Pont executive, and his wife enjoyed the leisurely buffet pool luncheons during their holiday.

From the deep South and the heart of Texas are some vacationing personalities. Mrs. Everett L. DeGolyer, whose late husband was one of the state's most noted oil men, relaxed at the Inn for several weeks with a daughter, Mrs. George McGhee and two granddaughters. Texans, too, enjoying the fabulous golf on neighboring Paradise Valley Country Club fairways include annual visitors, the Robert Lakes of Tyler, who this season brought along two sons. The Albert G. Mosses of Dallas are temporarily trading their Brook Hollow Golf Club fairways for the fine ones adjoining the Inn, and from Houston is attorney Frank Parks with his wife, for the annual desert fun.

All the while, the Chicago and Detroit area colonies are increasing as the annual vacationers arrive midseason. From River Forest again this year are the J. L. Tourtelotes, who conclude this sojourn today, and the C. A. Bowleys brought along Tina and Mike this year from Washington, Ill. Lawrence J. Burke, head of Chicago's Poster Products, is back again for his month of sun with Mrs. Burke. Returning, too, the William Garveys, the L. S. Burks, the George Gallaghers, and the E. J. Morrisseys, all of the Windy City. Mr. Morrissey is president of Chicago Rivet and Machine Co. The George Swifts of Chicago, members of the packing family, have concluded a two-week stay.

From Michigan, the Charles McCuens, retired head of the General Motors research laboratories, have left their Bloomfield Hills home to renew acquaintances with their desert Winter friends. From Port Huron are returnees James Duffy, railway executive and Mrs. Duffy to golf and putt, and from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, another pair of veteran desert holidayers, the Sutherland Dows, Iowa Power and Light Co. owner. From Cedar Rapids, too, lumber official James Maloney and Mrs. Maloney.

Returning from Ohio to rejoin their friends on the desert are the Wilson Moriartys of Shaker Heights, where he heads National Malleable Steel, and from Shaker Heights, also, the relaxing Edward Demsons. Another Ohio steel company president, John Auwerter of Cuyahoga Steel Co., arrived on the 21st with Mrs. Auwerter to sunlaze until mid-March.

Missouri, too, is playing on the desert fairways and relaxing. An annual foursome, the William L. Behans Jr. and the Lester Rauschers, brought along friends this season, the Robert Smileys, to introduce them to the relaxing desert life and daily golfing at Paradise Valley Country Club. From the same city are the Edward Mallinckrodt, who head the vast chemical works that bears the same name, and from suburban Clayton, Charles Frees, bank director and retired Curtis Manufacturing executive, and Mrs. Frees.

The Sven Salens of Stockholm, Sweden, Swedish shipping magnate and his wife, have arrived again for a month of desert sunshine. His "Bolero" set an all-time record in last year's Newport to Bermuda race.

Here to relax from Wichita, Kan., are Robert L. Williams, Imperial Oil Co. president, and Mrs. Williams; from Tulsa, Lloyd F. Worley, drilling company president, and Mrs. Worley, and returning from Little Rock, Ark., banker Fred I. Brown and Mrs. Brown.

The Greenbrier

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson of Hudson, Ohio, enjoy The Greenbrier's President's Parlor.

HISTORICAL RECORDS do not indicate that George Washington slept here. Not many resorts as old as White Sulphur Springs can make this claim, for if you can believe the signs along the highways, George Washington was a very well travelled gent who did much sleeping enroute.

Still, that George Washington visited The Greenbrier is not an impossible speculation, for the White Sulphur Springs, discovered in 1778, was rapidly becoming a popular spa in the late eighteenth century, and Washington was known to have been fond of "taking the waters." He is said, at the mere age of 29, to have sought a cure for rheumatism at Bath, one of America's first spas, now known as Berkley Springs and also located in West Virginia.

But, whether or not the founder of our country whose birthday was recently celebrated, stayed at White Sulphur Springs, he did have a direct influence on today's Greenbrier, for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, parent company of the resort, is the fulfillment of a dream of the youthful surveyor from Virginia.

It is true that when he dreamed of a system to transport goods and people from one place to another, he wasn't dreaming of railroads for they had not yet made their appearance. Washington was thinking of flat-bottomed canal boats, pulled by mules, to be operated from Virginia to the Ohio River.

He was responsible for the establishment in 1785 of the James River Company, the original predecessor of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway.

In 1820 the James River Company was taken over by the state under an act making provision for the linking of the Chesapeake Bay and the Ohio River, utilizing the James River and the Kanawha River and a canal to connect the navigable waters of these streams. Thus the James River and Kanawha Company was founded.

As late as 1860 the James River and Kanawha Canal did a thriving business and it was, in this period, the greatest freight and passenger carrier in Virginia. But after 1853 the growing traffic of the railroads cut into the canal's revenues and a new era in this history of transportation in Virginia began.

The canal company continued to function until 1880 when its properties were acquired by the then recently chartered Richmond and Alleghany Railroad Company, which built a line from Richmond to Clifton Forge. The old towpath was used for the roadbed as far as Buchanan, a distance of 197 miles. The Richmond and Alleghany was acquired by C&O in 1889.

A chart showing the various railroads from which C&O was sprung would resemble the family tree of a person whose ancestry is pre-Mayflower. One of it's earliest branches would be the Louisa Railroad Company chartered by the state of Virginia on February 18, 1836. In 1850 the Louisa changed its name to the Virginia Central. This pushed westward until, by 1861, it extended from Richmond to the Jackson River, just east of Covington.

The journey to White Sulphur Springs had always been difficult and tiresome. Some visitors had to travel over poor roads for many days and even weeks to reach this destination. Some came on horseback, some in a grand coach-and-four with darky outriders and still others by stage. But always the matter of most importance to them all was that they come to the Springs, rather than how uncomfortable the trip.

By the middle sixties, eager men had their hearts set on a railroad. "On to White Sulphur" was the rallying cry and in July of 1867 the Railroad Convention was held at the Old White. Among the men gathered together for this meeting was a group of Virginia leaders who, thirteen years before in

A prize of George Washington's railroad, C&O's Locomotive No. 32, toots up to a stop in front of McCready's boarding house at Covington, not far from White Sulphur Springs. This photo was taken about 1870.

1854, had resolved the Covington and Ohio Railroad into theoretical being. This company was to build a railroad from Covington to the Ohio River. The Civil War and the dismemberment of Virginia caused by the formation of West Virginia halted this construction for a time, but the convention of 1867 got the ball rolling again. The Covington and Ohio merged with the Virginia Central to form the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad for this westward push.

Three years later the arrivals at White Sulphur Springs came by rail instead of by stage. Something of the old era disappeared with the passing of the stage coach. A picturesque touch was gone. But the coming of steam made White Sulphur a national institution, easy of approach, frequented by business and social leaders of the North as well as the South, of the East as well as of the West.

And just forty-three years after this the Chesapeake & Ohio purchased the famous resort. Immediately, the new owner began construction of a fabulous new hotel to be called The Greenbrier.

And so this is how George Washington influenced today's Greenbrier. The C&O is still called George Washington's railroad and its crack train is named in honor of its "first stockholder." Each day the "George" makes a stop at White Sulphur Springs bringing the resort mail and supplies, as well as guests. That's why George Washington's birthday is of special significance to all who know and love The Greenbrier. His influence will be felt for a long time to come.

The Miami Scene

By Helen Wells

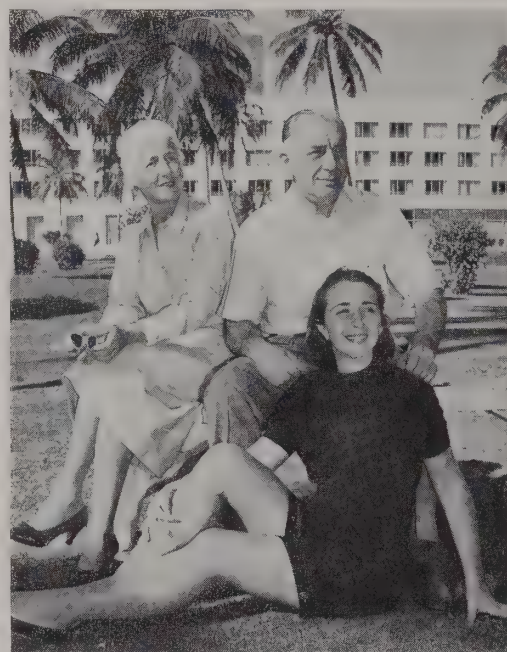

HIGH-HO for the peak of the season in Miami. That's when the track of Flamingoes, Hialeach Race Course, opens its doors . . . or windows? . . . and the Opera Guild presents its first opera, in this case Faust.

The opera itself was a magnificent production with handsome Cesare Siepi, Met basso as Mephistopheles. And a handsome devil he was, who starred, too, at the Star Supper following the opera at the Top O' the Columbus.

Guiseppe Campora sang the title role and lovely Nadine Conners sang Marguerite.

Attending the opening of Faust at the Coconut Grove Playhouse were Mrs. Fred W. Hooper and her daughter, Betty Hooper, and Mrs. James Llewellyn, all of Coral Gables, Fla.

KEY BISCAIYNE HOTEL

Nick Londos, general manager of the Olympia Stadium in Detroit, his wife Cecile and daughter Penny at the Key Biscayne Hotel and Villas. The Londos reside in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Half the fun of going to opening night at the opera is seeing the gorgeous furs, jewels and gowns worn by feminine music lovers. I suspect that's a good part of their enjoyment, too.

Mr. Opera Guild himself, (Dr. Arturo di Fillipi) was suave in white tie and tails and his Lee wore an exquisite white lace brought from Spain. Young Patronesses of the Opera Guild were hostesses in the foyer of the Dade County Auditorium before curtain time, with pretty Betty (Mrs. Al) Brown, giving a brief run down on the story of Faust before the curtain went up. Betty's crimson and silver brocade dress with crimson velvet train was made from fabric brought her from Japan.

Ida and Walter Olson, Benefactors of the Guild, (He is the Olson Rug Co.) had with them their houseguests, the Vitus Houhas of Riverside, Ill. Ida's blue and white peau de soie was topped with a new azure mink, bought for the occasion, plus her magnificent jewelry.

Ruth and Radford Crane of La Gorce Island, had his family with them, his mother, Mrs. Raymond Crane and two brothers, Robert and David with their wives.

Ruth's white peau de soie sheath was set off by an azure mink stole and diamonds. She and newlywedded Helen (Mrs. Lloyd) Dilworth in powder blue satin, gold tiara and mink stole, were chairmen of the Star Supper.

Ethel Kennedy, new member of the Opera Guild board, wore a divine Lillie Rubin original of apricot iridescent peau de soie, appliqued with 24 carat gold lace. She sparkled with her diamond jewelry and white mink cape. Her husband, George, was in white tie

Dr. and Mrs. George Menninger (she also is a new member of the OG board) were with the Westley Benners, all of Golden Beach, the Harry Lundys, new Life Members of the Guild ($1000 membership) and the Steve Laskers of Grand Rapids and Miami Beach. That effervescent Parisienne, Blanche (Mrs. Nelson Swift Morris) whose late husband was of the Chicago meat packing clan, ordered a new chincilla stole for Opera opening to wear with her pink satin sheath and breath taking jewels.

Interesting guests of the Harry Andersons of Pittsburgh were Dr. T. L. Soong, brother of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, and second in command of the exiled government in Formosa, and Mrs. Soong. She is a beautiful Chinese and was wearing the national dress, a pink silk piped in black, made mandarin style.

John Clark, former president of Hialeah, and Mrs. Clark, whose Winter home is on La Gorce Island, were in a luncheon party. At this table were Elizabeth (Arden) Graham, who owns the Main Chance Farm Stable, in her favorite pink and Alfred Barton, executive v.p. of the Surf Club.

William Veeneman, chairman of the board of Churchill Downs and his Edna in brown and white printed silk, were in their front row box. They occupy an apartment at the Surf Club for the season.

Mrs. Floyd Best of Elkhart, Ind., her brother, Rex Sanders, who Winter in Bal Harbour, Col. William Reinhardt, Pat Cummings, Col. William Sweeney who arrives from Canada each year in his Rolls Royce, were more opening day turf fans.

And speaking of Hialeah, the Flamingo Ball of the Symphony Club will be held in the clubhouse at the track on the evening of March 1. Jane (Mrs. E. E. Dale) Shaffer, and Kitty (Mrs. Robert) Cudahy are co-chairmen of this colorful Ball.

Both the Shaffers and the Cudahys are stable owners as well as music lovers. This is the third annual Symphony Ball, the second held at Hialeah, and celebrates the 30th year of University of Miami's 108-piece Symphony orchestra.

The orchestra will be the feature attraction at the ball, in a miniature concert. The late Dr. Arnold Volpe, whose wife, Marie, is now the guiding spirit of the Symphony, founded the orchestra in 1926. John Bitter is its present conductor.

After the Lloyd Dilworths returned from their Nassau honeymoon, Ruth and Rad Crane gave a glamorous cocktail party for them at their newly done over La Gorce Island home.

Enormous pink water lilies (artificial) floated dreamily on the irregularly shaped swimming pool. At one corner was a nest where two white cranes (stuffed) perched. Ruth Crane was taking a "ribbing" for this pun.

Jeanne Putnam, from whom the Cranes bought the house, was saying that they had done to it what she "had always wanted to do." She was squired by John Astor, who also divides his affections between Jeanne, Ann Van Sciver and a few others.

Two wicker monkeys hung from an enormous banyan tree in the garden while underneath stood a tiny hurdy-gurdy. Mrs. Jack Ehrhart and Mrs. Orin Mather steered guests to the garden to see these conversation pieces.

Mrs. Lowry Wall, there with her banker husband, was in a pale blue satin great coat trimmed in blue fox over a blue satin cocktail dress. Eligible bachelor, Frank Magnuson, said he was just back from a skiing jaunt in Stowe, Vt., where he learned to glide down the slopes in zero weather. Incidentally, both ankles were intact!

After the Cranes' party most of their guests adjourned to the Surf Club, where Eleanor and Charles Sykes were celebrating their 20th wedding anniversary a week early.

Eleanor in pink satin studded with sparkling sequins, and Charlie in pale blue dinner coat, black trousers and his inevitable tiny pink rosebud boutonniere in his lapel received guests in the main ball room where cocktails were served.

Mrs. G. B. Putnam, Frank N. Magnuson and Mrs. T. Higbee Embry at the Radford Crane's cocktail party given for Helen and Lloyd Dilworth, newlyweds.

Dinner and dancing were in the Fountain Room, where a silver moon peeped through the rolled back roof.

Hazel and Al Penn, just down in Bal Harbour from their home in Indiana, were saying "hello" to friends. Hazel is one of Miami Beach's best dressed and was wearing a dreamy creation of rosy taffeta.

Lessie and Walter Merrill, long time Miami residents, Irene and Edgar Dyal were in the company. Pretty and petite Joyce Ebling, Surf resident with her parents, the Wesley Eblings of Detroit, was cutting a mean rug with Eddie Dorr.

Viola and Inman Padgett were over from the Gables; Larry Haugen, perennial beau about town, and his cousin, Wilbur Haugen from Minnesota, were squiring Elise Van Ingen, a vision in red.

Saul Silberman, owner of Tropical Park race track, had the surprise of his life when his wife plotted a party for him at the vast house on N. Bay Road they rented from Harriet Young for the season.

Mrs. Silberman calls her mate "Nappy" because she thinks he resembles Napoleon. There were life-sized cardboard figures of the "little colonel" in the hall and at the pool. Floating on the pool was "Congratulations Nappy" in colored letters.

No, it wasn't Saul's birthday. You can actually call him "Cunel" now, suh. He was made an honorary Kentucky Colonel and an honorary West Virginia Mountaineer by James Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, whose handsome yacht "Fireball" was moored at the Silberman's dock.

Harry Reid of Lexington, Ky., had another gift for Saul—a set of cuff links for his extensive collection. They were made from gold 20 franc pieces of the Napoleonic era and the coins are 100 years old.

THE ROYCE POWELL's new Georgetown home lends itself perfectly to the fun-loving family. Third floor rooms are equipped with a small kitchen where cokes and cookies are served to small-fry friends of daughter Kieve. Teeners Lisa and Theresa find the small second-floor ballroom "solid" for "rock-n-roll" and the stately first floor drawing room with convenient adjoining sun room affords elegant surroundings for adult gatherings. Recently we found all three segments of the Powell clan entertaining simultaneously on three levels of the handsome home.

SNOW AND SLEET did not stop society from attending and enjoying three of the loveliest parties of the Winter. One of the most popular and beautiful was the second annual Imperial Ball for the Hospitalized Veterans Service of the Musicians Emergency Fund attended by over one thousand people in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria.

The most elaborate decorations in the ballroom centered about the "royal box" in which Mrs. Lytle Hull, president of the Hospitalized Veterans Service and honorary chairman of the Ball Committee, entertained the Begum Aga Khan. White flags were at either side of the box, which was also draped in white, and the crest of the Begum, of which the colors were also red and green, was featured. Two golden lions at either side of the stage, when the curtains were closed, lent further pictorial effect, while a blue diorama with circular staircases at either side from which the participants in the pageant entered was at the back of the stage. This was given further regal effect by a white banner adorned with an eagle and a crown of gold.

Taking part in the pageant were eight society women and stars of stage, screen and opera, who impersonated great imperial ladies of history, and Betsy von Furstenberg, a "dreamer," who, after evoking in her dreams imperial ladies of the past, herself emerged as the "imperial lady of the future."

The roles of the imperial ladies of former years were taken as follows: Catherine the Great of Russia, by Elsa Maxwell; Empress Poppaea Sabina of Rome, by Arlene Dahl; Empress Maria Theresa of Austria, by Mrs. Francis T. Hunter; Empress Josephine of France by Mrs. Lawrence Copley Thaw; Empress Tzu Shi of China, by Faye Emerson; Empress Eugenie of France, by Margaret Leighton; Empress Elizabeth of Austria, by Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr., and Batsbepuet, the first Empress of Egypt, by Metropolitan Opera star Maria Meneghini Callas.

All the imperial ladies were adorned with famous jewels of their period. Miss Maxwell, as Catherine the Great, wore the 337 carat sapphire which had belonged to Catherine; Mrs. Hearst, the Empress Elizabeth diadem, containing a 127 carat Portuguese diamond. The others had equally beautiful jewels, including a 127 carat diamond worn by Mrs. Hunter, and a huge diamond and emerald necklace worn by Mme. Callas.

Interesting variety in costumes lent color to the event. Miss Maxwell, as Catherine the Great, wore emerald green satin, with a long full cape of matching color; Mrs. Hearst as Empress Elizabeth, a maroon velvet gown;

Mrs. Thaw as Empress Josephine, a sheath gown of black velvet with a long cape; Margaret Leighton as Empress Eugenie, a gown of royal blue and white satin; and Mrs. Hunter as Maria Theresa, a bouffant gown of pink satin and net.

Highly picturesque were the costumes of the three empresses of early times. Miss Callas wore a gold gown trimmed with black and a huge black and gold headdress; Miss Dahl as Poppaea Sabina, a long gold sheath with orange, yellow and lime green draped from the shoulders; Miss Emerson as Empress Tzu Shi, a gold colored costume with embroidery in rose, a Chinese coat with red and gold trimmings, and a huge headdress adorned with black pheasant feathers.

Miss von Furstenberg as the Empress of the Future arrived in a 1957 Chrysler Imperial. She wore a bouffant off-the-shoulder gown of white designed by Maurice Rentser.

Mrs. Lytle Hull, president of the Hospitalized Veterans Service, beneficiary of the event, had among her guests Her Highness the Begum Aga Khan, honor guest of the occasion. Others at her table included: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hoving, Dr. and Mrs. Milton Berliner, Miss Elsa Maxwell, Mrs. Cornelius V. Whitney, Mrs. Edgar Leonard, Mrs. N. Nugent Head, William Randolph Hearst Jr., the Hon. Abdul Hossein Hamzavi, Count Lanfrance Rasponi, Col. Serge Obolensky, and Harry Brooks, Van Truez, Morton Powell, Winston Thomas and Jay Rutherford.

There was much entertaining before the dinner, one of the largest affairs being the cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace J. Grove for the guests of the co-chairmen of the ball, Mrs. Walter S. Gubelmann and

Mrs. Stanley C. Hope. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Gubelman and Mr. and Mrs. Hope, the guests were Wiley Buchanan, former Ambassador to Luxembourg, and Mrs. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Monell, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Geddes, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whitmore, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. Chester La Roche, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Luxury in the tropics is typified by Paradise Beach, Nassau, Bahamas. Ships and the sea are inescapably interwoven in the life of this British maritime colony. Another highlight of a Nassau visit is the haunting goombay music probably drifting out over the clear blue water from the casino in the background as the palm trees almost appear to sway to its beat.

By Celia Ross

THE ISLANDS OF THE BAHAMAS, known as the "Resort Island Empire of the Western Hemisphere," provide both luxury and rustic resort accommodations with varied sun 'n sea life, recreation and native "goombay" entertainment.

The glittering islands, with their vibrant tropical growth, sandy beaches and secluded coves spotted in a sea of unbelievably multi-colored, iridescent waters, cover 70,000 square miles of vacationland.

The capital city, Nassau, on New Providence Isle in the Bahamas, is known to many who have visited the tiny, picturesque waterfront community. However, the other resort islands of the Bahamas have also come into their own. Many of these resorts are only fifteen to thirty minutes by air from Nassau by regularly scheduled flights or inter-island charter plane, and some have direct service from cities in Florida.

Yachtsmen by the hundreds cross the Gulf Stream to head into the clear fishing waters of the Bahamas. Vacationers who want to continue from Nassau by boat to the remote tranquility of the other resort islands may board one of the small, regularly scheduled mail and cargo boats, or join others on a charter sailing or motor vessel.

With the average Summer temperature in the Bahamas at 81 degrees and the average Winter temperature in the high 70's, the islands are rapidly becoming a year-round resort. "Beaching" is probably the most popular form of recreation in the archipelago of the Bahamas, and all types of fishing run a close second. Many members of the Winter colony like to go shelling in the shallow waters when they can grab the time off from the busy social calendar.

Tennis, golf and horseback riding are available in Nassau and many of the other resort islands. Bicycling, although more of a necessity to the natives on the islands where there is practically no other way of covering territory, is enjoyed as a perfect way to visit remote and interesting spots.

Luxurious and modern hotels with all of the deluxe conveniences are open in Nassau and on many of the other resort islands of the Bahamas. But for those who prefer the modest and typically Bahamian places to relax, these are available, too.

The Lighthouse Club at Andros Town on Andros Island is one of the new and beautiful luxury resorts. Owned by Swedish industrialist, Axel Wenner-Gren, the club started off with a gay crowd during the Christmas season and has kept right on the up beat ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred S. King of New York City and Bermuda spent part of their vacation at the Royal Victoria Hotel in Nassau and at the Lighthouse Club, Andros Town, Bahamas. Mr. King, until recently an executive of J. M. Mathes Advertising Agency, is now executive director of the Bermuda Trade Development Board. They are pictured by the pool at the Royal Victoria.

Among the early season visitors were Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, advisor to the late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, with her son Thomas and his wife, Jane. Col. Peter Wilson and his son Rodney, from London, England, joined their party.

Olympic swimmer Eleanor Holm, actor Victor Cutrer, syndicated columnist Robert Sylvester and his wife of New York City, and Dr. and Mrs. Carl Prutten of New York City, at the Lighthouse Club for their third visit, were participants in the festivities.

Nightclub entertainer Jane Kean arrived with her niece Deedee after finishing a Miami Beach engagement. Mr. and Mrs. William Strohmeier, daughter Judith and son Peter arrived in their private plane to visit Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Camp, president of the Andros Bahamas Development Co., and their daughters Nancy and Susan. Mr. Strohmeier is advertising and public relations counsel to Piper Aircraft.

More recent visitors to the island were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ayers and Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Bradley, all of Houston, Texas, aboard the Ayers' yacht "Vita." Mr. Ayers is president of the Howard Hughes Tool Company and Mr. Bradley is Mr. Hughes' attorney. Elmer Bobst, president of the Warner Lampert Company, visited on his new yacht "Alisa," with guests William Lewis, president of Kenyon & Eckhardt Advertising Agency; Howard S. Story, president of Story, Brooks and Fenley; Dr. Herbert Cooper of Lancaster, Pa.; architect Stewart Wagner and attorney Matthew Herrold of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John Luse arrived aboard the yacht "Falda II" from Naples, Fla., and honeymooners Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Block vacationed for a week aboard the schooner "Windfall."

There were great celebrations on the opening of the new air strip at Andros Town and the inauguration of another regularly scheduled service to the resort islands by Bahamas Airways Ltd.

Another new resort, modern and comfortable, the Berry Islands Club Hotel on Frazers Hog Cay, has been built in conjunction with the Berry Islands Yacht Club and held its formal opening on February 15. Although the club itself is only a year old, it has attracted 17 resident members, all of whom will have private homes on the islands.

Nassau's Fifth Avenue, Bay Street, exudes charm and even along this busy thoroughfare, the mood of the Bahamas quickly captures visitors and converts them to the quiet pace of the island.

Partners in the venture are Jack L. Coffey of Stamford, Conn., owner of one of the two homes already built, and Sam Ragland, resident managing partner of the island. Owner of the other completed home is Marcel N. Rand of Darien, Conn., executive vice president of the Sperry-Rand Corporation.

Island vacationers have included Mrs. Clara Edwards, Mrs. Rand's mother, who has composed many songs, one being "By the Bend of the River," and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Greist, he is a partner of Hicks & Greist Advertising Agency of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Martin T. Tierman of Essex Fells, N. J., vice president of Wallace and Tierman. He flew in on his private plane to see his new home site for the first time.

Some other club members who have purchased property are Ramsay Wilson of Riverside, Conn., Robert E. Eichler, Boston Mass., Leon Kenneth Merrill, Cranford, N. J., vice president of Union Carbide & Carbon Chemicals Corporation, and two vice presidents of Kenyon and Eckhardt Advertising Agency, Douglas J. Coyle of Darien, Conn., and Richard Griffith of Rowaton, Conn.

The futuristic Rock Sound Club on Eleuthera stresses exclusive country club atmosphere by its owner, financier Arthur Vining Davis of Miami, Fla. Perkins McQuire, Assistant Secretary for Defense in the United States, and his wife of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. John Collings of New York City, vice president of Trans World Airlines,

Mr. and Mrs. Teasdel of Metairie, La., president of the California Co. (Standard Oil of Calif.) and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont III of Georgetown, S. C., were vacationers.

Others fleeing cold weather to the Rock Sound Club were Mr. and Mrs. William Kearney and their son of Montreal, Quebec, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Snyder of Sewickley, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. De Vere Dierks of Kansas City, Mo., and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Flanders of Manchester, N. H.

Guests at the attractive Picaroon Cove Club on Harbour Island near Eleuthera were Mrs. Allen W. Dulles of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. William Brookes of Vancouver, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Tolson and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bigler of New York City, John Quincy Adams of Lake Forest, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Parsons of Greenwich, Conn.

The Picaroon Cove Club also hosted Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fell Jr. of Jericho, L. I., N. Y., Mrs. Richard Mellon of Ligonier, Pa., Mrs. C. C. Weeks of Mt. Holly, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. Eric Alliot of Nantucket, Mass., and Philip Van Zile of Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Many fishing enthusiasts stopped at the Bimini Big Game Fishing Club and the Bimini Marina. First guests to occupy one of the recently-completed cottages at the Marina were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Pavelle and their sons, Richard and Arthur of New York City. Mr. Pavelle, inventor of the new Pavelle color process, is associated with Technicolor Corporation. Also at the Marina were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Englehorn of Rumson, N. J., aboard their yacht "Epcu," and Homer F. Lyman of Nutley, N. J., and his yacht appropriately named "Unwashco." He is with Universal Washing Machines Co.

Other fishing parties included L. D. Stickles of New York City, W. Rather of Ft. Lauderdale, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Springs Jr. of Mount Kisco, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Ginsmore Adams of Bedford, N. Y., who stayed at the Anchors Aweigh Hotel on Bimini.

The Cat Cay Club and Cat Cay Yacht Club opened for the season on January 18. Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wasey, owners of the island, were on hand as were Winter residents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Crawford and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Colwell and Miss Margaret Buffum, all of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pew of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Siragusa of Barrington, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. John A. McCone of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Matthaei of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Others occupying homes on Cat Cay for the Winter were Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Eberstadt of New York City with their boat "Target," and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Smither with their daughter from New Canaan, Conn. Vacationers included Mr. and Mrs. Keith P. Pattengill from Los Angeles, Calif., and from New York Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V. McKee Jr., and Oyster Bay residents Mr. and Mrs. James J. O'Neill, Captain and Mrs. John Matthews and Mr. and Mrs. Maholon Dickerson.

The New Hope Lodge and Yacht Marina had their share of early arrivals. Dr. and Mrs. George Gallup of Princeton, N. J., were on hand, he is the director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, as were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gould, editors from New York City, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sage from New York aboard their yacht "Isabella," noted folk singer Burl Ives with his wife, and Ann Davidson, who sailed across the Atlantic Ocean alone.

Sandy Point Fishing Club is a popular place for relaxing. Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Schermerhorn of Nassau and Santa Cruz, Calif., were among the first to arrive. Visitors included Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Changing Times ~ "Playa Riente" Joins Memories

By Emilie Keyes

"Playa Riente," most fabulous of the Addison Mizner mansions, is to be added to the list of vanished relics of Palm Beach's most lush and flamboyant era.

The pounding of the gavel on the morning of March 12 in the famed residence occupied each Winter for almost thirty years by Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, will signalize the beginning of the end for this amazing house that has so many rooms no one appears sure of the count.

For five days, crowds of buyers, curiosity seekers and Palm Beachers with nostalgic memories are expected to crowd the massive rooms and halls as all the furnishings are auctioned off.

Venetian spinet in a corner of the music room

When the sale is over, Mrs. Dodge has announced she plans to raze the villa and sell the land. Happily spending the Winters in a cosy maisonette at the Everglades Club, she no longer wishes to maintain the massive home.

Nearly thirty years have passed since Ida Tarbell, great friend of Addison Mizner, termed "Playa Riente" one of the most perfect great houses in America."

A social upheaval and a world war have intervened to change so completely the American mode of life as to render obsolete mam-

Drawing room, dominated by Renaissance tapestry moth castles, minus central heat or air-conditioning, dependent on literally an army of servants and designed for vast entertainment. "Playa Riente" is still beautiful.

Many are anguished to think that it is to vanish from the dominant position it has held in Palm Beach's diamond necklace of

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore's "Collado Heuco";
Mr. Charles Munns' "Amado";
The John Phipps' "Casa Benidita";
Mrs. Alexander H. Rutherford's "La Billucia";
Mrs. John F. Harris' residence.

as explaining how he liked to design a house, and the pattern appeared to fit "Playa Riente" like the proverbial glove:

"I like to start with a Romanesque corner, pretend it has fallen into disrepair and been added to in the Gothic spirit . . . then suddenly great wealth of the New World poured in

Master bedroom, occupied by Mrs. Horace E. Dodge until she moved to the Everglades Club two seasons ago an Ocean Boulevard, dominating the turn in the road just north of the Palm Beach Country Club.

Though built in 1923 for Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Cosden, it was occupied so briefly by the couple before being sold in 1925 to Mrs. Dodge that it will undoubtedly go down in Palm Beach history as the Dodge villa.

Mr. Gurnee Munn still owns "Louawana" but lives in the nearby Lodge.

"El Mirasol", the famed palace built for Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, has been broken up into sub-divisions, though the ocean front with the house has never been placed on the market.

From the prominence given to "Playa and the owner added a rich Renaissance addition".

It was apparently the architect's ambition to make a building look traditional as though it had stood for centuries in the same spot.

He planted the feet of "Playa Riente" in the sea, combined the Spanish and the Italian, the Romanesque and the Renaissance

Of the thirty or more famed homes Addison Mizner designed for Palm Beach Winter residents after he burst upon the scene with the Everglades Club, only six are still occupied by original owners:

Mrs. Dodge Sloane's "Concha Marina";

Riente" in the volume of photographs of Addison Mizner's "Florida Architecture," it would appear that this was considered his most famous contribution to the Palm Beach scene.

The architect is quoted in the foreword

. . . He built great staircases, great walls, great halls, great rooms, all combined into what Ida Tarbell termed "a livable harmony."

From Spain and Italy, the architect and Mrs. Cosden brought furnishings.

Mrs. Cosden imported a then youthful

Music room with full view of the famous Sert murals

Italian artist, the late Achille Angeli, to do the beautiful frescoes on the Cloisters.

They commissioned the great Sert, whose frescoes gave their name to the Sert Room at the Waldorf-Astoria, to do the murals of the adventures of "Sinbad the Sailor" in the music room beneath which the ocean laps against the seawall.

The Sert murals can be taken down and will be sold. The Angelli frescoes apparently will have to go the way of the sledge hammer if no way can be found to remove them.

The pictures accompanying this article tell much of the story of the fantastic array of rooms, the lavish, monumental furnishings.

For three days prior to the sale on March 8, 9 and 10 spectators may parade through the Gothic arched hallways, the Cloisters, the battlements that give on the seas, the huge rooms.

Fees will be charged for what many will regard as one of the real shows of the season. All proceeds will go towards two of Mrs. Dodge's favored charities, the Palm Beach Crippled Children's Society and Good Samaritan Hospital, where Mrs. Dodge has not only contributed lavishly in cash, but has built the Delphine Dodge Nurses Lodge, the Hugh Dillman Pavilion, the Anna Dodge Maternity Wing.

Women workers in these two organizations will act as hostesses and guides.

William D. Morley, of Philadelphia, who last year did a similar job for "Villa des Cygnes", another famous Mizner house, owned by the late Major and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, is auctioneer.

For weeks he and his staff worked at cataloguing the 1,250 parcels of literally thousands of different items that will be up for sale.

There will be sadness in the hearts of many who will recall beautiful parties there assembling the "who's who of Palm Beach society . . . who went to late evening musicales to hear such singers as Lily Pons, Gladys Swarthout, Jerome Himes, Lanny Ross, Clara-mae Turner sing a candle-light concert against the background of the Sert murals.

Many will recall a late afternoon in April 1941 when the limousines of everyone in Palm Beach trekked up the boulevard to be presented in the patio there to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor on their first Palm Beach visit.

If Mrs. Dodge carries through her plan, and she apparently is adamant, soon there will be no halls for the ghosts of Palm Beach's past to wander through in a villa whose feet are literally planted in the sea.

Joel Kuperberg, director of the Caribbean Gardens, Naples, with Mrs. Kuperberg, Robert Verity Clem, the young bird painter whose works were on view at the University of Miami art gallery, Mrs. Kendal P. Morton and Mr. Morton.

NATURE LOVERS and art connoisseurs had a real treat at the Joe and Emily Lowe Art Gallery, University of Miami, when twenty-one paintings of birds indigenous of South Florida went on view.

The work of the very talented young painter, Robert Verity Clem, the twenty-one paintings were commissioned by Julius Fleischmann on behalf of the Caribbean Gardens, his restoration of a tropical plant collection in Naples, Florida.

Mr. Fleischmann previewed the exhibition with University of Miami President Jay F. W. Pearson and Mrs. Pearson. He explained to Dr. Pearson that there were many, many more paintings yet to come. Clem will eventually do watercolors of all the South Florida birds. But the U.S. Army now has first call on the young artist, who expects to be inducted in March.

Chatting with Mr. Fleischmann at the preview were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Broking of Coconut Grove and Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Spitzer of St. Louis. The Spitzers are in Miami visiting their son, Henry, who attended the preview with them.

Renewing an old acquaintance with Mr. Fleischmann were the Malcolm Rosses. Mr. Ross, now University of Miami Editor, and Mr. Fleischmann were at Yale together.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jackson, who flew over to Miami from Naples especially for the preview, explained that they had watched Clem do most of the paintings on view in the UM gallery.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Kuperberg — he's director of the Caribbean Gardens — supplied the Gallery with a large and beautiful selection of rare orchids from the Gardens. The Kuperbergs explained that the highspots of the Gardens are the birds which Clem is painting and the extensive orchid collection.

Beaux Arts hostesses for the preview were Mary Knight (Mrs. W. Ted Jr.) Etzel, Donna (Mrs. Rod) Overholt and Marge (Mrs. Charles) Davidson.

Frank J. Rimoldi, UM associate professor of conservation and landscape consultant for the University, was particularly enthusiastic about Clem's paintings. He and the artist chatted at great length about the difficulties of painting birds in watercolor, Clem's medium.

Other UM'ers previewing the show included Dr. and Mrs. Julian D. Corrington, Dr. and Mrs. Taylor R. Alexander, Dr. and Mrs. Marinus J. Dijkman and Mr. and Mrs.

Kendal P. Morton. Mrs. Morton's guest was Mrs. Paul Mangelsdorf, whose husband is director of the living plant collections of Harvard University.

Walter Walters of the U.S. State Department was another quickly-won Clem fan.

Also previewing the Clem exhibition were Mrs. Leo Terletzky, lawyer Alice Wainwright, Robert Tyler Davis, Mrs. Vladimir Virrick, Charles Brookfield, F. M. Bergere and E. Travers Ewell.

University of Florida's GREEK LETTER HOMES

By Ronnie Martin

ALL PHOTOS UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA

THE BIRTH AND GROWTH of two of the University of Florida's most successful children, Fraternity and Sorority Rows, mark the culmination of a fraternity program that began over a half century ago.

Eleven houses on Fraternity and Sorority Rows have been completed since 1950, when Delta Gamma sorority erected the first new Greek house in Gainesville. The sorority development includes seven of 12 women's social organizations on the campus.

Last Fall four fraternities moved into the first houses completed on Fraternity Row, a curving drive on which 12 houses will be situated when initial construction is completed.

In new sorority houses are Delta Delta Delta, Sigma Kappa, Delta Gamma, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Delta Pi, Zeta Tau Alpha and Alpha Chi Omega. Soon to be constructed are new homes for Chi Omega, Alpha Epsilon Phi, Phi Mu and Kappa Delta.

Located on Fraternity Row are Beta Theta Pi, Pi Lambda Phi, Theta Chi and Sigma Phi Epsilon. In the building or planning stages are Chi Phi, Alpha Epsilon Pi, Delta Sigma Phi, Tau Epsilon Phi, Kappa Sigma, Delta Chi and Lambda Chi Alpha.

The expansion has reflected the growth of the University, an institution of 11,000, largest in the Southeast, situated in the center of the state at Gainesville.

First fraternities to establish chapters were Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Alpha Epsilon in 1884, when the institution was the East Florida Seminary, located in Lake City.

In 1905 the school moved its small enrollment to Gainesville, 50 miles south of Lake City. Before World War II, the University had an enrollment of 3,000. Since that time the number of students has more than tripled. Correspondingly increasing were personnel and facilities.

First sororities to colonize were Alpha Delta Pi, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta and Kappa Delta in 1947, when the institution became co-educational.

Dr. J. Wayne Reitz, who succeeded the late Dr. J. Hillis Miller as president of the University, has watched the fraternity expansion with special interest. He has served as advisor to the Sigma Chi chapter since coming to the institution in 1934. He was named Significant Sig of the Year in June 1955 at the fraternity's national convention.

Before World War II there was an adequate number of fraternities on campus, but following its termination, several problems developed.

During the war many organizations lost their home while others incurred extensive mortgages and debts, causing a number of fraternities to disappear from the campus. And when peace returned, only a relatively small group of fraternities was available to a rapidly increasing student enrollment.

Previously, land and building adjacent to the campus had been available for each fraternity's needs. But with the growth of the city and the University after the war, such land and buildings no longer were available or, if available, not at reasonable prices. Many of the organizations' houses and grounds were encroached upon by new construction, businesses and commercial developments.

Faced with these problems, it was decided that an attractive, well-planned and appropriately financed extension of fraternity and sorority housing would assist the University in helping to meet its housing, dining, social and recreational requirements.

National sororities were permitted to organize on campus in limited numbers in proportion to co-ed enrollment so that adequate membership would be provided for each sorority. The University made it mandatory that all future construction of permanent sorority houses had to be on a campus site.

National organizations of fraternities and sororities gave their cooperation and support to the new housing development. Statewide alumni groups became more interested and communication was established between campus Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic groups to help coordinate planning and development.

The University developed a plan whereby money would be obtained from the Federal government for the erection of houses. This was to be amortized over a period of 40 years at an interest rate of 3.2 per cent; the State of Florida holding the bonded certificates.

Zeta Tau Alpha's house of modern Georgian design blends beautifully with the surrounding grounds. The sorority's officers include Miss Janice Magill, president, Clewiston; Miss Linda Black, vice president, Gainesville; Miss Eleanor Simmons, secretary, Gainesville; Miss Jo Anne Meredith, treasurer, Orlando.

The contemporary, functional Pi Lambda Phi fraternity house, built on two levels, blends beautifully with the surrounding terrain. Officers include Stuart Lubitz, president, Miami; James Kaufman, vice president, Miami; Max Hagen, secretary, Miami Beach; Mike Segal, treasurer, Miami.

The participating fraternities and sororities will have title to the houses at the end of 40 years.

To qualify for University support an organization had to be on the approved list of the Office of the Dean of Student Personnel and in good standing with the University Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic groups. It was required that the fraternity or sorority be in sound fiscal condition, and agree to allow the University to review its fiscal affairs. And finally, the organization had to be legally incorporated through a house corporation.

Each eligible chapter was permitted to secure its own architect and contractor. A committee, appointed by the University President, and composed of the Dean of Men, Dean of Women, a representative from the Business Office, and consulting architects, reviewed all plans and architectural specifications to assure that the following factors were provided:

1. Ample rooming facilities, including sufficient heat and light.
2. Ample social and recreation rooms.
3. Ample feeding facilities, including kitchen equipment and seating capacity in dining room. Each chapter is permitted to make its own arrangements for feeding and cooking.
4. Ample provisions for housemothers, including private living and dining facilities, bath, etc.

Each fraternity or sorority was allowed to borrow $125,000 for the overall cost of construction and architect's fees. Some chapters were able to purchase part of their furniture within this amount. Each organization made its own arrangements for decorating and furnishing the house.

Other chapters had equity in old houses, which was used to buy new furniture and to increase the size of the house over the amount available in the $125,000.

The groups were provided lots by the institution and state on University-owned land, at actual cost of installation of roads, streets, utility connections and landscaping, totaling not more than $4,000 for each lot.

Fraternity Row was located in a beautiful wooded and hilly section of the campus, adjoining the men's residence halls. A similar area, much of which was donated by the City of Gainesville and adjoining the women's residence halls, was designated Sorority Row.

Each area was carefully planned to provide the most attractive sites up to almost one acre in size, and with adjoining landscaped park areas and playing fields.

After adequate notice of a drawing date, sites were made available to all interested and eligible groups. Each qualified organization had to deposit $200 with the University to become eligible for a site drawing and to qualify for an option.

All qualified option holders were present at the drawing in which memberships were drawn from a hat, each with a priority ranking. The fraternity and sorority drawing the first priority had top choice of selecting any site in the two housing areas.

Each organization had previously established an order of priority of sites after consulting its faculty advisor, alumnae, house corporation, student members and architect.

In the sorority drawing, nine of the ten groups received their first choice, demonstrating the attractiveness and variety of the sites. The fraternities were nearly as fortunate in their selection.

All the new homes are self-liquidating their capital debt, primarily from student room rent. To maintain a full fraternity program, net income from board and dues is available.

The program has been successful in alleviating the University housing problem. An excess of 500 student living spaces has been provided, along with dining and social facilities for twice that number, without cost to the University.

Many houses vacated by the organizations moving to Fraternity and Sorority Rows became available at relatively low costs to new societies wishing to be admitted to the University.

The Fraternity and Sorority Row story is one of cooperation, foresight, and intelligence by students, administration, faculty, alumnae, City of Gainesville and businessmen.

The new houses were designed with practicality, comfort, and beauty foremost in mind. Rather than attempting to change the terrain, the houses were blended with the landscape.

For instance, the Beta Theta Pi fraternity house was constructed in three levels on a sloping terrain. Beauty is enhanced by large plate glass windows which gives one the feeling of the outside coming inside. The exterior and interior walls of this very contemporary building are made of Roman brick. The principal rooms are separated by sliding panel doors. During parties and other occasions, these doors are opened to provide ample space.

Another contemporary, functional fraternity house is the Pi Lambda Phi building. It is constructed on two levels, with the progressive elevation beginning from the dining room. The dormitory rooms, which house two and three men, are all upstairs. Much entertainment space has been provided in two patios, a recreation room, and a library. The latter, constructed of beautiful pine wood, is frequently converted into a party room.

Five giant-sized picture windows emphasize the beauty of the modern Theta Chi fraternity house. Exemplifying the modern design is a suspended front stairway underneath of which is a fire box containing tropical flowers and plants. A huge living room and a two-story screened-in patio furnishes ample space for entertainment. A sound system throughout the house provides music during dinners and dances.

Sigma Phi Epsilon's modern fraternity house blends beautifully with the surrounding wooded area. Made of used and random-

Officers include Miss Lois Reid, president, Clearwater; Miss Rachel Cobb, vice president, Fort Pierce; Miss Helen Heinberg, secretary, Jacksonville; Miss Dot Lawton, treasurer, St. Petersburg.

The contemporary Theta Chi fraternity house was designed with the emphasis on practicality. Beauty is enhanced by giant-sized picture windows. Officers include Ray Scholl, president, Fort Lauderdale; Ward Yelverton, vice president, Palatka; Clifford Hood, secretary, Apopka; Dick Smith, treasurer, Coral Gables.

This living room of the Delta Delta Delta Sorority is typical of the houses constructed in the contemporary style. The rooms are designed for comfort and beauty.

colored bricks, the L-shaped building is of two levels. A big, folding leather partition separates the living and dining rooms. Sliding glass doors open to the patio. These doors are opened to increase air circulation during warm weather.

Over in Sorority Row, Delta Delta Delta provides the latest in comfort and beauty. The living and dining rooms are paneled with redwood. The ceiling is V-shaped and contains exposed beams. The living room, dining room, and lobby are used for dancing. Sliding wooden doors separate these three sections. In addition to a huge kitchen, there is a breakfast bar provided with cooking equipment where the girls can prepare snacks. A basement is used for storage and washing and drying of clothing.

White painted bricks, front balcony, and window shutters accent the Monterrey design of the Sigma Kappa sorority house. Cherry wood furniture and asphalt black and white tile add to the beauty of this L-shaped building. In addition to a kitchen and dining room there is a small breakfast room for the girls' private use.

The contemporary Delta Gamma sorority house was designed for comfort and beauty. All the girls sleep on a huge porch. Upstairs are study rooms, with each providing space for four girls. A serenade balcony and five large plate glass windows add to the L-shaped building's beauty. A cross-ventilated dining room opens out onto a downstairs porch.

Spacious living and entertaining quarters were emphasized in the construction of the Alpha Omicron Pi house. Designed in the colonial style, the building contains a large upstairs sun porch. A patio is still in the process of being built. Upstairs is a small area which is used for laundry purposes. The girls are able to communicate with their escorts through an intercom system from the upstairs halls to the living room.

French doors and murals continue the French Provincial design of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority house. A large living room, Florida room, and recreation room are all connected downstairs, with the Florida and recreation rooms being made for dancing. Two girls sleep in each upstairs bedroom which contains beds, double desks, closets and dressers.

A wide front porch and four long, white columns stress the modern Georgian design of the Zeta Tau Alpha house. Upstairs are bedrooms, each housing two girls, a guest room, a lounge, and a laundry room. Downstairs are the kitchen, living, chapter, and dining rooms. The latter converts into a dance room for parties.

The Alpha Chi Omega sorority house is constructed around a large patio with all the downstairs rooms facing it. Unpainted brick and stained wood accent the modern, rambling construction. The dormitory consists of three-bedroom suites with six girls occupying each suite. The rooms were constructed with natural paneling so any color scheme could be used by the girls. Between the inside hall and suites are two narrow areas opened to the sky which are used for drying of clothing.

Workmen put the finishing touches on the beautiful contemporary home of the Delta Delta Delta sorority. Officers include Miss Suzanne Knowles, president, Leesburg; Miss Jeanette Adams, vice president, Fort Lauderdale; Miss Jean Brady, secretary, Fort Lauderdale; Miss Judy Scott, treasurer, Ocala.

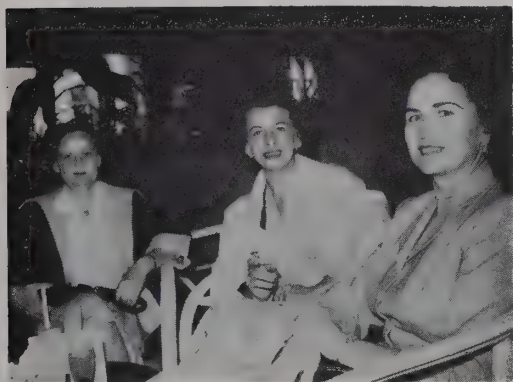

Recreation rooms such as this one provide a center for sorority girls to gather for relaxation, conversation and entertainment. Each recreation room contains a record player, vending machine and game facilities.

friendships are renewed as a returning guest makes an appearance. And, too, quite often these evenings are the beginning of friendships that endure a lifetime.

It seems that during the late Winter and early Spring the majority of guests are making a return visit to their favorite resort. Throughout the year they have looked forward to those days spent on the golf course, and perhaps have even thought how they might replay a certain hole to better the last score tabulated at Ponte Vedra.

Golfing groups have been numerous since weather further North prohibits enjoying this favorite sport. From the Pittsburgh Field Club came Robert Drum, F. G. Gerard, J. R. Flannery Jr., W. E. some of these gentlemen came in with scores to be proud of.

The Surf Club is as much a favorite throughout the Winter months as in the other seasons of the year. It seems to be a desired luncheon place for Club members as well as guests at The Inn. Mrs. W. E. Wilkinson and Mrs. William R. Evans (both Ponte Vedra residents) were hostesses recently at a lovely luncheon honoring out-of-town house guests. The guest list included Mrs. Charles A. Nottingham of Haddonfield, N. J.; Mrs. Gardner Greene of Neptune Beach, Florida; Mrs. Elizabeth Wright of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Sam Neely, Mrs.

J. R. Wilson and Miss Georgia Wilkinson of Atlanta.

For many years the ladies of Ponte Vedra have been enthusiastic Garden Club members with a vital interest in artistic arrangements. Mrs. Ben R. McCormick, well known throughout the State for her skill in this form of artistry, was hostess recently to the members of the local Arrangers' Guild and had as a special guest, Mrs. Jack White, Jr. of Live Oak, Florida. Mrs. White is a widely known lecturer, nationally accredited flower show judge and Flower Arrangement Instructor for the National Council of Garden Clubs. She delighted the members by creating the unusual in design while using a variety of material. Driftwood was used to advantage often serving as a container while being dramatized with the addition of flowers, fruits, and foliage. Sansavario leaves, looped to add effect and line, were used frequently in many of Mrs. White's exotic compositions.

Naturally, other groups meet regularly to pursue their favorite hobbies. Both the Ponte Vedra Women's and Men's Golf Associations are very active organizations. Every Friday is Ladies Day on the course, and frequent winners are Mesdames Jot Carpenter, Hardy Hill, C. B. Curtis, Dunton Howe, Ernest E. Smith, Paul Betzold, and Miss Dorothea Knight, Club Champion.

Golf pro, Rick Famlin, conducts a tournament each week-end for Ponte Vedra golfers. The events are always interesting and fun for all. Recent winners have included L. J. Hill, Vic Stone, R. R. Barnes, W. H. Jones, Ben Park, D. S. Clark, and A. J. Wittenberg, president of the Men's Golf Association.

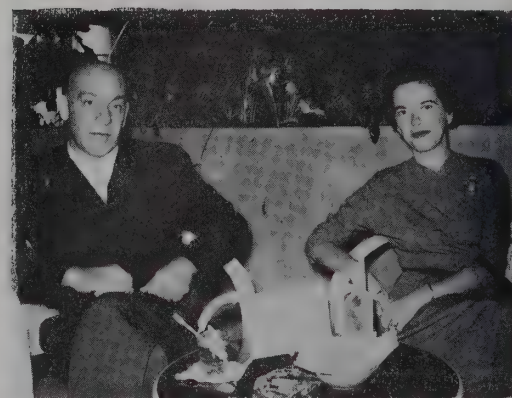

Even though February has been a busy month at Ponte Vedra, March promises to be even busier as the arrival list at The Inn increases daily. These guests will find each day crammed with activities. There will be putting tournaments, pitch and putt tournaments, swimming, fishing, tennis, and golf. When the sun sets over the Lagoon, it will be time for cocktail parties, dancing, card parties, movies, and all sorts of special entertainment. All will be assured that The Inn at Ponte Vedra promises a Perfection Vacation.

Turning from the lovely lagoon to smile for the cameraman are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bishop, standing, and Mrs. W. L. Landers, seated. The lovely little lady is Miss Dickey Bishop.

Beneath the February sun rays are Miss Marilyn Gooder of Deerfield, Ill., and Mrs. Richard Lydy of Lake Forest, Ill.

Before luncheon cocktails are enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dawes of Ponte Vedra at the Surf Club—favorite luncheon spot for members and guests.

Lying tranquilly beneath a covering of fleecy white clouds are the coral islands of Bermuda, looking like a giant fish hook in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. Bermuda is 568 miles due east from Cape Hatteras, N. C., U.S.A., only 666 miles from New York City and 720 miles from the port of Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada. Bermuda's climate is one of the best in the world and the average annual temperature is 70.7 degrees. The Gulf Stream is a barrier to cold winds in the Winter while Bermuda's mid-ocean location wards off excessive heat in Summer.

BERMUDA ~ "A Tiny, Charming, Darling Thing"

PICTURE A TINY, CORAL ATOLL spread out like a green fish-hook in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. Fleecy clouds hover above it protectively; blue-green waters surround it; and gumdrop colored houses nestle peacefully along its shortline. It is, with apologies to Lucretius, "A little, tiny, pretty, charming, darling thing." Small wonder then that Bermuda has continued to lure the discriminating traveler. And, once having lured, charmed; and having charmed, settled down forever as a special place.

Divers personalities each seem to find something to satisfy, though the island is only 23 miles from tip to tip. Perhaps that is why it is such a favorite gathering place for families. For there is nothing as much the same, yet intriguingly different, as various members of the same family. So it is with these Isles of Rest (Bermuda is actually composed of more than a hundred islands, linked by causeways and swing bridges). They are, literally, all things to all people.

The "togetherness" that has crept into the American vocabulary and way of life, has always applied to holiday time here. And the colony's proximity to the eastern seaboard of Canada and the U.S. makes it easily accessible for commuting family breadwinners who are forced to limit their stays.

Last Summer, the William S. Paleys (he, of the Columbia Broadcasting System; she, of the best-dressed lists) were among the many who established themselves in rented houses for extended stays; the men confining themselves, in the main, to long week-end visits.

Joining the Summer colony were Mr. and Mrs. James A. Linen (he is publisher of Time Magazine), who settled down in Tucker's Town for the Summer, with flying trips back to the mainland when business or family matters required such excursions.

Not everyone, of course, inclines to renting a house. There are those who are happier at a large hotel, or at one of Bermuda's attractive guest houses, almost all of which were originally private mansions, many retaining their original furnishings.

Still others prefer to stay at one of the enchanting cottage colonies that permit them to indulge their whims for privacy, and/or companionship, at will.

"working" at having a good time. One sets one's own pace, without any embarrassment as to the fast or slow of it.

It is, however, more apt to be languid than frantic. Bermudians themselves are a sports-minded, fun-loving lot, but they learned long ago that tearing around, trying to do everything at once only leaves one with an empty feeling. Far better to slow down and take time to enjoy what you're doing at the time of doing, not just in retrospect.

Thousands of pounds (the pound is worth about $2.82) are scheduled to be spent this year in face-lifting and expansion programs, in addition to actual building projects now underway. The Pompano Club in Southampton will reopen March 1st, expanding its facilities from that of merely a fishing club to that of a regular cottage colony. And the Belmont Manor Hotel (Warwick Parish) is undergoing a complete renovation under the direction of its new owner. In Somerset, The Ledgelets is increasing its accommodations with the addition of four new units. The Reefs, Southampton Parish (another cottage colony) is erecting several de luxe cabanas to accommodate their ever-increasing guest lists.

colony conception of accommodation. The individual cottages allow for family privacy, with a main house (containing dining rooms, bars, recreation rooms, etc.) available when merry-making is in order. All colonies have their own waterfronts, so that swimming, sailing and skin-diving present no problems of transportation.

Speaking of sailing, yachtsmen find the protected waters of Bermuda's Great Sound most excellent for pursuing their favorite sport. The wind is true and there are no troublesome currents. The uninitiated are able to enjoy the glory of skimming along under sail on yachts chartered by the hour, day, or half-day.

Almost all will take some time out for a swim at least once during the day, with repeat dips more than likely. Over the centuries, Nature ground coral rock to a fine pink sand, and many of Bermuda's beaches are tinted this delicate shade.

There's never any crowding on the beaches and one can luxuriate on velvety sands, acquiring that special golden suntan Bermuda sunshine gives without falling over bodies strewn about. The island has more than a dozen miles of beaches.

Whatever time of year one chooses for a mid-Atlantic holiday, there are always spectator attractions to include in one's schedule of fun.

In January yachtsmen have the Seawitch Trophy Race Series, for Luder 16's; and the Duke of Edinburgh Cup Race for International One Designs. The Fall and Winter fishing tournament is still on, running through March, when the Spring and Summer one takes over. Attractive monthly prizes spur on the anglers. Golfers gathered January 29th at the Riddell's Bay Golf and Country Club for the Warwick Vase Tournament.

Tennis stepped to the fore early in February with the Invitation Men's and Ladies' Doubles Tournament at the Princess Hotel courts. Sharing the February sports spotlight was the First Series Race for Firefly Class Dinghies, those fast skimming boats that are such fun to watch, and so tricky to handle.

Golf and tennis tournaments continue on throughout the year. In April, the cricket season begins. Unlike any sport familiar to Americans, it intrigues the first-time watcher with the formality of its dress (the umpire wears a long, white coat; the players, white trousers and shirts), and the politeness of its play. Matches are held on Thursday and Sunday afternoons, and are well worth a look-in.

Early in April (10th, 11th and 12th), the 22nd annual Agricultural Exhibition will be held on the grounds of Bermuda's Agricultural Station. Americans will find the exhibition very similar to State Fairs back home.

Young and old alike go to watch the traditional Good Friday kite flying at Bernard Park. And the annual Floral Pageant (April 25th) will be a beautiful sight to behold, with dozens of floral floats on parade down Front Street in Hamilton.

Gentlemen sailors from Canada and the United States will descend on Bermuda for International Race Week, which opens on April 29th. Skippers of International 5.5's, Intl. One Designs, Luder 16's, Intl. 14's and Fireflies will vie for yachting honors, mixing a good deal of socialibility with the sailing.

Queen Elizabeth II's official birthday will be celebrated on June 13th. British and Bermudian forces will pass in review before Bermuda's Governor, Lieut. Gen. Sir John Woodall, in Bernard Park, Hamilton, in an ancient, colorful ceremony.

Outboard race fans should plan their holidays for the end of June. The third annual Bermuda Ocean Outboard Race will be held June 30th over a gruelling 76-mile course that takes adventuresome skippers around the perimeter of Bermuda, and then some. A good vantage point from which to watch the race is the bridge at Flatt's Inlet.

Palm Beach Towers Changes Skyline

By Tanya Brooks

ALL PHOTOS BY RAY HOWARD

A NEW ERA in the history of Palm Beach is marked by the appearance of the Palm Beach Towers, the most fabulous apartment hotel of Florida's gold coast, which has given Palm Beach a new skyline.

A complete design for living, the Palm Beach Towers was developed by Joseph Mass, well-known in the field of real estate development, and designed by John Hans Graham, AIA, Architect, internationally famous for advanced apartment design. Mr. Graham considers the Towers his crowning achievement.

Every possible facility is available to the tenants, ranging from the 90 by 60 foot kidney-shaped swimming pool (there is a smaller pool for the children) to the grocery store which is one of the beautiful shops in the shopping concourse.

The Palm Beach Towers is air-conditioned and heated to provide comfort for the trend toward year-round residence in Palm Beach.

Alex Murphy is the able manager of the Palm Beach Towers. He was formerly manager of the Colonnades Hotel.

Al Green, famous and popular veteran restaurateur from Grosse Pointe, Mich., is in charge of all restaurant facilities, including room service.

The Poinciana Room of the Palm Beach Towers not only provides a superlative cuisine, but has the orchestra of Al Navarro and outstanding additional entertainment which is changed regularly. Maurice, formerly of La Coquille, is the maitre d'hotel.

The Coconut Grove is an informal snack bar, which specializes in Tahitian drinks. It is located on the water's edge on the site of the original Coconut Grove of the legendary Royal Poinciana Hotel of days gone by.

Much activity is planned for the season. Friday, February 1, Mary Howes, producer and founder of the Palm Beach Playhouse, had her first weekly Celebrity Party, which she gives for the cast of each week's play. Miss Howes gives these parties in the Poinciana Room of the Palm Beach Towers every Friday night, and tables are reserved for the audience of the Friday night performances, who are introduced to the stars informally.

A special Sunday brunch is served from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The first brunch was held as a benefit for Hungarian Relief, for which Mrs. George E. Kent Jr. is general chairman for Palm Beach. Mrs. John M. Rutherford was chairman of the brunch and prominent women of the Palm Beach Colony presented a fashion show, for which Paul Ilyinsky was master of ceremonies. The entire proceeds of the brunch went to the benefit.

The Heart Ball, of which Mrs. Horace Dodge Jr. was chairman, was held on St. Valentine's Day. Her co-chairmen were Mrs. Joseph Mass, Mrs. Alvin Murphy and Mrs. Dan Topping. Numerous celebrities added to the entertainment of the evening.

Many members of the Palm Beach Cottage Colony have given up their homes and have taken apartments with long leases at the Palm Beach Towers.

Among those who are decorating their own apartments are Mr. and Mrs. James McGann, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Johnson, Mrs. John Benton, Mrs. Leigh Wrightson Bowles, Mrs. Helen Kneip, George Binney III, Mrs. Irene C. Brailsford, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cameron, James A. The Maharanee of Baroda has a lavish penthouse. John Phipps Jr. has his Palm Beach home at the Palm Beach Towers. Ruth Straus Eiler, of the J. P. Morgan family, has decorated her own apartment, which she plans to occupy with her aunt, Mrs. Hermine Stern. They have previously stayed at the Breakers Hotel.

Mrs. P. Rowe de Coataudon has given up her apartment at the Jupiter Island Club in Hobe Sound to live at the Palm Beach Towers. Mrs. Gladys Foss has moved from Delray Beach to the Towers.

At opening of the Coconut Grove of the Palm Beach Towers were Mrs. Dina Merritt of Miami Beach, Thaddeus Trout and Mrs. Trout.

At the opening of the Coconut Grove of the Palm Beach Towers were Maurice Heckscher, Mrs. Heckscher, Paul Hayes, Mrs. William T. Sisler. Mr. Hayes is the son of Mrs. Sisler, who owns lovely "Villa Giardino." Mr. Heckscher built the Biltmore Hotel.

NAPLES anticipated a tremendous season this year and all expectations have been fulfilled. The Beach Club Hotel and the Naples Hotel are heavily booked with waiting lists mounting every day. The charm of this tropical resort, the unexcelled weather, and numerous entertainment events are being discovered and rediscovered by more and more people each year.

Attractive and talented Kay Stevens and the hilarious comedy team of "The Holidays" scored a smashing hit in the popular Harlequin Patio at the Beach Club Hotel. They were followed by Romer and Howard, a novelty comedy team, who were also tops in entertainment this season.

Ever popular at the Beach Club are the weekly Charcoal Steak dinners attractively served al fresco on the shores of the Gulf of Mexico.

BLENDED A HALF CENTURY of charm and the culture of another era with all the modern conveniences, the magnificent Whitehall, once the mansion of Henry M. Flagler, is the pride of the Palm Beaches. To the many guests who make this famous resort their Winter home, The Whitehall offers every facility for comfortable living in an atmosphere of a romantic age gone by.

True to tradition, there were many social events of importance at The Whitehall during January:

Mrs. Arthur C. Flatto of the Carlyle, New York City, gave a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Mortimer Berkowitz.

The Whitehall was also the scene of the Temple Israel Sisterhood's annual Donor Luncheon. The ballroom was transformed into a Spring garden for the occasion with floral decorations of yellow and white. Members were entertained by singer Paul Wolff, comedian Rip Taylor and a fashion show was presented by Zarou. Guests of honor were Rabbi and Mrs. Irving Cohen, Mrs. Harry Cohen, Mrs. Ruth Brand, Mrs. William Fineshriber, Mrs. Marie Dickson, Mrs. Sheppard Lewis and Mrs. Gus Arnold.

Mrs. Dolly Jacobson, sister of London financier Sir Isaac Wolfson, and Robert Raisler of New York, whose engagement was announced at The Whitehall.

The engagement of Mrs. Dolly Jacobson of London and New York, and Robert Raisler of New York was announced and celebrated with a dinner party in the Rib Room. Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Riker arrived for the occasion from Nassau, where they are vacationing. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Feterson flew from New York and Mr. and Mrs. J. Rothstein arrived from Hawaii to attend the party. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Stern, Mrs. Jack Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Alpertson, Mrs. T. Aaronson, Mr. and Mrs. S. April, Mr. and Mrs. John Pleet and Larry Borsten.

Another distinguished visitor to Whitehall this season was Abris Silberman, head of E. and A. Silberman Art Galleries in New York. Mr. Silberman has provided many excellent works of art to American museums during the past thirty years. Currently on exhibit at Norton Gallery are sculpture by Sir Jacob Epstein, F. E. McWilliam and Lynn Chadwick lent to the gallery by Mr. Silberman.

Among the Manhattanites enjoying the sunshine and vacationing at Whitehall are Commissioner and Mrs. Maurice Rosenfeld, Irving Goldwasser and Theo Ball.

Also making Whitehall their headquarters during their stay in Palm Beach are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schaye of Boston.

Carl Fishel, who is spending the season at Whitehall, received a telegram from Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower thanking him for designing her inaugural jewels made by Trifari.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Spector celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary at Whitehall with cocktails and dinner for a large group of friends in the Patio.

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Sacher of Boston photographed in Marble Hall. Dr. Sacher, president of Brandeis University, and Mrs. Sacher are vacationing at The Whitehall.

nights are the Half Brothers, whose continental novelties have been attracting large audiences, and Gil Marr, romantic baritone whose superb voice has made him a favorite with Whitehall guests.

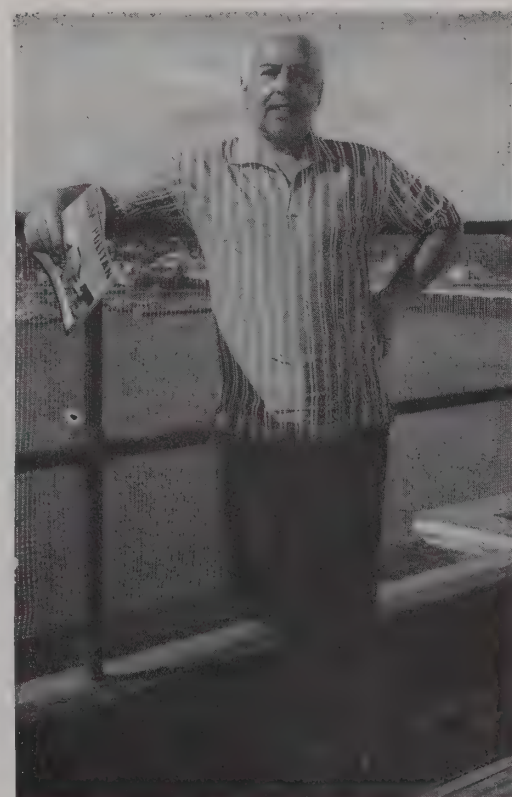

Two hundred Whitehall guests attended the games at Palm Beach Jai Alai Fronton on "Whitehall Night." The seventh game of the evening was held in honor of the hotel with Miss Philomene Spillane presenting a trophy to the winning player.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Burston of London, England, who are visiting friends at The Whitehall.

Young and talented Daniel Barenboim played a concert of piano music to a large and appreciative audience at Whitehall. The 14-year-old pianist was presented by the American-Israeli Cultural Foundation for the benefit of the new Tel Aviv Concert Hall.

WHEN MAKING THE FRENZIED ROUND of mid-season activities in plush Palm Beach-to-Ft. Lauderdale Winter colonies, one can sympathize with the embryonic society reporter who started off her first news column: "Seen everywhere this week . . ."

Recently "seen everywhere" have been those popular Parisians, Jeannette and Pierre Bailly, whose Winter home is one of the showplaces of Delray Beach.

The Bailly's huge Sea Sage Drive residence, overlooking the Waterway, was the site of an early season cocktail party given by the vivacious Jeannette in honor of her mother, Mme. Jeanne Legris of Paris. Among the more than 150 guests attending the event were Mr. and Mrs. William LaPorte, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Sterry, Colonel and Mrs. Andrew Fabens, Mr. and Mrs. Melville F. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bleckley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Notz, Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. Tiernan, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Boatwright.

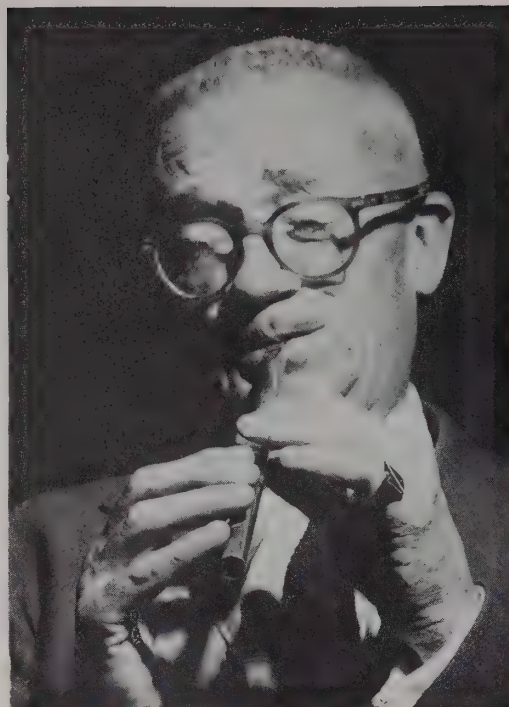

"Talking polo" at the party were Mrs. Frederick E. Uihlein (of the famous polo-playing Milwaukee beer barony); W. Cottingham Allen, whose son Glenn is the highest goal Shetland Pony League polo player in America (Glenn is all of eleven years old!), and Glenn's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Allen; and the proud parent of another Pony League player, Mrs. L. McLeod Helm, whose eleven-year-old Ned is getting ready to try out his skill on "real" polo ponies.

Also enjoying the Bailly gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Dutcher, Mr. and Mrs. H. Carroll Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Lerner B. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Moffitt, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mull, Mrs. Twyla B. O'Hara, Mrs. Lydia F. Kenworthy, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. James Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. John Keating, Miss Jane Major and Avritt Brown.

A recent pause between the Bailly's social engagements might best be described as an "hiatus in Haiti." As a respite from the rigors of the Winter season party-whirl, Jeannette and Pierre planned their West Indian trip in order to look in on the new Schweitzer Foundation Hospital (at Haiti), which is headed by the Bailly's good friend Larry Mellon, of the renowned Mellon financier clan.

Lung power has not been entirely eliminated by electronics as a means of ship-to-ship communication. Luncheon guests aboard the Seth Pollard's yacht "Sea Horse" heard a real, nautical "Ahoy!" recently, as a spanking new sports cruiser sped by. Sans megaphones, greetings were exchanged with the Pollard's Delray Beach neighbors, Charles and Ann Lontz, who were on their "water-way" to the Key Largo Club aboard their new boat "Inock II," launched earlier this month at Stuart.

know if the "Sea Horse" crew had heard the latest tournament news from mutual Palm Beach friends, "the two Djinnees." Virginia (Mrs. Louis A. Ferguson Jr.) and Virginia (Mrs. Thomas T.) Sherwood, officers of the swank International Women's Fishing Association, have competed with champ Ann Lontz and the Pollard's yacht guest, Mrs. Twyla O'Hara, another Delrayite, in many deep-sea fishing tourneys.

Another champion big game fisherwoman,

Madeline Caldwell and her handhome husband, rubber industry tycoon James R. Caldwell, will forego their usual mid-season jaunt to the Bahamas, in order to welcome their first houseguests at the Caldwell's just recently rush-completed residence on Spanish River Road in Boca Raton.

A Bimini Marlin Tuna Club trophy winner and member of several scoring IWFA teams, sportswoman Madeline will not miss out completely on the fishing fun, as her grandchildren, Bill, 14, Marilyn, 10, and Jimmy, 8, are all angling enthusiasts. Accompanied by their lovely mother, Mrs. F. W. Miller (the former Barbara Caldwell), the youngsters will arrive from Wooster, Ohio, in mid-March and will spend their Spring vacations in Boca.

The Caldwell's daughter Jean (Mrs. Earl H.) Mabrey and her six children will pay their annual visit to Boca Raton just before the Easter holidays, coming to Florida from Enid, Oklahoma.

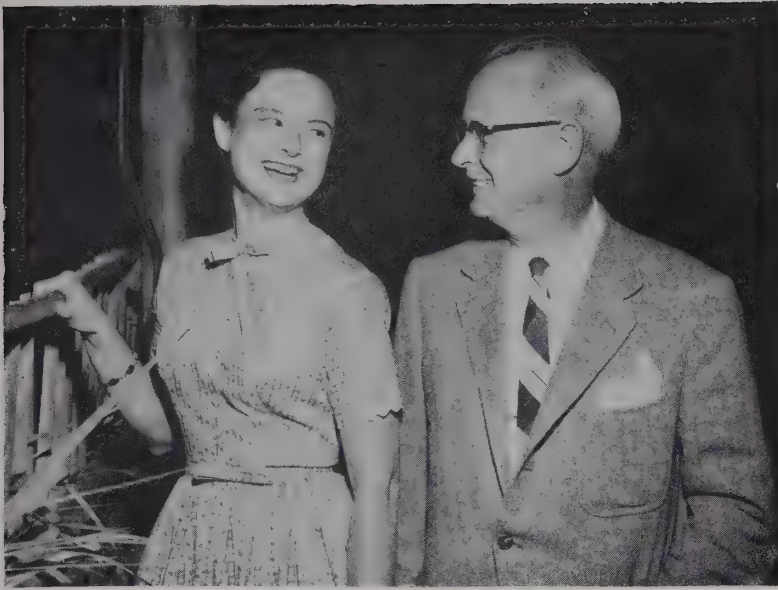

Championship play is nothing new to one of the world's few winners of golfdom's "triple crown," the redoubtable Tommy Armour. In a fast shuffle, Tommy recently switched from golf score cards to a bridge deck, playing with one of America's top bridge experts, Joseph Cohan of Boca Raton. Play in the continuing Armour-Cohan "tournament" alternates between Mary and Joseph Cohan's Winter home on Banyan Road, in Boca, and the Armour's new oceanfront suite in the lavish Grosvenor apartments, built last year in Delray by polo star Stewart Iglehart.

Dining recently in the Driftwood Club's chickee (a modernized version of the Seminole Indians' typical abode) on the oceanfront at Boca Raton, were Miss Ann Rentschler, her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Parke Patch of West Hartford, Conn., and Nathaniel Hamilton of Chicago, Bond Winston of Louisville, Ky., and Delray Beach, greets his daughter, "Mimi," on her arrival for a short mid-season vacation from Bennett Junior College, Millbrook, N. Y.

Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Patch have been houseguests at Miss Rentschler's Camino Real residence.

Other recent dinner party hosts at the Driftwood have included international tennis star Fred Perry and Mrs. Perry, Mrs. M. Jamison Steinbaugh, and the Countess Marie Antoinette d'Oultremont, all of Boca Raton. The Countess entertained her brother and sister-in-law, Chevalier and Mme. Jacques de Ghelcke of Belgium, who are making their annual visit to Florida, and Captain and Mrs. Cyril K. Wildman of Boca. From Delray, Dr. and Mrs. James R. Nieder have been recent party hosts, as have the Frederick L. Van Lenneps. Also, Bond Winston had as his charming dinner guest at Driftwood his daughter, "Mimi" Winston, who has been enjoying a mid-semester vacation. Miss Winston attends Bennett Junior College at Millbrook, N. Y.

On her return to Delray March 1, after a week's shopping jaunt in New York, Mrs. L. McLeod Helm will occupy her new waterfront residence on Sea Sage Drive. Before flying North last week, Mrs. Helm had as her Nassau Street houseguests her niece and namesake Lucy (Mrs. Thomas Carson) Schmidt, the Rev. Dr. Schmidt and the young couple's infant son, Peter, all of Bogota, Colombia.

During a recent Palm Beach County Animal League fund drive, local League supporters paraded their pups up and down main thoroughfares, "hounding" Delrayites for contributions. Among top cash "retrievers" was Sir Chester Newman, an out-sized canine whose owner, the puckish Melville F. "Hank" Riley, stoutly maintains Sir Chester is a full-blooded African lion hound.

Also scoring in the fund drive were pets of drive chairman Mrs. Joseph Meyers, Mrs. Myron Rogers and Mrs. William E. Flynn. Another canine solicitor who proved the efficacy of having a popular name was "Mamie," the Stewart C. Coey Jr.'s Welsh terrier, who sloughed her snooty kennel title, Cote de Neige Marigold, to use her "family name" during the drive.

Palm Beach Playhouse patrons Mary and Stewart Coey will be theatre party hosts this coming week when they entertain the Stuart Butlers of Bronxville, N. Y., and Ponte Vedra. The Butlers arrive in Delray this week aboard their new yacht, the "Mary Frances II."

Increasingly popular as a "rootin', tootin' party host" is tin whistle virtuoso Randy Hall, whose sophisticated Boynton Beach rendezvous, the "Whistle Stop," is becoming famous for its fine food — and fun. The irresponsible Randy is renowned as a top-notch impromptu entertainer at his own hoe-downs. Host Hall last week gave an elaborate cocktail party honoring Mrs. Henry A. Barton of New York and Southampton, L. I.

Recent dinner guests at the Whistle Stop have included two of the nation's top-ranking polo stars, Cecil Smith and Stewart Iglehart, the latter accompanied by his lovely wife Linda; Mr. and Mrs. Wright Duryea, Mr. and Mrs. John Ordway and Mrs. Alice Townsend, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. H. Carroll Chapin, Mrs. Frederick Uihlein, W. Cottingham Allen, and Robert Coleman, all of Delray; and the stunning Nedenia Rumbough and her husband, Stanley M. Rumbough Jr. Hailed as "another Grace Kelly," the former Nedenia Hutton recently signed a five-year contract with 20th Century Fox.

Another popular Boynton Beach host, Banyan Tree owner Frederic Danielski reports that his World War II confrere in international intelligence circles at Lisbon, Portugal, the now noted New York Metropolitan Museum curator Theodore Rousseau, will return to Florida this coming week, for visits in the Palm Beach-to-Miami areas.

Tips on What's Tops at the Shops

SUBTLE COLOR — Vin Rose — makes a short evening sheath of chiffon, its sleeveless Empire line sketched in satin, worn under a matching satin coat, somewhat slim — with modified fullness at the sides and cut with a collar which doubles as a demi-hood. J. J. Jonas, Ltd., 189 Bradley Place.

CARVED EMERALDS wing a jewelled bird in flight, with a marquise-cut ruby "eye" and baguette diamonds. Other birds in this aviary of jewelled clips combine sapphires, turquoise and diamonds; or rubies and an emerald "eye." Cartier, 340 Worth Avenue.

SOMETHING NEW in salon hairdrying rules out the "slow burn" — for this drier operates without intense heat, conceived on a premise of de-hydration. The salon is presided over by a staff of specialists in complete beauty services. Alben's, Ltd., 201 Worth Avenue.

THEATRICALY LARGE brilliants and baroque pearls are teamed in a necklace of stirring proportions; arranged as an espaliered grape cluster on a choker band of brilliants — each big around as a sixpence. Elizabeth Arden, 351 Worth Avenue.

MATCH FIVE PIECES of Italian handweave cotton sunwear — come up with sunfashion combinations innumerable! Shorts, halter tops, bra tops, trousers, and jackets carry through in one white handweave, framed and mitred in aqua interweave to square a neckline or the bottom of trousers or shorts. Florence Lustig, 243 Worth Avenue.

LOWESTOFT OF BLUE AND ROSE floral border, most diminutive, goes to the table as a platter for a bird — or use its grid as a frog for flowers. This antique piece adapts beautifully for centerpiece arrangements. William H. Plummer & Co., Ltd., 240 Worth Avenue.

AUSTRIAN PETIT POINT, 2,100 stitches to the square inch, has been set in a gilded silver frame, as an envelope, a pouch. Another in needle painting — each incredible stitch sewed as an Impressionist used his brush. From a handbag collection. Edward Flanagan, 247 Worth Avenue.

HERE'S A "GLOVE" for your feet! Feather-light casual shoes with molded soles in two-eyelet design to give you the ultimate in comfort. They come in brown or black calf, in black-white or brown-white calf, in sand reverse calf. Frank Brothers, 209 Worth Avenue.

LEATHER LEAVES the hunting field to make a glamorous huntress of a lady after dark! These supple leather jackets, soft as a glove, come collared in white or ranch mink, in fitted or boxy style, short and long lengths. In white, beige, gray, and pastels. Lillie Rubin, Inc., 211 Worth Avenue.

IZOD OF LONDON fashions a sponge-thirsty pullover, terrycloth inside and out, for beach or for basking. With a notched collar, short sleeves, and side slits, here's the top for the men who has set his sights on the sun. Schur, 312 Worth Avenue.

REMEMBRANCE OF THINGS past comes as full, black silk pajama pants, self-belted, to team with a blouson in jewel-printed silk, or in floral pattern — the silks available, too, as short shorts or Bermuda shorts, for mixing, matching. Hattie Carnegie, 318 Worth Avenue.

MEDITERRANEAN-LY VIVID — the paint-blues, yellow-golds, oranges, and vermilions — splash riotous color on Italian Portofino prints for beachwear. Coats, tops, shorts, pants of every cut — including those very tapered as to leg. Bonwit Teller, 301 Worth Avenue.

CRYSTAL CLEAR handbags have been embroidered with bead applique — that white caviar beading handled so expertly by Belgian craftsmen — the more attractively to obscure that clutter which sometimes appears in the purse of even the Neatest! Saks Fifth Avenue, 300 Worth Avenue.

CHOSEN ESPECIALLY for the "best time" of your life in Florida — a collection of clocks, precision-built without any metal to corrode in the dampness. They're encased in Chinese lacquer, walnut or mahogany, compatible with your own decor. Scott Jensen, Inc., 236 Worth Avenue.

RECENTLY RECEIVED — some important French antiques, among them a Regence mirror, a Regence console interestingly carved, a Louis XV chest of drawers — graceful and charming, and a dainty writing table of the Louis XV era. D. Lorraine Yerkes, 252 Worth Avenue.

THE FAIR SEX has taken over (but not entirely!) in this shop, heretofore wholly masculine. Women's cashmeres, dressing gowns, sportswear knits, now share display with French voile kerchiefs of nautical or Paisley print, to tuck in a belt or wear at the neck. Sulka, 305 Worth Avenue.

THE CABANA SHOP has the wearable unusual in beachwear, leisurewear, or even "formal dining-by-the-pool-wear." This cabana is across the way from the main salon. Sara Fredericks, The Palm Beach Towers.

THIS INDIAN MADRAS handwoven Cabana set — shirt-like tops and matched trunks — combines brown and tan, yellow and green, blue and gray, as a fine glen plaid for the man who prefers unostentatious showmanship at the beach. Brooks Men's Shop, 224 Worth Avenue.

HERE EXCLUSIVELY, the designs of Palm Beach's Florence Pritchett, who translates the sea into gowns of fluid grace . . . whose knowledge of our resort life gives her insight into what we like best to wear for cocktails, evening or at a ball. McDonald's, 208 Worth Avenue.

DISTINCTIVE BROWN and white stripes package this famous floating soap — both its paper wrap and box; in pink Checkmate, pink Ten West, blue Sans Gene, or yellow Gardenia, of floral fragrance each. Henri Bendel, 200 Worth Avenue.

A CUSTOM-MADE summery white imported batiste is embroidered in pale pink dots — the high round neckline banded in pink organdy edged in white Valenciennes lace, bands of the organdy overlaid with lace at waistline and above the hemline where pink velvet bows also play. Martha, 230 Worth Avenue.

THE IVY LEAGUE takes on a Y'all drawl in this cotton sportcoat, the fabric from Brittany. Of sombre vertical stripes, the coat is cut with narrow lapels, three buttons, comes in blue with black stripes, gold with gray, Palomino with gray. Walton's Resortwear, 225 Worth Avenue.

A GALANDS DESIGN that "passes muster" any day is the black-and-white checked sheer wool, made with notched lapels, flapped side pockets, and purely for fun — a back pocket below the waistline, reminiscent of a Revolutionary footsoldier's coat. Bramson, 222 Worth Avenue.

TEQUESTA

on the LOXAHATCHEE

Jupiter Inlet Beach Colony, Inc.

presents:

Tequesta, a secluded Country Club Community of restricted homesites near the Colony between Hobe Sound and Palm Beach.

Tequesta is located in a beautiful setting of tall pines just west of Jupiter Inlet and the famous Jupiter Lighthouse, on two miles of natural, high and dry Loxahatchee River frontage. Single residence homesites border the waterfront and the fairways of the eighteen hole championship golf course now under construction and designed by Golf Architect Dick Wilson.

Lots are now being offered to acceptable purchasers at half value investment prices. Write for Brochure R.

Presenting the dramatically new
LINCOLN FOR 1957

Dramatic New Styling Everywhere!

—You see it in the unmistakable newness of its Quadra-Lite Grille . . . in the dynamic sweep of its canted rear blades . . . in the crisp, clean flow of long low lines. Inside, rich fabrics . . . incredibly soft leathers . . . thrilling new decorator schemes contribute excitingly to Lincoln newness. Wherever you look, in fact, you will see that nothing has been overlooked to make this new Lincoln, truly, the finest in the fine car field.

Powerfully New Performance!—Out

on the road, you'll quickly discover that this most powerful Lincoln of all time is also the most effortless. The new 300-hp Lincoln engine is the strong, "silent" type—and instantly responsive. New, fast-action Turbo-Drive transmission serves up this great new power promptly—and Lincoln's Hydra-Cushion suspension cradles you in gentle comfort. In traffic or on a turnpike, you just don't seem to mind the miles in a Lincoln.

And more . . . for in a Lincoln, everything you touch turns to power! Doors lock electrically. New power window vents open or close as you press a button. New 6-way power seat adjusts to the most comfortable angle at the touch of a finger. Why, you can even lubricate a Lincoln while you're driving—by touching a button. Lincoln's complete array of power luxuries brings a new kind of ease to fine car driving. Come see for yourself. Unmistakably . . . the finest in the fine car field.
